

L'EMPEREUR

L'Empereur voulait prendre Ratisbonne.

Les généraux, avant l'assaut, passaient des revues de leurs troupes. L'un d'eux, nommé baron de l'Empire à Eckrauhl, était un jeune homme de trente ans, doux au bivoac, sévère en marche, bon avec ses soldats. On l'appelait Duclos, ou mieux le baron Duclos. Il examina d'abord ses grenadiers, anciennes barbes qui avaient vu Arcole, Rivoli, Castiglione, les Pyramides, Ansterlitz. Quand il arriva en face des lignes, le général salua l'Aigle et ouvrit les rangs. Et Duclos s'avança dans l'intervalle, suivi de son état-major.

Il passa ainsi la revue du premier rang.

Le général connaissait tous ses hommes; ils avaient de trente à cinquante ans et les généraux se battaient pour les avoir sous leurs ordres, ces vieux qui attendaient la croix vingt ans, et qui tutoyaient l'Empereur.

—Toi, je t'ai vu au Mont Thabor, dit Duclos.

—Oui, mon général, vous étiez capitaine.

—Et toi, un fourrier d'Austerlitz.

Parfois, Duclos redressait un bonnet. Au milieu du quatrième rang, il s'arrêta en face d'un homme et, immobile, passif, le contempla.

L'homme était vieux. Le général, indifférent, compta les boutons, mania les armes, toisa le soldat de la tête aux pieds: —Pas propre!.....

Et, de son doigt, il indiqua sur la gibberne une tâche de boue. Pourquoi ne te conformes-tu pas à l'ordonnance? Tu as l'honneur d'être légionnaire, et tu te présentes avec de la boue.

L'homme devint blême; il ouvrit la bouche pour parler ses mains tremblaient. Mais Duclos continuait la revue; il était passé.

Le tambour donna le signal de l'attaque. Les échelles amenées pour assaillir la ville étaient par terre. Lannes ayant demandé 50 hommes pour planer 500. Mais, à peine sortis de la grange qui les masquait, les 50 premiers furent 50 morts. 50 autres reprirent les échelles et coururent aux remparts. La mitraille les coucha tous.

Moreaud se retourna: —Duclos, s'écria-t-il, faites appel à ceux d'Austerlitz!

—Soldats d'Hohenlinden, d'Éna! Grenadiers d'Eylau et de Friedland, resterez-vous immobiles devant l'ennemi? Vers êtes Français, l'Empereur vous regarde, et voici une ville qu'il faut enlever!

Aucune des régiments ne bougea; mais un grenadier sortit des rangs.

Duclos pâlit. —Personne ne suivra donc ce brave? dit-il.

Il n'eut pas le temps de continuer et les régiments se ruèrent.

—En avant! cria Duclos.

Le vieux grenadier tirait déjà sur la crête des remparts. Alors la danse commença, et après trois heures, les canons autrichiens se turent; la ville était prise.

—Général, dit l'Empereur à Duclos, faites former le carré. Quel est votre effectif?

—A peu près cinq cents hommes; ce sont mes régiments qui ont le plus souffert. Napoléon dit quelques mots à voix basse au général.

Les troupes avaient porté les armes et il s'était fait un grand silence. Là, étaient ceux que le général avait vus le matin, non plus brillants comme à la parade, mais suants, sanglants, beaux d'au-lace. Son œil se porta d'escoade en escoade, et, tout à coup, l'épée haute, ayant trouvé sans doute ce qu'il cherchait:

—Au nom de l'empereur! cria le général, que le soldat monte le premier à l'assaut s'avance!

Un homme sortit des rangs et s'approcha. C'était le même qui s'était attiré un reproche de Duclos. Timide, il marchait en baissant la tête, gêné par une blessure au front dont le sang noyait ses yeux, ce qui l'obligeait à s'écuyer de la main gauche continuellement. Lorsqu'il fut au milieu du carré, à quatre pas de son général, il présenta les armes, et le baron Duclos, pâle commanda: —Tambours! Ouvrez le ban.

Trente caisses battirent ensemble d'un seul coup. L'homme frissonna, ivre de gloire.

—Tu étais d'Égypte? demanda l'Empereur.

—Oui, sire.

—Et ta croix?

—Gagnée à Lodi.

C'est bon, dit l'Empereur. Faites, Duclos.

Le général s'approcha des troupes et de sa voix de bataille, il cria:

—Grenadiers et tambours! vous reconnaissez désormais pour caporal le soldat Michel Duclos, arrivé le premier dans Ratisbonne et blessé au front, et vous lui obéirez en tout ce qu'il vous commandera pour le bien du service et l'exécution des règlements militaires; "Fermez le ban".

Puis il descendit de cheval, embrassa le grenadier, et on vit que les deux hommes pleuraient.

—Baron, demanda l'Empereur, pourquoi ce brave était-il simple grenadier?

—Je l'ignore, sire. Cependant, il avait droit à sa retraite depuis l'Italie. C'est moi qui lui ai conseillé de se rengager. Une balle peut m'atteindre, et, du moins il sera là...

—Vous connaissez donc cet homme?

—C'est mon père.

PIERRE BONNEFONT.

LES DROITS DE LA MINORITE

Du Moniteur de Levis

Le premier ministre, sir Mackenzie Bowell, a publiquement déclaré au sénat, en juillet dernier, que la politique de son gouvernement était de rendre à la minorité catholique du Manitoba tous les droits dont elle avait été dépossédée par la législation inique de 1890.

Voici ses paroles: "La politique adoptée par le gouvernement l'a été à ma suggestion et en vue de grouper les éléments divers du cabinet afin de pouvoir être en position d'agir de concert et de déclarer conjointement, en temps voulu, ce que moi-même j'ai toujours déclaré dans cette chambre et en dehors de son enceinte, à mes amis particuliers comme au public tout entier, à savoir que nous devons accorder à la minorité manitoibaine les droits dont elle a été dépossédée par la législation de cette province.

"Je l'ai déjà déclaré en toute franchise personnellement je ne suis pas en faveur des écoles séparées, mais j'ai également déclaré que d'après ma ferme conviction, Manitoba n'est entré dans la confédération que sur la promesse formelle, acceptée et intercalée dans sa constitution, que la minorité de cette province aurait pour toujours droite à des écoles séparées, telles qu'elles existent dans Québec et Ontario. Aussi quelle que soit mon opinion personnelle, je me considère, comme homme public lié à l'accomplissement entier des promesses qui ont été violées par la province de Manitoba, mais à l'accomplissement desquelles je veux engager mon parti, l'entraînant dans cette direction aussi loin qu'il est possible."

Le même jour, en réponse à des questions posées par le sénateur Bernier, le premier ministre promettait que la législation réparatrice à être introduite serait basée sur le jugement du Conseil Privé et sur les dispositions du remédial order.

M. Foster faisait la même promesse solennelle à la Chambre des Communes.

La législation réparatrice qui devra être soumise au parlement à sa prochaine session devra donc réaliser les promesses qui ont été faites.

Il n'y a pas à sortir du cadre tracé par les déclarations ministérielles. La bonne foi du gouvernement est engagée, sa parole est au jeu.

CE QUI SE PASSE A WASHINGTON

Le 54e Congrès des Etats-Unis, en session à Washington depuis quelques jours seulement, a pris une attitude dans l'affaire Venezuela qui pourrait causer une guerre entre la République américaine et l'Angleterre et placer le Canada dans une position critique. Dans son message annuel au Congrès, le président Cleveland déclara que son gouvernement a informé l'Angleterre qu'il soutiendrait la doctrine Monroe dans les relations des puissances européennes avec les pays du continent américain; c'est à dire, "les Etats-Unis s'opposent fermement à l'agrandissement forcé de tout pouvoir européen de ses possessions territoriales sur ce continent et conséquemment refuseront à l'Angleterre le droit d'agrandir son territoire dans la Guyane anglaise contre la volonté de la république de Venezuela." La proposition prise par le président Cleveland a été acceptée par le Congrès, et celui-ci a été saisi d'une proposition allant encore plus loin que le message présidentiel, posant le principe qu'à l'avenir les contrées d'Amérique ne seront plus sujettes aux projets de colonisation de la part des puissances européennes. "Avec les colonies ou dépendances actuelles des puissances européennes, dit la proposition, nous ne sommes pas intervenus et nous intervenons point, mais concernant les pays qui ont déclaré et maintenu leur indépendance, tout pouvoir européen essayant de venir contrôler en quoi que ce soit destinée sera considéré et traité par nous comme ennemi des Etats Unis."

Le gouvernement des Etats-Unis demande à l'Angleterre de soumettre à l'arbitrage son différend avec la république de Venezuela. Les ministres de Sa Majesté la Reine Victoria refusent, paraît-il, de se soumettre à la dictée de Washington, et l'affaire peut devenir assez sérieuse pour être suivie d'une guerre où le Canada serait possiblement le terrain des hostilités.

A ce propos le "Boston Standard" dit: "Le cri d'alarme jeté par certains journaux allant à dire que la question de Venezuela pourrait causer la guerre entre les Etats Unis et l'Angleterre, n'a aucune raison d'être. Une guerre entre la Grande Bretagne et les Etats-Unis serait une grande calamité "a hideous calamity" et aurait pour effet, non seulement de paralyser le commerce américain aussi bien que le commerce anglais, mais encore serait une tache qui ferait honte à la civilisation."

Toronto, 9.—Les deux frères Hyams, qui viennent d'échapper à une condamnation pour le meurtre du jeune Wells, après deux procès consécutifs, ont comparu en cour de police ce matin, pour répondre à l'accusation de tentative de meurtre sur Mde Harry Hyams, femme de l'un des défendeurs. Le procès a été remis à quelques jours, à la demande de l'avocat des prisonniers. Ceux-ci paraissent tout confiants et en semblent pas douter de l'heureuse issue de leur nouveau procès.
