Best Buy In Meat Often Isn't One You Planned

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"The meat bill need not be higher now than it was a year ago if the ladies will just play ball with it."

The Chef cocked his bonnet and continued, "The trick is to balance the different meats you buy both as to kind and price. To do this, one must keep an open mind and a closed pocketbook."

"In other words, select the best buys in meat, not always the cut or kind you had planned, and keep the pocketbook closed if tempted to make an extravagant purchase."

GOOD PHILOSOPHY

"That's good meat-buying philosophy, Chef," I said. "Let's put it into practice in planning the week's menus and each day feature an entree based on a less expensive cut of meat, cooked to produce fine flavor."

"Then for tomorrow's dinner Madame, I suggest a hot pot. This calls for lean beef and any cut is suitable."

"I shall use beef stew meat," which I shall tenderize before starting to cook with one teaspoon powdered meat tenderizer dusted over and mixed in for each pound of beef, 30 minutes before cooking.

HOLLAND DISH

"This hot pot is a Holland dish and takes two and a half hours to bake in a moderate oven. I would like to prepare it this morning, Madame, ready to cook. It can be put in to bake this afternoon."

"Perhaps you will be kind enough to put it in the oven at four-thirty. I would like to go to a seed store and buy the seeds for my 'jardin des tomates melanges'."

"Which means, Chef," I prompted.

"A garden in which I plan to raise several kinds of tomatoes this summer—big beefsteak tomatoes, yellow, white, plum, pear-shaped and cherry tomatoes."

Holland Hot Pot Dinner: Green soybean-scallion salads, holland beef hot pot, beets piquante, apple-rhubarb-raisin compote, chocolate cake, coffee, tea or milk.

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6.

Green Soybean-Scallion Salads: Open and drain 1 (1 lb.) can green soybeans. Add 1/4 c. thin-sliced scallion bulbs and 1/4 c. not-sweet French dressing. Chill. Serve heaped in lettuce nests. Garnish with red radishes.

Holland Beef Hot Pot: Peel 8 large white potatoes. Slice 1/2 in. thick. Place in a 3-qt. casserole or bean pot. Add 1 1/2 lbs. any cut of tenderized raw lean beef cut in bite-sized cubes. Spread over 3 c. sliced peeled onions.

Into 1 (No. 2) can tomato stir 2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. paprika and 1/2 tsp. pepper. Spread over the meat; slightly stir in. Cover. Bake about 2 1/2 hrs. in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. or until the meat is bite-tender. Half an hour before serving, stir in 1/4 c. yogurt or dairy sour cream.

BETS PIQUANTE
Drain the liquid from 1 (No. 2 1/2) can whole beets. Add 1/2 tsp. vinegar and 1/2 tsp. pickling spice. Boil 5 min.
Strain. Return to the saucepan. Add the beets and 1 tsp. butter. Heat and serve

THE ONE TRUE NATIONAL ADVERTISING MEDIUM

IS

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER... because

Canada's 4,000,000 families buy 3,940,000 daily newspapers every day. That's national coverage. Every one of these millions of readers has the opportunity to see every advertisement in the newspaper. Only a few of these people can be reached by any radio, television or magazine message.

That's why national product advertisers invest more of their advertising money in the daily newspapers of Canada than in any other medium.

Unlike television and radio, newspaper advertising is always ready and waiting to suit the time, place and convenience of the consumer. The newspaper is always selling—and always selling more people than any other medium.

If you want to sell more products to more people, use the daily newspaper—the one medium that reaches just about everybody.

If you want to sell more, recommend that the manufacturers of the products you sell support your local selling efforts by placing their national advertising in the daily newspaper—the one true national advertising medium.
