MR. AND MRS. G. W. MUIRHEAD

St. John's Church Has A Lovely Spring Wedding

White and yellow chrysanthemums and potted plants created the floral setting in the St. John's Anglican Church, St. Eleanors, for a very pretty wedding when Janet Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Gordon of Charlottetown became the bride of George Wayne Muirhead, son of Mrs. George Muirhead and the late Mr. Muirhead of St. Eleanors.

Rev. Dr. G. R. Harrison performed the ceremony at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon, April 11th. Mr. John Leuty was in charge of the wedding music and accompanied Mr. A. E. Wedlock as he sang "The Lord's Prayer" previous to the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a suit of light blue wool with matching straw hat and black and white accessories. She carried a white prayer book trimmed with white streamers and corsage of red roses — gift of the groom.

Miss Jane Morrison, the bridesmaid, wore a cornflower blue suit with white and black accessories. She carried a black corded purse trimmed with a corsage of Tawny gold roses.

Mr. Harold MacNevin was groomsman. Messrs. David Bernard and Claude Lyle ushered the guests to their pews.

Mrs. Gordon chose for her daughter's wedding a suit of gray with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was attired in a turquoise dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Mulberry Lodge, where the bride's table was centred with the wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, encircled with yellow and white 'mums and lighted tapers.

For a honeymoon it the Maritimes, the bride donned a gray coat over her suit and wore black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Muirhead will reside in St. Eleanors.

TRINITY W. A.

The Senior W. A. of Trinity Church held their monthly meeting on Thursday evening, April 24th in the social hall. The devotional for the evening was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Carr and Mrs. Wendell Mayne.

The president, Mrs. Garfield Taylor, presided over the meeting. The secretary, Mrs. Donald Smith, read the minutes of the previous meeting. The closing meeting will be in May and members were asked to bring their Canada Packers labels.

The meeting closed with the benediction. This was followed by lunch served by members of the Ashford Group.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Some researchers report that the most effective tooth-and-gum cleansing is done with a new brush which has rows of stiff bristles in the center, softer bristles around the outside. The center bristles, strong enough to clean teeth, are kept from damaging gums by the softer bristels, which massage gums.

ELLEN'S DIARY

James Wisely Comments On Fires And Insurance

"See the smoke away off, Ellen — there's a fire somewhere" James commented this morning stopping a moment in the yard. He was carrying a forkful of hay on his shoulder to feed some "'out-patient" of animal because at present with the seasonal increase and odd buyings of younglings, the buildings like the spring are "bustin' out all over."

Smoke lingered above the distant farmlands, lightly veiling the valleys, and hills.

"There's a bush fire or two over on the mainland. It could be from those" we offered.

James nodded. "Well, wherever it is, it's a bad time of year for a fire. Later when things green it's not quite so dangerous, but how fast it does run in fields on withered grass and bracken. I've seen spring- fires in my time, Ellen and just to see that smoke leaves me with a weak feeling. I can't understand for the life of me why people aren't more careful about setting a fire. They light a heap of trash from cleaning up the yards, or it may be a pile of brush when they're fencing, without oensidering the direction or force of the wind, or the time of day — the evening is the best time for burning — and soon they are in trouble."

"Yes" we agreed "folks should be mighty careful about fires this time of year."

"I think it was only last night" he continued on another thought "I was reading that spring too is the worst time of year for chimney fires. A fire commissioner in one of the other provinces in the west it was — was urging householders to have pipes and chimneys and furnaces cleaned to reduce the fire-hazard. You know spring winds are often high. . a flue catches. . . and sometimes that's all that is needed to get one into difficulties."

"It's been a while since we cleaned ours" we said.

"Too long by rights, Ellen! We must attend to them one of these mornings.

"You know" he confided, "I always feel relieved when the stock gets away to pasture. All through the stabling, there's that dread of a fire which could spell disaster and even the end of the famming. Though I did rest easier after we had the wiring looked over and any doubtful pieces replaced last Fall. It doesn't take it too long to get faulty in the stables and piggeries — and it's better always to be 'sure about it than sorry'."

"Farm-folks, and all should take thought too in regard to the expiry date on the fire insurance policies they carry, sometimes they're so busy they neglect to renew them." we said.

"And 'No insurance' could add more misery to the already sad tale" James nodded.

The black cat, handsome plume of tail sasting a pretty shadow in the "lamplight" stalks now to the door. Moonlight lies across and along the night-paths.

James noting the clock's chime, leaves the old armchair and his reading and turns his socked feet toward the stair-door. ' Too late, too late, Ellen" he says sternly. 'We should be to bed these times with the chickens."

Until tomorrow — — Diary — Goodnight. . . . .

BEAT OLD WOMAN

MONTREAL (CP)—Two armed, masked men Wednesday beat 72-year-old Mrs. Anna Harvey in her home, tied her up and made off with $2,500 in cash and $1,000 in bonds. Two aged boarders in Mrs. Harvey's home were also tied up. Mrs. Harvey was treated in hospital for head cuts and bruises and wrist wounds.

Women Are Praised For Work In Traffic Safety

"The Women of Canada are rallying to the battle against death on the highways," said Hon. Gordon Taylor, chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, in a statement issued on the eve of the conference's fourth meeting in Edmonton.

Mr. Taylor praised the highway safety activities of such organisations as Altrusa, Soroptimist, Zonta and other clubs, the Women's Institutes of all provinces, the National Council of Women.

The president of this council, Mrs. Rex Eaton of Dollarton, B. C., is a member of CHSC's executive.

"In all these groups, and in many more organizations of women in Canada, active participation in the fight for safety on the nation's highways is becoming stronger as the months pass," Mr. Taylor said.

To encourage this work the Conference will make formal presentation of its first annual Carol Lane Awards at its Edmonton meeting on May 7. A cheque for $1,000 and a bronze statuette symbolizing women's protective instincts will go to the 7th Cub and Scout Ladies Auxiliary of North Vancouver; the Oddekah Club of Moose Jaw will receive $500 and a plaque of the statuette, and $250 and a similar plaque will be presented to the provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union of Saskatchewan. These awards, designed to encourage and reward Canadian women in highway safety work, are made possible through a grant from Shell Oil of Canada, after whose women's travel director, Carol Lane, they are named.

Mary Pauline Currie Is Bride Of Cst. Coutts

At an impressive double ring ceremony Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Darrel S. Moffat Memorial United Church in Tilbury, Rev. D. Graham Tipple united in marriage, Miss Mary Pauline Currie, and Constable Gordon Sinclair Coutts. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Currie of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Coutts, of Tilbury East.

In the church decorated by yellow mums and blue carnations and lilies which blended in with the colors of the church, the organ was presided over by Mrs. Munson Bertino, and Mr. B. Gordon-Kay, soloist sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over white bridal satin, the long-torsoed bodice featured a round neckline of appliqued flowers, and the long sleeves ended in lily points over the bride's hands. Her elbow length veil of illusion was caught to her head by a wreath of beaded lilies and orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of five camillia's, red roses, entwined with stephanotis and English ivy.

Miss Betty Currie was her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Jack Cooper, sister of the groom and Miss Patricia Dorin were bridesmaids. All were identically gowned in floor length gowns of pink nylon net, featuring sculptured bodices of shades of pink satin, and wearing tiny headpieces of matching pink entwined with pearls. They carried bouquets of a camillia, pink roses, and matching streamers of ivy and ribbon.

Little Sherry Ann Coutts, niece of the groom was almost identically gowned, in pink net over pink taffeta, and a rose sash. She wore a wreath of pink flowers, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses.

Wearing a red dress jacket the same color as that of the dress uniform of the groom, little Kim Cooper, nephew of the groom, served him as ring bearer.

Mr. Emiel Teorney assisted as best man, and the ushers were Barry Coutts, brother of the groom, and David Currie, brother of the bride.

Dinner for relatives and close friends was served at the Tilbury Hotel immediately after the wedding.

At the reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall Saturday evening, the bride's mother was in a state blue lace dress over pink taffeta, accentuated by a squirrel neckpiece and wearing white and blue accessories, and a pink orchid corsage. Mrs. Coutts, the groom's mother, wore a teal blue sheath dress featuring a shawl neckline, and a small sculptured hat of matching material with brown accessories and a pink orchid corsage.

For her wedding trip, the bride donned a gold dress of Parisian wool and accessories of brown, and her gift from her husband, a mink cape.

Constable and Mrs. Coutts will reside at Portage La Prairie where he has just been transferred. Guests at the wedding were from Charlottetown, P.E.I., Halifax, N.S., Dearborn, Michigan, Camp Borden, Ont., and Highgate, Muirkirk and Windsor.

Constable Coutts, is a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and was married in his dress uniform.

MARY HAWORTH

Such Defiance Has Meaning

Dear Mary Haworth: I don't know how to start this letter. I have tried to solve my problem but I can't seem to find the solution. You see my work is such that it requires a great deal of time. In the past this hasn't seemed to matter much; but since my wife's death, five years ago, I am afraid that I haven't given my daughter sufficient attention.

It is only recently that I have gotten to feel that she resents me. I can't understand it. I have given her everything that she could possibly want.

Even though my work is so demanding I have tried to be with her as often as I could possibly manage. But lately she does things just to defy me. When I consented to buy her a motor scooter against my better judgement — she persisted in going faster than the speed laws permit. It was the same story when I had given her a car.

She has gotten into much trouble and caused me so much worry that I am afraid my work is being hampered. As a professional man I am not able to take time off to handle this matter myself. Please tell me what I can do. — G.P.

Dear G.P.: The fact is, the emotionally neglected but materially indulged youngster usually does resent the parent's or guardian's habitually self - engrossed attitude. Hence eventually does reject the parent's claims to authority, in a challenging, defiant way.

You may wonder why this resentment and rejection, when one might expect appreciation, gratitude and co-operation, in return for liberal favors absent mindedly granted.

Well, I think the answer is that the materially bought - off child senses that she (or he) has been shortchanged on the score of true belonging, or emotional closeness, and real relatedness. And is intuitively impatient, therefore, with the parent's or guardian's sometime (or belated) professions of caring greatly about the spoiled child's welfare.

By insistent disobedience to the letter or the spirit of the alarmed parent's wishes, the materially spoiled but socially overlooked child is saying, in effect: "What's it to you what I do? You don't really care what happens to me; you never have."

Also by reckless behavior, that endangers life or property, the defiant adolescent is bidding for concentrated and-or solicitous attention at whatever cost—without clearly sensing the heart-hungry, love-seeking motive back of his (or her) troublemaker impulse.

WANT TIME MOST.

What children most want of their parents in childhood is a generous continuous sharing of time and interests, and understanding, and feelings. And this is of course a very taxing contribution from the parents' angle in view of all other demands on their strength. Fortunately, however, most parents enjoy the rich rewards of the exchange, if they invest themselves in it, and faithfully sustain it, by loyally giving the children top priority in their daily scheme of things.

As for what you may do, to improve the quality of your present exchange with your daughter, I think the first thing is—don't take on a load of guilt about the problem that has developed Undoubtedly it isn't all your fault. A girl needs a mother especially to keep her head level, during adolescence.

Second, study yourself with psychiatric help, to get an approximate picture of what's been going on, and getting worse, in the father-daughter relationship. Any good specialist can pretty well figure, from the details of the unhappy story, just where each is blindly failing to meet the other's mixed - up expectations. When you begin to "see" the problem from the inside, psychologically, you'll be in the best position to do something constructive about it.—M.H.

ST. ANTHONY'S C.W.L.

The regular meeting of the St. Anthony's sub-division of the C.W.L. was held on April 20th at the home of Mrs. Alban D. Arsenault. 15 members attended. The spiritual convener promoted a discussion on dressing respectfully when attending mass and receiving Holy Communion.

She also suggested observing the feast of Our Lady of Good Counsel by a perpetual rosary by members. All the other conveners gave their reports.

The annual meeting is to be held in the parish hall on Monday, April 28th. Fr. Pitre reported a satisfactory amount having been collected for the social welfare drive.

Delegates gave a very interesting report of the annual T. B. League meeting. The lottery quilt which was made by Mrs. James Arsenault was on display and a committee named to average for its lottery.

Meeting adjourned by blessing by the spiritual director followed by the Act of Consecration to the Blessed Virgin. Refreshments were served.
