Employes Discharged.—The Boston correspondent of the St. John Sun says: On Christmas eve several of the large dry goods stores by way of making it pleasant for several hundred of their employes, served them with notice that they would not be wanted after this year. The largest number of employes affected was Houghton & Dutton's, where two hundred were dismissed without a moment's warning. A number of people who came from the provinces were included in the number, and they are now having no easy time finding situations elsewhere. It seems that it is the custom of many of the larger firms to let a certain percentage of their employes go after the Christmas rush is over, but the number discharged this year is considerably larger than that of other years.

Lecture Last Night.—A goodly audience greeted Rev. G. M. Campbell at the lecture in the basement of the Methodist Church last evening. A subject so vast and varied presents new features at every turn, and the lecturer's easy grasp of their magnificence and importance was demonstrated by his eloquent and graphic descriptions of the various triumphs of art and architecture, an aggregation of which composed the "White City" and its furnishings. Under Mr. Haszard's skillful manipulation the stereoptican views were simply grand. The various types of war vessels, as seen in the naval review in New York harbor, were much appreciated, and when our own good ship Blake was presented the audience broke out in rapturous applause. The applause which greeted "Her Gracious Majesty," too, showed that all our "trooly loyal" people have not yet crossed the Line. The audience then joined heartily in singing "God Save the Queen" and retired.

School Examination.—The children attending Birch Hill public school, taught by Mr. George Cameran, underwent a searching oral examination previous to their dismissal for the Christmas holidays. The trustees, along with a large number of parents interested in the welfare of the pupils, were present and seemed highly gratified with the marked progress made since their last visit to the school. Rev. James R. McKay, by request, assisted the teacher in questioning the children on the subjects taught, and at the closing, along with Messrs. Doherty, Macarthur, Campbell and Dobie, congratulated Mr. Cameron on the excellent result of his labors. Mr. Cameron, since he took charge of this school, has proved himself to be an intelligent, industrious and painstaking teacher, and we trust he will remain long among us to help the youths under his care mount the educational ladder. He very kindly presented each scholar with a quantity of sweets and a Christmas card, foretastes, we hope, of further good things awaiting them during this festive season.—Com.

The Weather.—Easterly shifting to-night to westerly gales; a fall of sleet or rain to-day, turning colder again Saturday.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION AT MORELL.

On the evening of the 30th ult., several representatives of the parishioners of Morell called upon Rev. A. McAulay, their parish priest, and presented him with a beautiful sleigh and whip, accompanied by the following address:

To the Rev. Alexander McAulay, P. P., St. Joseph's Church, Morell.

Respected and Dear Father:

Although you have been many months in our midst, yet this is the first suitable opportunity that presented itself to us whereby we, on behalf of the parishioners of Morell, could testify to you the esteem in which you are held by them and the good will they entertain towards your person and office. You came to us under auspices which required no small sacrifice on your part, and the patient and zealous manner in which you labored under such trying circumstances, do not, and indeed could not, fail to attract the love and attention of those under your care.

We cannot let pass unheeded the noble bearing you exhibited when assuming the duties and responsibilities as first resident pastor of Morell, or the elevation of purpose which characterized your administration during the short time you have been with us, without giving you some tangible proof that it was noticed by us, and that it imprinted in the hearts of your parishioners a seal of affection and filial confidence which we trust the ever dying associations of life will be powerless to remove. For every labor calculated to promote the welfare of this community, either temporal or spiritual, you have lent a hearty approval and shown an untiring zeal. You have endeavored to work in unanimity with us while we have sought to co-operate with you, and we feel happy in being able to say that thus far we have succeeded. In accomplishing these happy results, the distance you came to meet us struck that responsive chord, which in every human heart needs only to be touched, and the sounds yielded are the sweetest notes of gratitude.

In conclusion allow us to present you with a slight testimonial of the place you hold in the affection of your parishioners who all unite in wishing you in your new abode, A Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Signed on behalf of the parishioners of Morell, John D Sinnott, S S Arsenault, Patrick Donovan, Patrick Hughes, Frank Bossiter, John Murphy, Peter Byrne.

Father McAulay was taken completely by surprise. For a moment he was overcome by such a formal expression of gratitude. In reply, he made a few short and touching remarks, thanking them for the kind and helping spirit they had ever manifested towards him. He seemed pleased that his labours were appreciated and that the manner in which he discharged the manifold duties connected with incipient parochial life had merited such an applause from his parishioners. He said:

"It is true that I have been on mission work before I came here, in the city of Charlottetown, but there my duty was merely to follow the wise instructions of His Lordship and no grave responsibility fell on my shoulders. Unexperienced, therefore, in the work of a parish priest, and I may add, a total stranger, I have come amongst you, and as such, necessarily, I have made mistakes. But it pleases me to know that with a keen and scrutinizing gaze—no superficial glance—you have passed over silently the clouds of my faults and behind them you have discovered a star of virtue worthy of the gift with which I am recompensed to-day. I prize not so much the intrinsic value of your precious gift, but I regard it as the spontaneous offering of your heart, as an indication of something of far greater value—I look upon it in the light that you have viewed my actions according to the intentions in which they were performed. In your estimation of me, though far above the original, you have imagined an ideal pleasing to yourself, to which it shall be my constant endeavor to attain, and thereby render myself agreeable to all my parishioners. It is beyond my power now to respond fitly to your address or to thank you sufficiently for your generous present, for the grandeur of the theme overburdens my faculties and renders me unable to express the emotion and gratitude I feel within my breast. I feel quite elated, however, to think that my labors amongst you, rendered sweet by your co-operation, have merited your appreciation, and I only hope that the happiness and prosperity you so kindly wish me during the incoming year in my new abode may also be yours a hundred fold.

OBITUARY.

A shade of sadness was cast over Long River, New London, when it was announced that Mrs. Power had passed to her eternal reward beyond the skies. Although unwell during the greater part of the past summer, her life was not considered in immediate danger. A few days before her death she gradually grew worse, and despite able medical advice, the care and attention of loving and anxious friends, who did every thing that human mind or heart could suggest to relieve her sufferings, she calmly and peacefully passed away on Friday, Dec. 28th, in the sixty-eighth year of her age. The deceased lady will be much missed in the community, and in the church of which she was a warm advocate and consistent member. She was born in the parish of Kilmore, County Monaghan, Ireland, in 1827, and emigrated a young girl with her parents to this Island in 1844. Later she became the wife of the late Thomas Power, and together by toil, perseverance and righteousness, they prospered and built up a most comfortable home for themselves and family. Mrs. Power was a person of excellent character, just and honest in all her dealings, a faithful wife, a considerate and affectionate mother, who ever and always performed her maternal functions in a manner above reproach. This duty, so faithfully and conscientiously performed should be a fitting monument to her memory, which will long be held sacred by her family and friends with gratitude and reverence. She leaves behind her ten children, twenty-two grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers (one of whom is a Christian Brother in a Toronto Monastery) to mourn their loss. Her body was conveyed to the Church at Indian River, and laid beside that of her husband. To all her relatives and friends we tender our sincere sympathy. May her soul rest in peace.—Com.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

Sir,—Of great interest to the farming world and perhaps to the world at large, is the announcement, recently made that a German has discovered that caustic soda and potash can be obtained in large quantities from salt water. This is one of the wonderful results of electrical science which promises to be far reaching in its effects. The process appears to be simple. The electric current is run into tanks containing the water and decomposition of the original elements takes place, the product being as already described. Already the new products are being sent out from the salt wells of Michigan, and it is quite probable the wells of Ontario will soon be utilized in the same way. The sea water can also be used but not being so strong, the process requires a longer time to produce the same effect, and yet we cannot doubt that in course of time works of that kind will spring up. I have read that an American has constructed a double vessel, which he has securely moored in a rapid running river. In the middle he has placed a large water-wheel, the shaft of which runs on bearings in both sections of the vessel, thus connecting the two together. The whole is placed crosswise of the river, the paddles dip into the stream, the vessel rises and falls with the tide, and in this way the wheel is made to drive a large dynamo, the current from which is brought ashore to drive machinery, and also to light a city. There are several harbors in this Island where wheels could be driven in this manner, notably that of Souris West

This lovely bud, so young, so fair,
Called hence by earthly doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower
In paradise could bloom.
E're sin could harm, or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care,
The opening bud to heaven conveyed,
And bade it blossom there.

No Faking!

There is a good deal of it done in Charlottetown; asking a man $20.00 for a Suit of Clothes and then take $17.00—all that it was worth in the first instance. We are not used to doing business this way, and can safely say it's the only place in Canada where they do it.

FAKIRS is the correct name for people who do business that way. Distinctly understand that our asking price is our selling price, and that price is 25 per cent. below what competitors buy at.

PLEASE NOTE!—There are big bargains for you at our store in Suits, Overcoats, Reefers and Ulsters, made to order in the latest style; also in Gents' Furnishings. Terms strictly cash.

Very Becoming

is the invariable comment passed upon our Spectacles. The glasses look well, and their possessors look and see not only well but much better than they could without them. It is prudent to look well to your eyes, and correct at once any defect or peculiarity of vision by the use of properly fitted glasses that relieve the sight from being overstrained and impaired. The eye often needs the rest that glasses afford, and delay in the matter may entail serious consequences. It pays to save money, but it pays far better to save your sight. Besides Glasses, we also have some very handsome Opera Glasses that would make a nice present for Xmas.
