RENEWING THE USUAL BACKYARD RELATIONS =

Ultra-Modern Robins

Our people at the Kingston plant enjoyed watching a couple of robins build a nest with shreds of aluminum foil. The robins seemed delighted to find their new building material so easy on the wings, so soft, so cosy. But... A wind arose. The nest was so light that it blew away. The robins rebuilt with the same material; but more firmly anchored.

While we have no ambition to supply the world's robins with nesting material, we are eager to provide aluminum for home-building humans — and for the thousand other uses of this modern metal. Therefore, our huge expansion programme in Quebec and British Columbia. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).
