MRS. RUTH MacLEOD,
 Secretary.

DD, L.L.D. former minister of Education and Minister of the Church in New York, said Tuesday as he addressed 76 grad.uates at the commencement exercises of Saint Dunstan's University.

Speaking on "Education and moral values", the island-born minister said that divorcing moral and spiritual values from education means that "we are sidetracking a wide dimension of the life of man. A curriculum that is scraped clean of every emphasis on moral and spiritual values does not provide an education adequate to the stern demands of our time. It is important, too, that church-run colleges achieve a standard of academic scholarship that will win the respect of all classes in the nation.

"We must seek, in the educational process, to achieve a unity of intellectual, moral and religious elements", he said.

Relating a private interview with Dr. Albert Einstein in the last years of his life, Dr. Bennett recalled the scientist's answer to his question on the relation of the moral order and the scientific order.
