On Friday, inspection day, representatives of the sponsoring committee, Gordon Rayner, J. E. Campbell and George MacDougall were flown to Greenwood by air craft from the R.C.A.F. station Summer- side, to be guests at the Inspection Day luncheon.

Fifteen squadrons of the Atlantic Province Cadets were represented at the parade and march past before a group, including N.S.A. Anderson, D.F.C., acting air officer commanding, Maritime Air Command, Halifax, S/L B. O. Lounder, Moncton, was in command of the parade. The R.C.A.F. band played stirring music and aircraft, some just back from a long flight to the North Pole regions, thundered overhead as 300 cadets took part in this last official function of the 1954 air cadet camp.

The camp at Greenwood this year had a total of 900 in attendance and was operated under the joint auspices of the Air Cadet League of Canada, the R.C.A.F. and the National Defence Department.

Her memory is my keep sake, With which I will never part. God has her in his keeping, I have her in my heart.

Dear God forgive a silent tear A constant wish that she was here.

There are others, yes I know But she was my Mom, and I loved her so.

God took her hand we had to part. He eased her suffering, but broke my heart.

Although I smile and seem care-free, Nobody misses her more than me.

Sadly missed and always remembered by her daughters Viola and Elizabeth and husband.

Next Two Weeks Critical For European Army

PARIS (AP)—The European army faces its most severe test within the next two weeks.

It seems the result can go either way. Everything depends on the psychological pressures and maneuvering on the diplomatic and parliamentary scenes.

The first skirmish comes Thursday and Friday at Brussels. The foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg meet then to talk over a long series of modifications which French Premier Pierre Mendes-France would like to make in the treaty.

Mendes-France then will have to go before the French parliament, in a four-day debate starting Aug. 28, to ask for ratification.

Ancient Bronze Coin Discovered

LONDON (Reuters)—A 1,600-year-old bronze coin dating from the reign of the Roman emperor Constantine the First, has been dug up by a gardener at Worlingham, Suffolk.

Local museum authorities said it was minted between 306 and 337 A.D.

Earlier this month, 300 silver coins used by Queen Boadicea's tribe of ancient Britons, the Iceni, in the first century A.D., were unearthed from a sugar beet field in Honingham, Norfolk.

It was almost a century since coins of this type had been discovered in East Anglia, where the Iceni lived.

Job Salesman Faces Charges

MONTREAL (CP)—A 47-year-old Montreal man was charged on Friday with defrauding Canadian immigrants by leaving them stranded in various Ontario towns after promising them harvesting jobs.

Alme Guertin was ordered for preliminary hearing Aug. 19 after being arraigned on six charges of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Police said Guertin was arrested after at least 50 immigrants—mostly Italians and Greeks—had been driven to Ontario and promised tobacco harvesting jobs at wages of $12 a day plus room and board.

The applicants paid up to $20 each to cover minor "arrangements." They were stranded on their arrival because the promised jobs didn't exist.

STOLE MANHOLE COVERS

TORONTO (CP)—One of this city's heaviest thefts has been cleared up by police. They have arrested three men and charged them with stealing 1,800 pounds of manhole covers and cast iron frames and selling them to a scrap dealer.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks and gratitude to Rev. Earl Dalton, to all my friends and relatives, neighbors who were so kind and helped in every way in my recent bereavement and sincere thank you to all who sent Mass Cards, Spiritual Bouquets, Spray, Letters and cards of sympathy.

Bridegroom Had Something Borrowed

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—The bridegroom wore something "borrowed," said the best man, but without permission.

At a court martial Saturday the best man, Cpl. W. J. Stewart of the Fifth Dragoon Guards, identified as his a blue sports shirt and a maroon pair of socks Trooper Francis Robertson Cordner, 26, wore at his wedding.

Cordner pleaded guilty to the charges of theft and to several lesser counts. He was sentenced to 112 days' detention.

Attlee, Labor Delegates Entertained At Exotic Oriental Feast In Peiping

PEIPING (Reuters)—Clement Attlee and his British Labor party delegation wielded knives and forks instead of the traditional chopsticks at an exotic, Oriental feast given in their honor Sunday by Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai.

The menu included soybean soup, lotus roots, bamboo shoots, sharks' fins, and mao tai—a colorless, fiery liqueur. But the Chinese hosts considerably substituted the conventional Western cuisine.

Later, the Britons spent five hours discussing East-West trade with Chou and other government leaders in the beautiful pavilions of the former Chung Nan Hai Imperial Palace.

The eight-member Socialist delegation arrived here Saturday after a visit to Moscow. They were officially welcomed at a cocktail party given by the Communist government.

They expect to meet Mao Tse-tung, the head of state, sometime next week.

WRONG WAY AGAIN

Next he asked the way to Nottingham, from which he knew he could make his way home.

But he got into a bus going in the opposite direction—and found put him on his way to Derby. There he boarded the right section of the right train for home.

But he never got there. He was found dead on the railroad tracks 14 miles from his home.

Merrin's journeyings last Tuesday were pieced together Friday before a coroner's court here.

Police said they believed the confused, absent-minded traveller thought the train had reached its destination, opened the door and stepped out—into the path of an oncoming freight train.

The coroner's verdict: Accidental death.

McCarthy May Delay Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.), in a move which could delay the start of Senate hearings scheduled for August 30, demanded Sunday that Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep.-Vt.) return from Europe to repeat under oath his censure charges against McCarthy.

Flanders, who recited to the Senate 33 counts on which he said McCarthy's conduct tended to bring the Senate into disrepute, flew to the British Isles last week for a three-week vacation. An aide said he would return "anytime he needed."

McCarthy called this trip an evidence of "complete lack of courage" on Flanders' part, adding: "I am going to request—Although I know he will do it—that Flanders' return from his 30-day junket and be available when the committee starts its hearings. He is a complaining witness. He shouldn't run out of the country after knowing the date of the hearings."

SOVIET-JAPAN TALK TRADE

TOKYO (AP)—Three Russian officials arrived in Tokyo Sunday night to begin talks on an $80,000,000 barter deal with Japan. Japanese business men who visited Moscow returned with what they called a provisional agreement on the deal.

BRITAIN BOOSTER QUILTS

LONDON (AP)—Sir Alexander Maxwell, 58-year-old tobacco magnate, has resigned as head of the government's "come to Britain" campaign. He has been ill several weeks. Maxwell had been chairman of the British Trade and Holidays Association since 1947.

Second World Council of Churches Begins Search For Christian Unity

By GEORGE W. CORNELL EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Christian churchmen from around the globe mingled Sunday in a stirring rite of worship to open the second assembly of the World Council of Churches.

It was a colorful, dramatic inauguration as ranking prelates and 48 countries strode up the aisle of Evanston's First Methodist church to the strains of "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

"We have learned how to study, to speak, to stand and to serve together," declared Methodist Bishop G. O. Oxnham, of Washington, D.C., in the sermon. "In humility, but with firm resolve, we intend to stay together."

The 1,500-seat church was filled to capacity. Other hundreds sat in an outdoor chapel or stood outside to hear the service from loudspeakers.

There were bishops and priests, in black cassocks and varicolored stoles and hoods, leaders of ancient eastern churches in staid black robes with gold-filigreed crowns, and black men draped in brilliant blankets over the heads of brilliant silk kimonos, men in ruffled collars and tall mitres and flowing veils.

"FACE THE ISSUE" As Norway's Lutheran leader, Bishop Evjerd Berggrav, recited the Apostles' Creed in German, the congregation joined in English.

There was Old Testament reading in French by Jean, master of Dr. Marc Bossert, head of the Federated Churches of France.

And the New Testament theme of the assembly, sounding the Christian hope in Christ as given in Philippians 2, was rendered in Greek by Archbishop Athenagoras, metropolitan of the Greek Orthodox Church.

In the English-language sermon, Bishop Oxnham, one of the council's five presidents, called for the churches to "face up to the issue of justice" in a world racked with hate and moral wrongs.

"It must be made clear that we dare not identify the gospel of Jesus with any historically conditioned political, social or economic system," he said. "The gospel stands in judgment upon all of them."

With representatives of nearly all the non-Roman Catholic churches assembled in worship and to seek to join their strength in mutual endeavor, a lone picket marched outside carrying this sign:

"All roads lead to Rome. Come home, brothers."

The picket, a shirt-sleeved, middle-aged man in lay dress, declined to identify himself, saying only that he was "a servant of the Lord" and a "pageboy for Our Lady," the Virgin Mary.

Stirring Days Of Klondike Rush Recalled

VANCOUVER (CP)—The stirring days of the Klondike gold rush are being relived here this week by men and women who trod the "Trail of '86."

Here to commemorate the anniversary of the discovery of gold on Bonanza creek on Aug. 17, 1896, Klondike veterans of the International Sourdough Association, holding their 23rd annual reunion here, Aug. 16-19.

One of the legendary pioneers of the gold rush era is Miss Kate Rockwell of Bend, Ore., known as "Klondike Kate," queen of the dancing girls in once-bustling town of Dawson City, Y. T.

Miss Rockwell, daughter of an American judge, left the social whirl of the "gay '80s" to join the thousands who flocked to the Yukon.

ALREADY FOR BANQUET Although unable to leave his home in Monte Carlo, France, the popular poet Robert Service has written a special ballad for the reunion banquet. Service immortalized the gold rush days in "Land the Midnight Sun" and other poems.

Two other famous names, "Klondike Mike" and the "Moose of the Yukon" are here to swap stories. David W. Ballentine, now living at Whitehorse, Y. T., earned his strong man title by performing stunts such as carrying a piano over the Chilkoot pass an accomplishment duplicated by "Klondike Mike" Maboney.

One of the many miners who took part in the California gold rush before trying his luck up north was Fred Engdren, honored by a previous prime minister of Canada for his long and outstanding service in the development of the Yukon.

The 95-year-old pioneer, son of a Norwegian admiral, prospectored for gold before he joined up with the Grand Lodge Yukon Order of Pioneers. He also organized the Yukon Rangers and the Dawson branch of the B. C.-Yukon Chamber of Mines.

President of the International Sourdough Association is Tom A. Lamb, 72.

LEGEND DENIED

Looking back on the days when he went hunting for gold before entering the lumber business in Vancouver, Lamb denies the legend that he shot the notorious Sourdough Smith, renegade of the north. However, Lamb says he heard Smith was shot in order to start the graveyard at Skagway, Alaska.

While mining in the Sulphur creek area, Lamb became acquainted with many whose names are part of the history of the sourdoughs—Joe Clark, Bert Lamb, Charles Carbutt, Eugene Hogan, Andrew Baird, Frank McAlpine, George Black, Johnny Murrak, Bob the Poet and Ike the Roadhouse Man.

Also here to renew old memories of Parliament for the Yukon. He will be main speaker at the four-day reunion.

"Fake" Medicines Sometimes Used

TORONTO (CP)—Doctors all prescribe "fake" medicines at some time or other to hypochondriac patients, Dr. N. D. Park, neurologist at Toronto western hospital, said Saturday.

Dr. Park was commenting on editorials in British medical journals urging the government to let doctors prescribe "fake" medicines, called "placebos," under the free national health service.

He said "placebos" are often used to make a patient, who is not really sick, feel better. To know when to prescribe one takes, just as much knowledge to know when to prescribe the other, he said.

World War One Veteran Passes

The death occurred on Saturday at his home, 300 Euston Street, of Mr. David Moore Robinson, D.C.M., at the age of 74. Mr. Robinson passed away after a lengthy illness.

One of the Island's distinguished soldiers, he went overseas in 1914 with the First Canadian Division and served for four years with the Royal Montreal Regiment, where he rose to the rank of Company Sergeant Major. Described by a comrade in arms as "a first class soldier who was never known to duck his head," C.S.M. Robinson was severely wounded on one occasion and received minor wounds several other times. Near the end of hostilities he was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for bravery on the field of battle.

After returning from overseas Mr. Robinson took up farming at South Winsloe. Six years later upon the death of his first wife, the former Mabel Boundy of Winsloe, he moved to Saint Avars and became engaged as head farmer with the Experimental Farm. He served in this capacity until his retirement nine years ago after which he moved to the City and purchased a new home in which lived since.

Surviving are his widow, his second wife, the former Jennie Dollar of Brookfield; a son Dean, with the Plant Pathology Department, Science Service Laboratory, Charlottetown, and a daughter, Beth, who is a nurse in New Westminster, B.C. but had been with her father during the last six months of his illness. Both children were from the first marriage.

The funeral will be held from the McLean Funeral Home this afternoon at 2 p.m. Members of the Canadian Legion will attend in a body.

Parliament Gets Political Hot Potato

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament has been handed a touchy political issue in the form of a Canadian Legion demand for compulsory peacetime service in the armed forces.

It is another question, however, whether the issue will be raised in debate during the next regular session of Parliament, expected to meet in November.

The recent Toronto convention of the legion, which has a membership of some 200,000, went on record—without being specific—in favor of some form of selective service for both active and reserve forces. It described Canada's home forces as "totally inadequate for national defence."

Some opposition critics of government policy might agree with the legion's description of Canada's preparedness. But the question of compulsory military service is one which has not been an active issue in the Commons during the last few years, though a similar demand came from the legion's 23rd annual reunion here, Aug. 16-19.
