Engineers Hold Social Evening

The December meeting of the Prince Edward Island branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada was held in Summerside on Wednesday evening at Howards Restaurant and was in the nature of a social evening attended by members of the organization from various parts of the Province. In addition to the Island members, Mr. Eric Mercer of Newfoundland was also present and acted as chairman for the evening and introduced the speaker, the Hon. Walter E. Darby, attorney general and provincial treasurer, who in a most interesting and informal manner gave a talk on his recent trip to the United Kingdom where he appeared as one of the attorneys before the Privy Council, in a case before that court centering around an appeal of the Canadian Provinces involving control of trans-border traffic on Canadian highways.

After describing the procedure of the Privy Council, a description which in itself was an education to those present, he went on to give his impressions of the many historic sites he had been privileged to visit while in London and Paris. He told of his tour of the Tower of London, the famous school of the Eton, his impressions of the educational system in the United Kingdom, where students with limited means, having attained a certain degree of education through their own personal merits, are enabled to obtain financial aid from the government to complete their degrees and enter any profession they are fitted for.

While in England Mr. and Mrs. Darby had paid a visit to the home of Shakespeare at Stratford-upon-Avon and also to the cottage of Ann Hathaway. He said they were not able to inspect the interior of these as they were closed for the season at that time of the year.

In a vivid manner he told of their trip to Paris where on a visit to the Louvre he had spent an all too short a time viewing the marvels in sculpture, painting and architecture on display there.

Mr. Darby said it is to be regretted that more peoples of the world are not able to see and admire these great metropolitan centres but at the same time he felt a great sense of relief in his home coming and that although he had been privileged to see many great wonders of art, painting and sculpture he had always seemed to feel "hemmed in" while there and had only lost that feeling on return to his native land.—Canada.

rate increase for the company and emphasized the union's feeling that the wage increase sought and the 40-hour week could be financed from the present revenues of the company.

He told of meeting Mr. MacKay in the latter's Halifax office and was told the local company could not grant the 40-hour week notwithstanding that it was in effect in the Maritime Telephone and Telegraph Company. He noted a complaint that Halifax employees were used here during the period over to the Maritime and they only worked five days while Island employees on the same job worked five and one-half days.

On one point of the wage disagreement he pointed out that an employee must work 145 months before he received top pay for his group. In other parts of Canada, he said, it was as low as 84 months while the Maritime T. and T. employees only had to work 109 months. He also compared the wage rates received with those of the other Maritime Provinces as well as Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. In addition he said all of them were on five day week.

Mr. Tracy said there were many other employees in this city enjoying the five-day week and cited several instances. He said the union had accepted the decision of the arbitration board, but it had been turned down by Mr. MacKay. He thought the company would mean adding only a small number of men to the payroll. He thought that the releasing of 40 operators last summer indicated the financial statement as contained in the annual report was not a true picture at this time.

He claimed that subscriber rates here were higher than in comparable companies elsewhere and the wages are lower.

Mr. Tracy also stated he had been told by Mr. MacKay that the latter would grant a wage increase if the union would appear before the Commission in support of a rate increase. However, he said he refused as he thought it could be done on the present rates.

Mr. J. O. C. Campbell asked briefly regarding the comparison with the lower rates in Alberta. Mr. Tracy said it was Government owned. Mr. Campbell remarked perhaps we can expect things to be free in Alberta as it is rapidly becoming Canada's richest province.

Mr. Campbell asked if witness would suggest that the population of Prince Edward Island in general should get a five-day week. The answer received was probably not when "we get into agriculture," but he thought that situation was the same across Canada and added that in Ontario it was found the farmers were not putting in a five day week because of being snowbound in winter when they did nothing.

Mr. Campbell asked if Mr. Tracy thought his plant men were working harder than the farmers here. Mr. Tracy reminded him that the economy of this Province and the source from which the wages of his met came was the pockets of the farmers.

Mr. A. W. Gaudet asked the witness if any study of farming conditions here had been made and was answered in the negative. He also asked the basis for making the wage increase request and was told it was the financial statement in the annual report of the company.

Mr. R. W. Manning inquired as to how many men it would take, added to the payroll, to put in the five-day week. He was told the company said five more should be needed, but the employees maintained they were five men short now.

Mr. Tracy said the five and one-half day week was economically unsound. The men worked from 8 to 12 on Saturday morning and that represented only a waste of time as by the time they loaded the truck, went there they were going, unloaded the truck again it was time to start for home. He stated the company office workers were only working about 38 hours now.

Questioned on technical matters he claimed the adjustment in income taxes had made a big difference in British Columbia where a company had been able to dispense with a granted increase in rates.

Union Membership In answer to a question by Mr. Allison Gillis he said that all men excepting office workers were eligible to join the union and over 90 per cent now belonged. He said they have the checkoff system for collecting dues.

Mr. Gillis also asked relative to the possibility of an increase in rates causing subscribers to stop the service. Mr. Tracy said there might be but he was not prepared to say as some companies used that as an argument. However, he expressed the belief that most telephones were in Charlottetown and

S'side Y's Men's Club Meeting

Allison MacLean was chairman of the regular weekly meeting of the Summerside Y's Men's Club held last evening in the "Y" Centre.

The entire membership of 102 was present to give the club a 100 per cent attendance. This is remarkable in that there has been a perfect attendance at three out of the last four meetings held.

One guest, Don Adams, of Summerside, was present.

The Y's Menettes served a delicious meal with Y's Menettes Frances Hopkins, Helen Clark, Enid Emery, and Nita Ellis doing the honors. A sing song was enjoyed while the tables were being cleared.

A few items of business were disposed of prior to the showing of a film on safe driving.

Y's George Meikle reported progress on the erection of the nativity scene and expressed confidence that the project will be completed in time for Christmas.

It was decided that the Y's Men's Club would send Christmas greeting cards to all ex-Y's Men who have moved away.

Contributions for the Kinsmen Christmas tree are to be brought to the next meeting.

Plans were laid for a Y's Men's Christmas party to be held between Christmas and New Years at Howards Restaurant. Finestmaster for the evening was Y's Morley Bell.

After the regular meeting the members were invited to stay and see a film which had been shown to the patients in Prince County Hospital earlier in the week by Y's Jock Hopkirk.—S.

Summerside and not in rural areas. Mr. Gillis also made reference to recent efforts of a shipping firm to sell its ships due to union demands and thought that in the end the matter had been harmful to the union.

Mr. Tracy replied that "we are abiding by the laws, not breaking them." He stated the union was abiding by the decision of the arbitration board comprised of "three respected men of this city."

He maintained that the layoff of 40 girls meant that the payroll was now not so great as before. When Mr. Gillis brought out the point that wages and income generally are lower here than elsewhere in Canada and asked if instituting a five-day week in other places had resulted in higher rates he was told the witness was not sure.

Judge Trainor interposed to ask if Mr. Tracy believed a worker's efficiency lessens after five days. He was told that efficiency increased after five days but a great deal depended on the type of work and the strain on the worker.

Mr. Doyle's Evidence First witness for the company introduced by Mr. Bell was Mr. F. Doyle, general manager of the company here for 24 years. He was formerly a controller and as such was in a position to give information as to the tables which had been prepared for the company brief.

He said none of the preferred shares nor the 80,000 common shares were owned by the Maritime Tel. and Tel., but later under cross-examination by Mr. Tracy said that the latter company owned the Maritime Utilities Company which in turn owned the Island Company.

His testimony was largely of a highly technical nature as he was questioned by Mr. Richardson. How he said he did not anticipate any external financing this coming year as it was expected to receive capital for expenditures from the sale of salvage material and depreciation account. He did not know how much the salvage would amount to but believed it would be a small amount.

He stated that the only source of revenue of the Island Telephone Company is what the subscribers pay. He did not think the Maritime local company as the Nova Scotia subscribers should pay only for the service they received. At a rate hearing in the latter Province questions were asked regarding the Island contract.

Mr. Roland MacDonald, president of the P. E. I. Federation of Agriculture, did not wish to answer a question regarding the effect of increased rates, but was told he might answer in his private capacity. As such he stated that any raise in telephone rates would be objected to by the rural population of the Province.

Mr. MacDonald was called as a witness when it was announced he had to leave the hearing and Mr. Doyle temporarily stepped down.

Low Potato Prices He wished to present to the Commission a picture of agricultural conditions pertaining to the potato, livestock and poultry markets. Asked by Mr. Bell as to the effect on farm income of the present low prices for potatoes he said that farmers were not able to meet their obligations to companies selling machinery and as a result the latter were going out of business here. Livestock prices he stated had dropped approximately 50 per cent in the past two years and quoted price lists for that period to prove his point.

Recalled to the stand Mr. Doyle was asked by Mr. Gaudet regarding the decrease in toll charges received by the small rural companies. He replied that he was not prepared to give a reason but admitted that with 10,000 fewer this year as compared to 1952. Asked if his company suspected that this loss was tied up with potatoes he said it did and if the trend continued he could not say what the ultimate result would be.

50-Pound Bags Becoming Popular For Potatoes

—Almost everyone connected with the handling of potatoes will be interested to learn of the increasing trend towards the use of jute (or burlap) potato bags in the 50-lb. size.

In a news release from the Bureau of the Indian Jute Mills Association attention is directed to recent surveys in the potato growing areas of Maine and Long Island disclosing greater interest in 50 lb. jute potato bags.

Many shippers are reported to express definite preference for the superior carrying qualities of these burlap bags, with breakage and spoilage reduced to a minimum.

The release revealed, too, that particularly in rural and heavy industry areas, retail sales in 50 lb. jute units are on the increase.

Mr. Horace MacFarlane, general manager of the Prince Edward Island Bag Company Ltd., at Summerside—the only jute bag manufacturing plant in the Maritime Provinces—when asked yesterday for comment on the release referred to above, said that this trend is developing steadily in this area. For the first time in several years, the bag manufacturing plant at Summerside has been producing 50 lb. jute bags as containers for potatoes.

Some 50,000 of these, he said, have been distributed in the last month for use in packaging potatoes in Prince Edward Island.

Mr. MacFarlane mentioned several reasons which made the 50 lb. jute bag popular with producer, shipper, and consumer.

Among these were the advantages of easier handling, and better keeping quality of potatoes in jute bags.

Mr. MacFarlane, whose company also acts as agents for paper bags used in packaging potatoes, said that jute has been found preferable to paper because the jute was more durable and could stand considerable handling. This, he said, was important when potatoes are packaged by the producer, and the jute container also permits the potatoes to "breathe" and thus adds to their keeping qualities.

The Prince Edward Island Bag Company plant, a three-story building, built in 1935, is located beside the railway crossing on Water Street West in Summerside. Employing 40-60 men and women, this plant turns out more than 1,000,000 jute bags each month during the fall season, and operates on a somewhat lesser scale throughout the remainder of the year.

The jute bags produced in this plant are manufactured according to intended use, in 100, 75, and 50 lb. sizes, and are used for potatoes, turnips, feed, etc.

A large percentage of the jute bags used on Prince Edward Island are manufactured in this plant, with a considerable volume going to New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Newfoundland.

OTTAWA, (CP) — The cabinet Thursday tackled the problem of Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet, for the second time in a month, but came to no decision on government action.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said after the meeting that the ministers received a report from Transport Minister Chretien on the fleet problem in financial difficulties—but came to no conclusions.

The transport minister, it was understood, made a specific recommendation to cabinet, but no information on it was available. Mr. Chretien declined comment.

Before the ministers was a request from ship owners asking for authority to seal most of the Canadian-owned deep-sea vessels in view of a Nov. 12 government decision not to subsidize operations.

indicating that the 40-hour week is approaching here and he did not intend to oppose it if it could be financially arranged.

Mr. MacKay thought rates should be fair and reasonable, but the present financial position would not permit granting these increases now. He believed that operating expenses will remain reasonably constant but could see no reduction in the future.

He said that in his meeting in Halifax with Mr. Tracy and union representatives they had worked out an agreement, but "I absolutely could not agree to the 40-hour week." He said the company had spent over $1,000,000 in this city and spoke of the expense caused by the vast increase in size of the building and installation of the dial phones. He also pointed out that though the company had grown vastly since 1939, that growth came at a time of high prices.

Mr. MacKay also reminded the Commission that on the Island they have only two exchanges which are self-supporting and these two must make up the loss incurred by the others.

He was still on the stand when the hearing was adjourned. It will resume in the Legislative Chamber at 10 o'clock this morning.

Egyptian Prince Gets 15-Year Term

CARLO, (Reuters) — Prince Abbas Halim, bemoaned cousin of ex-king Farouk, drew a 15-year prison sentence Wednesday for treason, although he claimed to be a strong opponent of the deposed monarch.

The revolutionary tribunal granted the prince a stay of execution, however, pending a possible appeal.

Abbas Halim, who pleaded innocent and conducted his own defence, alleged that Farouk was not the great lover he was supposed to be. He said Farouk posed as a Don Juan but actually was impotent.

The court laughed as Prince Abbas insisted that Farouk had an inferiority complex with women and was "a spoiled child and a sexual maniac."
