Cook's Corner

UPSIDE-DOWN PINEAPPLE CAKE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/4 cup brown sugar
 1 slice or 6 half slices pineapple
 Maraschino cherries
 Using an 8 x 8 x 2 inch pan, heat the butter and sugar together until sugar is melted. Arrange pineapple over surface of caramel mixture. Centre or intersperse cherries among pineapple (if desired walnut halves may also be used). Set aside while mixing the batter.

Batter:
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 egg, unbraten
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 cup pineapple syrup
 Cream shortening, gradually add sugar, creaming until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Sift and measure flour; beat with dry ingredients. Add flour mixture alternately with pineapple syrup to the creamed batter, beating after each addition until smooth. Pour batter over pineapple and bake in a moderate 350F oven for 50-60 minutes.

Morning Smile

New Idea

The patron stared at the soiled bill of fare, then—by a fortunate fluke—catching the waiter's eye, he motioned that lordly gentleman over to his table.
 "Waiter," said he, "you've got a splendid idea here. Just imagine! Samples of the different dishes plated to the menu!"

Embroidered Organdy

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. If one encounters two friends who are seated together at a table in a restaurant, is it proper to stop at their table until invited to join them?

A. No; this is rude and thoughtless, as they might have matters of personal importance to discuss. It is much better merely to speak as you walk by. Even if asked to join them, you should decline the invitation, unless it is so cordial that you positively know it is their wish to have you with them.

Q. Is it proper for parents to send out announcements and invitations when their daughter, who is a divorcee, remarries?

A. Yes, this is quite all right.

Q. May engraved cards be used to acknowledge flowers and notes of sympathy?

A. Yes, these are perfectly proper.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the azaline (non-acid) powder on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

The Stars Say --

By Genevieve Kemble

For Saturday, April 22

IT may call for serious and profound efforts, backed up by well-organized plans, to break down opposition, quarrels and strife, especially in personal contacts, domestic or household activities. However, there is a sign of compromise and harmonious "getting together" for an amicable compromise or understanding. With a heart-to-heart talk much may be gained by able efforts to establish long range and enduring objectives.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a serious effort to put their affairs on a sound basis for long-term and lasting objectives. While there may be disagreement, strife and bickering to cope with now, in the long run harmonious understanding may be arrived at by frank discussion of vital issues. Good nature and friendly talk may iron out wrinkles and misunderstandings, of a domestic character.

Rough Hands

When the hands begin to feel rough, rub plenty of almond cream well into them just before retiring and slip on a pair of old loose gloves. If this is not effective, using camphor ice in place of the cream will improve the roughest of hands.

Dirty Overalls

Wash dirty overalls by laying them flat on the washboard and scrubbing with a stiff brush. Starch them a little afterwards and the dirt will come out much easier the next time they are laundered.

Prevent Slipping

To prevent rubbers from slipping on wet pavements, fasten a strip of adhesive tape lengthwise down the sole.

Romantic ties may also demand careful consideration. Happiness and fairness need free discussion for gain and sociability in business as well as in the home. A child born on this day while friendly and sociable may need to curb an over-ardent and eager tongue and temper. It should cultivate a calm disposition.

ABDOMINAL OPERATIONS NOW LESS DANGEROUS

A joke about doctors common a few years ago was: "The operation was a success, but the patient died." We seldom hear this joke today; we know now that in such cases the pus-forming organisms had obtained too great a start before operation was performed. Also, this was before the wonder germ-killing drugs—sulfa, penicillin and streptomycin—were discovered.

In operations on the abdominal organs—appendix, intestine, gall bladder and others—the danger is peritonitis (inflammation of the covering of the organs and of the lining of the abdomen itself). It can readily be understood how organisms once getting a start on this moist surface could spread inflammation in all directions above, below, and sideways, so that it is only a matter of perhaps hours until the inflammation would spread beyond control and death would result. One of the advantages and blessings of these new germ-killing drugs is that they sometimes do their best work alone, and at other times in combination with one another.

In "Annals of Surgery," Philadelphia, Drs. E. J. Pulaski, A. B. Voorhes, Jr., and S. F. Seeley report a continuation of their studies of streptomycin in fecal (bowel wastes) peritonitis. These studies were undertaken to gain information for the Surgeon General of the United States as a part of a special duty of streptomycin in various Army installations. While only 85 cases in which streptomycin was used alone or in combination with penicillin were studied, certain trends were noted.

In early-spreading peritonitis in which the infection organisms started their work in the stomach or intestines, the combined treatment of streptomycin and penicillin seemed to be more helpful than streptomycin alone; on the other hand, when the peritonitis was located in one spot (not spreading rapidly) streptomycin alone was more effective.

The above information, used by our defense forces is, of course, available to civilians and may mean the saving of many lives following abdominal operations.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I thoroughly clean a hairbrush?

A. Mix a half cup of salt and flour in equal proportions; rub this through the bristles of the hairbrush, and it will make it as clean as when new. Be sure to shake out the mixture thoroughly before using the brush again.

Q. How can I remove insects from vegetables when washing?

A. Put a little vinegar or a pinch of borax into the water. This will bring the insects to the surface of the water almost immediately.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS -

Love

True Emotion Is Proof Against Time, Change

DEAR MISS DIX: How can love survive the changes of time? What strengthens and fosters love?

ANSWER: Infatuation cannot survive the changes of time because it depends upon so many fleeting things that alter almost with the day and hour and because it is mostly founded on illusion. But true love is of another quality. It is made of sterner stuff, and when a heart really and truly sets its affections upon another it is proof against all the vicissitudes of time and change. Even disillusion and disappointment do not kill it, for we have seen time and again the miracle of love that withstands ill-treatment, ingratitude, even treachery, and still lives on.

STRENGTHENS WITH YEARS

In happier circumstances, where love really has something to feed upon, it grows and strengthens with the years and sends its roots deeper down and the winds of chance and change beat upon it in vain. Love changes, of course. The old husband and wife do not love each other for the same things they did when they married as girl and boy. Then they loved each other for their youth and good looks or their high spirits and gaiety. They loved each other for the physical attraction that drew them together. But when they are old they love each other for their characters, for the fineness they have found in each other, for the sacrifice and tenderness that each has given the other. The things that strengthen and foster love are unselfishness, faith and loyalty. Time has no power to weaken these.

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter is 23, smart, attractive and ambitious, but she says she does not want to marry. She has had men friends, but when they find out her ideas they seem to disappear. She

Peeping Into The Past

By F. H. MacArthur

The precious metal known as gold, while often mentioned in the Scriptures, was not coined until after the time of Daniel. Its use among the Hebrews was common. The furniture and utensils of the Temple were overlaid with gold. In Biblical days gold was found at Ophir (Job XXVIII 16.) Arabia (Chron. and Shema).

The process known as glass-blowing was known to the ancient Egyptians as early as the time of the Patriarchs. The Hebrews, too, may have known how to blow glass though it is mentioned but once in the Old Testament (Job XXVII 17), where it is translated in the A. V. "Crystal," but in the R. V. "Glass." The mirrors referred to in (Cor. XII 12; 2 Cor. III 18), etc., were made of metal.

Was there ever a race of Giants? Scripture history first mentions giants in Gen. XIV 5, they are called "Rephaim." OG, King of Bashan, was of this race. They are also mentioned in other places in the Bible.

What was the Five Mile Act? It was an Act passed in the 17th century by Charles II, forbidding Non-conformist teachers to pass within five miles of a corporation where they had preached since the Act of Oblivion (unless they were travelling), under the penalty of 40 pounds, or liability to imprisonment for six months.

It is a well established historical fact that the early Finns had a great passion for piracy and plunder. In the 12th century their country was invaded by King Eric of Sweden, who sought to establish Christianity at the point of the sword. The great majority of Finland's population remained heathen even after 1300. Today 98 per cent of the population, or about two million people belong to the Lutheran Church. Finnish is the official and common language.

The word "fakir" was originally given to a class of Hindoo quack Medicos, who existed in India at a very early period. They proved a dangerous element in society in those days by practicing their mad fanaticism. The English government tried to stamp out the practice, but with little success.

"Euchelain", is the "prayer oil", consecrated by seven priests, and used in the Greek Church for the Union of the sick. It is considered one of the seven sacraments of the Church, but, unlike the Extreme Unction of the Roman Catholic Church, it is not confined to cases of mortal illness.

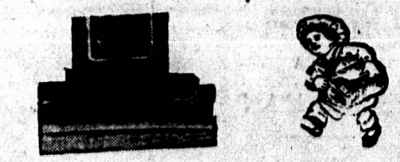

"Believe it or Not", but jewel-pointed drills and bronze saws were used in building the great pyramids, and the angles of their bases are so perfect that no one can understand how they were measured. In the Queen's Chamber, it would be difficult for anyone to find the joints between the great rocks. The most important pyramid, the Khufu, was originally 481 feet high, 755 feet wide, and contained approximately 6,849,000 tons of masonry. It covers nearly 13 acres. The pyramids were tombs designed to secrete the embalmed bodies against all search. Dogs were once regarded with contempt by the Jews, as unclean animals. They were never permitted to enter the home. The Eastern people to this day can apply no stronger language than in the use of the words, "You dog."

In Biblical days people rode long distances on the backs of Camels. A good day's journey would be a distance of twenty to thirty miles. A day's ride was called "day's journey". (Gen. XXXI, 23, Luke II, 44). A peculiar sect sprang up in England in 1643 who professed themselves incapable of sinning and in the continuation of Adam before he was driven from Eden. During their meetings they wore no clothing. They were named "Ranters", because of their violent gesticulations and silly utterances.

RICHMOND, Yorkshi e. Eng., d. (CP)—At an inquest here testimony was given that after a motor accident Eric Flintoff was left lying in a pool of gasoline pending the arrival of police. Someone lit a cigarette, threw down the match and Flintoff was fatally burned. Verdict: accidental death.
