PECULIAR JOURNALISM.

SIR,—This morning's Guardian has an article disapproving very strongly of the introduction of Dominion partyism into our local and municipal affairs, taking the recent election at Moncton for a text. The result this time favors the Conservatives, and the Guardian "sees no utility in bringing in federal party affairs into our civic and municipal elections." Last year or the year before, the Liberals came out ahead, and the Guardian then referred to the result at Moncton as an advantage to the Liberals, as it would put into their hands the preparing of the lists for local and federal purposes. The utility was there that time, hence no word of disapproval.

A few days ago when it was rumoured that the Tories were bringing on an election before the full term of that Parliament had run, the Guardian gave a lengthy editorial on the subject, condemning in the strongest terms such tactics, and deploring the effects. Not long after the Murray Government of Nova Scotia did what the Tory Government were blamed for. They appealed to the country before the time allowed. The Guardian comments again; but this time with an air of approval. It was all right—the Liberals did it—the advantage was to them.

Every now and again we see in this peculiarly independent paper items very favorable to the Liberal Government of Quebec. Never anything wrong there. All is perfection. Yet we see by other papers that the Quebec Government has amended their election laws at this session so as to allow candidates and their agents to use liquor in elections freely instead of its being an offence subject to fines and penalties. This independent temperance journal does not give us this bit of news. Strange omission.

But of all the courses pursued by this paper that of advising the Conservatives to meet the Liberals in their tactics regarding the Pino affair is the most remarkable. Now, what would that be? It would be for one party to bribe and buy over every member they can from the other side, and hold on to power by corrupting every representative possible to that end. That is New Brunswick local politics,—the Blair type. When Blair was beaten he bought a majority and went on. The people lost faith in their public men, and as a consequence one party has been plundering that province for years. For instance the steel bridge scandal.

Now Premier Farquharson goes in for this kind of warfare, and what next? A general election comes off, thirty men are elected divided into two parties. Who has the government. Farquharson or Gordon? It should be known at once. But no, we must wait to see how many of the people's chosen representatives are to be bought from one side to the other. Then when all are fixed the Guardian will announce the result and commend or condemn the "utility" of the practice from the partizan standpoint.

Verily, I cannot understand these religious independent journals, Mr. Editor! Can you?

Afton Hall Social.

The social in Afton Hall Thursday night was a grand success. The music was exceptionally fine. The chairman, in a neat speech, first introduced Mr. Frank McLean, who gave in his best voice, "Come o'er the stream, Charlie." He was followed by Miss Annie Dickieson, who was vigorously encored. Mr. Berrigan, accompanied by Mrs. Berrigan, delighted the audience with "On a lone Rock," Little Miss Belle Stewart sang "The Merriest Girl That's Out," in a quaint sweet style all her own, which elicited an encore.

Just here a number of sleighs arrived from Charlottetown, with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Norton, Mr. B. B. Norton and a number of others. Mrs Norton, whose fine voice was heard for the first time in Afton hall, gave the audience exquisite pleasure. In answer to an encore she gave "The Absent-Minded Beggar. Messrs. Calder and Hennessey gave more than their share of fun with their comic Scotch and Irish songs. Miss Ella Stevenson was the accompanist. The only reading a selection from "David Harum" by Mr. John McMillan was loudly applauded. Then followed the selling of the baskets, which was managed as only the Messrs Norton can do such things. A handsome sum was realized. After the "inner man" was thoroughly satisfied with cake and coffee, the young people cleared the floor and tripped the "light fantastic" till the "wee sma' houre." All departed voting this the best of all the grand socials ever held in Afton Hall.

TAKEN TO TASK.

SIR,—In the year 1840, Louis Philippe being King of the French people, the English government granted permission for the removal of the remains of Napoleon from the Island of St. Helena. They were conveyed back to France in a war ship, the "Belle Poule," commanded Prince de Joinville, son of the King, (1840). The Guardian of this morning informs the public that the removal took place during the reign of Napoleon III. The editor should give more attention to history and less to politics.

[The Guardian of this morning corrects the inaccuracy here referred to.]

HOW LONG?

SIR,—How long is this one man government going to continue in this province? Some time ago the Premier went over and met Mr. Blair in Moncton, and although he ran two bye-elections immediately after, he, in violation of British Constitutional government refused to let the people know as to the nature of the agreement then made with the Dominion Government.

He started off again, with his satchel perhaps full of testimonials as to the efficiency of The Minto; and it is even feared that he went to meet the engineer to try and impress him with his own wishes in connection with the site of the bridge. We can imagine him meeting the engineer with all the airs of one having authority, and in imitation of the three tailors of Tooley street, saying "We, the people of Prince Edward Island," etc., "want the bridge placed in such and such a place." The premier surely ought to consult the people's representatives and his own Cabinet before going on any mission, and not as he did after his late return from Ottawa, hold a hole-in-the-corner meeting and tell the public before he laid the matter before his Cabinet.

BILIOUSNESS BANISHED

Positively and Permanently by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Which Restore the Liver to Perfect Health, and Ensure a Proper Peformance of its Duties—No Other Medicine Can Produce this Result.

Biliousness is one of the most prevalent ailments of modern times. It is due, as its thousands of victims know, to unhealthiness of the liver

When this organ is unhealthy it is like a poisoned stream; it contaminates the whole system.

In health, the liver secretes about three pounds of bile every day.

This bile is sent out and mingles with the blood, to collect impurities, which it carries back to the liver, where they should be separated from the blood and expelled from the system.

When the liver is in an unhealthy condition, it refuses to take back the bile, after the later has become impregnated with poisonous impurities. It then flows back throughout the system carrying poison and disease to every point.

This is biliousness.

When the liver is in a healthy condition, Biliousness is utterly impossible.

In every box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets there is a package of small brown Tablets, which is specially designed to tone and restore the liver to perfect health.

Thir effect is immediate. The liver is strengthened and invigorated, and it at once commences to do its duty properly. No bile is allowed to flow back into the blood. It is received, purified and again sent out on its mission.

The large tablets restore the stomach to perfect health and digest the food; the small brown tablets give health and strength to the liver and bowels. Between them they keep the entire digestive system in good health, making Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc., absolutely impossible. Try a box.

Experience never teaches fools anyth ing.

"There is no little enemy." Little impurities in the blood are sources of great danger and should be expelled by Hood's Sarsaparilla.
