Chinese Reds To Handle Own Famine Relief

By James D. White Associated Press News Analyst

After six weeks of silence about a famine they still call a calamity affecting 40,000,000 people, the Chinese Reds have decided to take care of it themselves.

This decision has been announced in a series of bitter, prideful statements broadcast by the Peiping radio.

The big theme is that the Chinese are not "such a bunch of idiots" as to accept American famine relief which would mean Americans getting back into China to "enslave the Chinese people."

A new "China Peoples Relief Association" has been organized. Vice-chairman Tung Pi-wu says this is the famine picture and how the C.P.R.A. will deal with it:

"About 40,000,000 people are affected. Of these, 60 per cent will soon overcome the deficiency period by means of organization of production and with a little additional help; another 20 per cent have no need of relief, while those who need immediate relief, because they were seriously affected and have either no labor power or too little, make up only about 20 per cent."

Tung says this is what will be done:

More than a 1,000,000 tons of grain will be shipped from Manchuria this year. Another 500,000 tons will be moved to surplus areas in Central and South China. To do this, a "mass transportation network" is being organized to carry grain, supplementing the normal rail, highway, and canal routes.

The broadcasts made no suggestion that Russia may be offering food to relieve the crisis. Instead the Chinese will make do with what they have. Above all, they will not fall for American offers of "drive a wedge between the Chinese people and Communism."

This decision is ascribed entirely to the new relief association, which argues that the famine wouldn't have happened if it hadn't been for "imperialism."

The broadcasts list only seven names of the 40 members of the C.P.R.A. executive council. Not one of the seven has the reputation of being among the strongly pro-Moscow clique within the Communist Government. Only two are Communists - Tung Pi-wu, who attended the U. N. organizing conference in 1945, and Eishah Chueh-tsa, whose appointment probably is important because as minister of the Interior he controls the police.

Other members named are non-Communists.

This is intended to give the impression that non-Communist Chinese are squarely behind the proud stand that China will defend itself without help from "imperialists."

But turning down help during a famine is a grave responsibility indeed. The Chinese people are understandably proud. They also like to eat.
