Jackson Fund Nears $5,500 As Drive Ends

The Freeman Jackson Fund was brought to a successful conclusion yesterday as the total of contributions reached $5,454.61.

This total was made up of $3,592.26 contributed in Charlottetown in a fund sponsored by The Evening Patriot, and $1,862.35 collected by a committee formed in Mount Stewart.

In addition to the monetary donations, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and their family received scores of articles of clothing, bedding and other items for their new home.

The fund for the Jacksons was set up by The Patriot immediately following a fire in their home in Mt. Stewart in early January which took the life of their five-year-old son Carl and destroyed all of their possessions. Only the heroic efforts of Mrs. Jackson saved the lives of the remaining seven children. Mr. Jackson, a war veteran and amputee, was away from home at the time of the fire.

The funds collected in Charlottetown and Mount Stewart have now been consolidated, and will be administered in the community that is again to be the home of the Jackson family, by the Mount Stewart committee.

The change has been approved by the Catholic Welfare Bureau, which originally undertook to administer the fund in Charlottetown. However, the Jackson family shortly will take up residence in Mount Stewart, in a new home so the decision to centre activities there was made as a matter of convenience.

The Mount Stewart committee organized shortly following the announcement of the fund campaign in Charlottetown has as chairman Hamilton Douglas. Other committee members are Rev. George MacCormack, Rev. Donald MacLennan, Earl Jay, Walter MacDonald, Oliver Smith, Mrs. Ida MacKay, Mrs. Cyrene MacDonald, Mrs. Preston Affleck and Mrs. E. Glover.

Since the fire Mr. and Mrs. Jackson have been residing in Charlottetown while their children have been placed in foster homes as a temporary measure. The entire family will soon be reunited.

Oyster Fishing Appeal Case Is Taken Under Advisement

The appeal of Joseph Thomas McNally, Bedford, against a conviction of fishing in public oyster beds of the East River during the closed season, was taken under advisement yesterday morning by Mr. Justice George J. Tweedy of the P.E.I. Supreme Court and was adjourned to a date to be fixed.

The evidence in the case heard before Magistrate James B. Johnston, QC, was taken in the appeal on agreement by both counsel.

The fine, $10 and costs, was not the basis of the appeal, John P. Nicholson, counsel for the appellant told the court, rather it was to find out whether a section of the river bed which is not an oyster producing ground is classified as a public oyster fishing ground.

Representing the department of fisheries, Gerald E. Foster, QC, defined a public fishing ground as any section that had not been leased to an oyster fisherman.

A person wishing to fish oysters can bring them in from other areas and spread them around his leased section, it was learned from counsel.

The appellant's counsel stated, Mr. McNally was not fishing at the time but spreading oysters on a section he had not leased but which was also not an oyster producing grounds.

Secret Army Commandos Arrested

CP from AP-Reuters

PARIS — Police reported Thursday the capture of nine Secret Army commandos who had orders to kill Premier Pompidou after a church service last summer. The authorities said other high officials were marked for death in a plot never carried out.

The commandos were seized in a Paris apartment bristling with firearms and grenades last Friday—before the mysterious arrest here Tuesday of Secret Army leader Antoine Argoud.

Police identified the commando leader as Georges Buscia, a relatively unknown ex-navy lieutenant. But he was believed the No. 1 aide of fugitive Rene Sergent, frequently called the chief Secret Army leader inside France.

The Secret Army has been warring against the government of President de Gaulle since he decided to grant independence to Algeria.
