THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MARCH 12, 1888.

How the Account Stands.

There are none so blind as those who will not see. The Patriot cannot understand the clearest proof that this Province is not "deeply in debt" - that the resources of the Province are much larger now than they were in 1878.

Last year we received from Ottawa $193,537.20 which at 5 per cent. represents a capital sum of $3,870,745.00

In 1878 we received from Ottawa $159,005.38. which at 5 per cent is equal to a capital sum of $3,180,107.60

showing an increase of capital amounting to $690,637.40

The account as published by THE EXAMINER on Friday last was unfortunately marred by one or two typographical errors, but the balance as shown was not materially wrong.

As to the receipts of the Land Office, we have this to say: Both parties used them as revenue. By the present Government they have been used for the good of the Province at large.

The following is the initiatory note of the correspondence relating to the admission of Newfoundland into the Dominion of Canada: "From the Governor-General of Canada to the Governor of Newfoundland: OTTAWA, March 5. - It is considered by my Government, that if your government approves, the time is convenient for discussion of the question of admission of Newfoundland into the federal union, and that no difficulty is likely to arise in arranging the terms under these circumstances.

Frederick the Third.

The area of the German Empire to which Frederick the Third has succeeded is 212,028 square miles. It comprises, -

Table listing various German states and their populations: Prussia, 28,313,833; Bavaria, 5,416,180; Saxony, 3,179,168; Wurttemberg, 1,993,839; Baden, 1,956,272; Mecklenburg-Schwerin, 575,140; Saxe Weimar, 313,946; Mecklenburg-Strelitz, 94,371; Oldenburg, 341,525; Brunswick, 372,388; Saxe Meiningen, 214,697; Saxe Altenburg, 161,460; Saxe Coburg-Gotha, 198,829; Anhalt, 247,603; Schwartzburg-Rudolstadt, 83,836; Schwartzburg-Sonderhausen, 72,606; Waldeck, 56,595; Hesse (elder line), 53,904; Reuss (elder line), 112,118; Schaumburg-Lippe, 37,204; Lippe, 123,250; Lubek, 67,658; Bremen, 166,392; Hamburg, 518,620; Elsass-Lothringen, 1,564,354.

In round numbers 49,000,000 of people are under the sovereignty of the new Emperor, whose power is supported by Prince Bismarck, Count Von Moltke, and a standing army of 2,600,000 men, reserves which, if called into the field, would swell the army to 5,670,000 men, - and the enthusiastic love of his subjects.

Frederick the Third is, deservedly, the most popular Prince in Europe. That his life should now hang on a thread, that he may, ere many weeks or months have passed away, be numbered with "the great majority" is a sad prospect for the German people. It is, under any circumstances, hard to part from those we love; and complications may arise as a result of the decease of the Emperor, which may involve the German people in a great war.

The Reichsanzeiger publishes the following bulletin from the physicians attending the Crown Prince: "SAN REMO, March 8-11 a. m. - In view of the reports published alleging differences of opinion among the physicians attending the Crown Prince, the undersigned declare that as regards their ideas of the nature of the illness, no such divergences exist. Just as little do they maintain that a dangerous turn in the malady is imminent. The sole responsibility for the conduct and treatment of the case remains, as prior to the recent operation, in the hands of Dr. Mackenzie. In the interest of the august patient, as well as of the people who esteem, love and revere him, the doctors once more ask German and foreign papers to abstain from all discussion concerning his illness or the methods or instruments used in his treatment. The local disturbances in the barynx have not appreciably altered. The wound has healed and the canula lies comfortably. The patient's lungs are in a healthy condition. The cough and expectoration have diminished. The patient's strength is more satisfactory. His appetite is increasing; there is no digestive disorder, no pain on swallowing and no headache. He sleeps without interruption for hours together. As Dr. Bergmann's mission has terminated he will leave shortly.

(Signed) MACKENZIE, SCHRAEDER, KRAUSS, HOVELL, BERGMANN, BRAMANN.

Political Notes.

There have been introduced almost simultaneously into the Congress of the United States and the Parliament of Canada bills to provide for reciprocal wrecking privileges in the waters contiguous to the two countries, and it is earnestly to be hoped that effect will be given to the measures. The bill of Mr. Nutting of New York, provides that "Canadian vessels and wrecking apparatuses may render aid and assistance to Canadian or other vessels and property wrecked, disabled, or in distress in the waters of the United States contiguous to the Dominion of Canada," with a rider that the act shall not take effect until Canada reciprocates the privileges. The bill of Mr. Kirkpatrick, presented in the House of Commons, is in almost the same terms as follows: -

"Canadian vessels of all descriptions may render aid or assistance to American or other vessels wrecked or disabled in the waters of Canada contiguous to the United States." "This act shall take effect and remain in force when and so long as the like privilege is extended to Canadian vessels in respect of American vessels by the Government of the United States."

The great majority of the people in the Maritime Provinces desire to bring about closer trade relations with the Americans, and the new treaty appears to be a step in that direction. So it appears, on reflection, that all the talk about the "forty thousand fishermen" (there are not over half the number), and the "serious blow," and the disruption of the Confederation, and all the rest of it, was plain, unadulterated nonsense. It is safe to affirm that what the Mail doesn't know about the Maritime Provinces would make the fortune of a score of politicians.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie's words in the House of Commons on Monday night are worthy of more than ordinary attention just now. Referring to Mr. Mills' proposition in regard to the protocols of the fishery treaty, the late Prime Minister said, - "I object to any invitation of the kind. We ought not to ask Lord Salisbury to interfere in Canadian matters. I urge the Finance Minister not to invite Lord Salisbury or any other statesman on the other side to interfere more than is absolutely necessary, and I entirely object to the proposal."

On which the Montreal Gazette remarks: - "With the exponents of a bastard Liberalism seeking to weaken the Federal Government, setting the provinces against it, and calling for a curtailment of its powers by restoring to the Colonial office in London the right to interfere in Canadian domestic legislation, there is need for some such strong protest, and Mr. Mackenzie's words have as wide an application outside the House of Commons as they had in regard to the question immediately under discussion. Political Liberalism in this country has woefully degenerated since he was its foremost exponent."

The Orwell Club Trot.

Many people from the adjoining districts, and a goodly number from Charlottetown assembled at Brush Wharf on Saturday afternoon to witness the annual races under the auspices of the Orwell Trotting Club. Quite a number of handsome and speedy horses were on the track, and when the three minute class was called five were found ready to start. The heats were closely contested, and the race was well and impartially conducted. The result might have been different had it not been for an unavoidable foul caused by a horse not in the race, but the decision of the judges gave general satisfaction. The following is a summary: -

Three Minute Class. A. Stewart's b.g. Mount Albion Boy, 1 2 1 2 1 O. Hughes' b.m. Flora S., 4 1 2 1 4 - Buchanan's b.m. Maud Montague, 3 4 3 3 2 P. McKenna's b.m. Maiden Queen, 2 3 5 5 3 J. McDonald's b.m. Queen of Orwell, 5 4 4 5 5

The green race was also closely contested. First money was captured by M. Haley's bay mare, with W. Stewart's grey horse a good second, and Edward Fraser's Maud F. third. The day was all that could be desired, the track fair, the sport good, and all seemed highly pleased with their holiday. It is, however, to be regretted that although a number of Charlottetown horses were in attendance, none took part in the proceedings.

ANY one desiring a first-class oyster stew will be accommodated next Thursday night in the basement of Zion Church.

MR. JOSIAH CARMOODY will supply his customers with fresh oysters, (self-fished) every day, by the quart, peck and barrel. Sawy B's stand, No. 330 Dorchester Street East, Montreal, at 9 31 pd.

The Maritime Provinces.

(The Empire.)

The Mail has been harrowing the souls of patriotic Canadians by representing that the Fishery Treaty was nothing short of wholesale plunder of the Maritime Provinces. (The scene, of course, was laid a good way off from the sanctum.) In successive articles it declared (Feb. 16) that a good blow had been struck at those Provinces; then (Feb. 17) that the negotiation of the treaty would drive them out of the Canadian Union; then (Feb. 22) it is reported that they get nothing whatever for the alleged concessions; and, once more (Feb. 23) that "forty thousand fishermen" find nothing in the treaty except in the dim, distant, shadowy future that may never materialize. Here are some of the "horribles" from the Mail:

SERIOUS BLOW AT MARITIME PROVINCES. Mail, Feb. 16. It is obvious that a serious blow has been struck at the welfare of the Maritime Provinces.

MARITIME PROVINCES WILL BURST CONFEDERATION. (Mail, Feb. 17.)

We fear the people in the Lower Provinces will be driven to ask themselves what the advantages of the connection with Britain and with Confederation are, seeing that it affords them no protection in treaty negotiations with their neighbors and yet debars them from settling the questions in dispute through the means of unrestricted trade with their natural market.

Canadian fishermen receive no sort of equivalent for the concessions made to the Americans, except the barren privilege of fishing in American bays.

FOURTY THOUSAND EMPTY-HANDED FISHERMEN IN MARITIME PROVINCES. (Mail, Feb. 23.)

The promise held out to the forty thousand fishermen in the Maritime Provinces that by and by Congress may put fish on the free list is not likely to be satisfactory to them.

On Monday came the climax. The Maritime Provinces had been heard from.

THE MARITIME PROVINCES ALL WANT THE TREATY. (Mail, March 5.)

The great majority of the people in the Maritime Provinces desire to bring about closer trade relations with the Americans, and the new treaty appears to be a step in that direction. So it appears, on reflection, that all the talk about the "forty thousand fishermen" (there are not over half the number), and the "serious blow," and the disruption of the Confederation, and all the rest of it, was plain, unadulterated nonsense. It is safe to affirm that what the Mail doesn't know about the Maritime Provinces would make the fortune of a score of politicians.

Benevolent Irish Society.

At the regular annual meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society, held in their Hall, Prince Street, on Saturday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: -

Fatton-James Reddin, (re-elected). President-Francis E. McCarron. First Vice-President-D. O'M. Reddin, jr. Second Vice-President-Thomas Campbell. Treasurer-Antony J. Dougan. Secretary-Francis Curran.

Marshals-James Edmunds, Chief; Thomas Cass, John Mahar, Thomas Butler and Stephen Toole. Charity Committee-James Murphy, James Egan, Thomas Flynn, James McKenna and James McMurrer.

Hall Committee-Thomas Flynn, Michael Egan and Andrew Sullivan. Standard Bearers-James Trainor, Peter Bradley, John Kelly and John Johnstone. Messenger-John Lafferty.

Troubles of a Barmaid.

MARY ANN McEACHERN, the young woman who was on Saturday convicted of five violations of the Canada Temperance Act, and fined in the sum of $50 for each, went down to jail after the Court was over. The counsel for the defendant took the point that one month's imprisonment would satisfy all those fines, as the Magistrate had no authority to order that one commitment begin at the expiration of the other. The prosecutor, to avoid the difficulty arising from the fact that the Scott Act makes no provision for the collection of several sentences inflicted on the one day, lodged three commitments with the jailor, so that she could not obtain her release without the payment of $150, holding the others to enforce if she satisfied these in the jail. We learn that she paid her three fines to the jailor, and so obtained her release from custody. By the time Miss McEachern has paid the other two convictions, and has stood her trial for the remaining six, she will have learned that a barmaid's position is attended with much more risk than she anticipated.

Stipendiary Magistrate's Court.

Donald A. McAulay, drunk and incapable, $1 or 4 days imprisonment. Michael Cumiskey, drunk and incapable, $1 or 4 days. William Doyle, drunk and incapable, $1 or 4 days; afterwards released on condition that he leave the city. Robert Bell, drunk and disorderly, $30 or 30 days. John Connolly, violation Canada Temperance Act, two first offences, $50 each. Another Scott Act case adjourned. Peter Keenan, Francis Began and Patrick McTague, assaulting John McGuirk. Case further postponed for one week, owing to the continued absence of plaintiff. Defendants released on their own recognizance.
