

A Magistrate's Device.

HOW A YOUNG FRENCHMAN LOST HIS FORTUNE AND RECOVERED IT.

A young provincial, coming to Paris for the purpose of negotiating the purchase of a share in a commercial house, had on his arrival entrusted for safe keeping his capital, amounting to 50,000 livres, to a friend; and, the necessary arrangements having been completed, applied to him for restitution of the deposit. His friend who in the meantime had converted the sum in his own use, stared at him with well-feigned astonishment and flatly denied having received any money from him, and, on the other's reproaching him for his treachery, cut short the interview by accusing him of an attempt at extortion. Finding all remonstrance useless, the young man betook himself as a last resource to the hotel of the Lieutenant of Police and related him to the whole story.

When he had finished M. de Sartine enquired if he had not asked for a written acknowledgement of the deposit. "No," he replied, "I had no reason to doubt my friend's good faith, and demanded none."

Were any witnesses present on the occasion?" continued the questioner.

"Only his wife."

"That is quite sufficient," said the magistrate. "Go into the next room, and remain there until I send for you."

Summoning one of his exempts, he despatched him in quest of the individual suspected of fraud, and on the arrival, of the latter informed him that he was charged with refusing to give back a deposit of 50,000 livres which had been confided in his care.

"I know nothing about it," was the reply.

"That may be," said the Lieutenant, "but be satisfied me of your innocence you will write to your wife, who I am told witnessed the transaction, to this effect: 'Deliver to the bearer the 50,000 livres I received in deposit from Monsieur Jules Dutilleul, and add your customary signature.'"

Not daring to disobey the officer, the man, though with evidence reluctance did as he was enjoined, and the same exempt taking charge of the missive returned in a short time with the money. Confounded by the discovery of his guilt, the culprit fell on his knees before the magistrate and implored his clemency, whereupon M. de Sartine after severely reprimanding him for his treachery, added to his confession by confronting him with the dupe, to whom he returned the stolen property cautioning him in future to be more careful in the choice of his friends. Etc.

Lemon and hot Water.

A sallow faced young man stood at the prescription counter of an up town drug store the other day and surveyed the clerk with heavy, yellow eyes.

"Not feeling well?" observed the latter, pleasantly.

"Should say I wasn't responded the other, gruffly.

"What's the matter?" "Headache, liver out of order, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't even drink. Life's a gloomy, dismal, dyspeptic fraud, and I don't know what to do. I believe I'd die to-day if I didn't have a business engagement to-morrow, and I hardly think I could get over it in time to meet my man."

"I'll tell you what to take," observed the clerk, suavely. "It will do you good. If it doesn't I don't know what will."

"What is it? I don't want any old medical chestnut. My stomach is educated up to appreciate novelties." "It is a simple remedy and efficacious," returned the clerk. "It is merely lemon juice squeezed into a glass of hot water, without sugar or a 'stick.' Drink a glass of this night and morning and see what the effect will be. I recommended it to a friend of mine the other day who was much sicker than you. He tried it, and found himself better almost immediately. His daily headaches, which medicine had failed to cure, left him, his appetite improved and he gained several pounds in weight within a few weeks. After a while he omitted the drink, either at night or in the morning, and now at times does without either of them. I am satisfied from experiments that there is no better medicine for those persons who are troubled with bilious and liver complaints than the simple remedy I have given. It is far better than quinine or any other drug, and it is devoid to their injurious consequences. It excites the liver, stimulates the digestive organs and tones up the system generally. It is not unpleasant to take, either; indeed one soon gets to liking it.—New York Mail and Express

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It softens the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other cause. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

Ottawa advices report that the unrevised statement of inland revenue accrued during November, places the amount at $571,140. Of this $250,000 came from spirits, and $147,000 from tobacco and cigars.

TAMARAC. Alderman R. E. Elbeck, Kingston, Ont. says: "Tamarac Elixir" is the best medicine on earth for Coughs and Colds. In my own case it produced rapid and gratifying results. I caught a severe cold which it seemed impossible to break up, but continually became more thoroughly seated. Finally a hacking cough set in which troubled me day and night, causing soreness of the Lungs. Hearing your "Tamarac" highly recommended, I procured a bottle. The first dose eased the cough, and one bottle completely cured me. It is a splendid preparation, pleasant to the taste, and should be kept in every house. Sept. 21, 1887.—eod & wky

$500 REWARD is offered by the manufacturer of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, curdled, bloody, and purulent; the eyes weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, and a general sense of uneasiness, together with scabs from ulcers; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony" from Catarrh. Prof. W. HAUSER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered from chronic catarrh of the head. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting." THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 202 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure." Three Bottles Cure Catarrh. ELI ROBBINS, Bunyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."
