LAST POST

Soldierly in appearance, the late Mr. Kennedy was a familiar figure at veterans' gatherings and was quite active in his later years. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the Cutcliffe Funeral Home. The service at the home and grave was conducted by the Rev. G. Carlyle Webster, assisted by the Rev. J. R. Skinner.

The pallbearers were Major T.E. MacNutt, Ira M. Brown, E.E. Trauberg, George Sheehan, Charles E. Hine and Ambrose Rodd. Messrs. Hine and Rodd were fellow campaigners with Mr. Kennedy in South Africa. The members of the Canadian Legion attended the funeral in a body. The Last Post was sounded at the grave by Bugler Smith.

The banquet will be at 7:30 Thursday evening at the Charlottetown Hotel. All in all this year's Fox and Mink Show with its large entry list and consequent enthusiasm together with the uplift in prices which is promised in 1951 should be one that will bring back memories of better days and one can be sure it will be of considerable promotional value for this important industry. All citizens are cordially invited to attend the judging at the Fox Pavilion where there is comfortable seating and an excellent view of the exhibits.

Navy League, Sea Cadets Send Ditty Bags To Sailors

A number of Canadian sailors in Korean waters will feel grateful to Charlottetown and to the local branch of the Navy League and Sea Cadets in particular when they receive the twenty-five "ditty bags" shipped from here yesterday afternoon.

The twenty-five bags, each containing chewing gum, concentrated soups, cigarettes, tooth paste, writing paper, pencils, needles, thread and other materials were forwarded as gifts to the tars from the Navy League in co-operation with the Sea Cadets.

RESCUE PARTY

(Continued from Page 1) The Canadian pilgrims had gone to Rome for the beatification last Sunday of Marguerite Bourgeoys, the French-born nun who came to Montreal 300 years ago to found the congregation of the Sisters of Our Lady. Most of the pilgrims were from Montreal, Quebec City and villages fringing the St. Lawrence River.

The plane, piloted by Captain Orville Alfred Ohmstead, 28, of Montreal, finally got away at 2:15 p. m. A Rome airport communique said the original flight route was from Rome to Bastia, Corsica, to Marseille, Lyon and Paris, but the place at which the accident occurred makes it clear that, after having passed Bastia, instead of continuing towards Marseille, the pilot pointed directly toward Lyon and so skirted the Alps more closely.

The plane had made 30 successful round trip flights to Rome with pilgrims since last April. The four-engine aircraft, a DC-4 which is similar to the Canadian-built North Star, was operated by a private Canadian charter firm—Curtiss-Reid Air Tours Ltd. of Cartierville, Que. It was to take the pilgrims from Rome to Montreal via Paris and Shannon, Ireland.

From a witness' description of the wreckage, death was sudden. Robert Pontonier of Grenoble, among the first to brave Mont L'Obiou, said on his return that only one of the bodies was in any way intact and this one had been decapitated.

Plane Smashed

"The plane was also smashed to bits," he said. "The biggest single piece we saw was part of an engine. Pontonier said the craft had disintegrated as if it exploded from within, but he saw no sign of fire and the bodies were not charred. Residents of the area had told of seeing a sudden red glow through the fog at the time of the crash, as if the plane had burst into flames. Preliminary surveys by Pontonier and some 40 or 50 others who made the difficult ascent, indicated the plane may have hit only a few hundred feet from the top of the peak and then tumbled to the 6,000-foot level. Evidence of fire may be higher up.

The plane which twirled the fuselage and the remaining wing directly into the north face of the peak," Pontonier said. "This accounts for the smashed condition of the plane and the bodies."

He reported the instruments were destroyed, a circumstance bound to hamper any official inquiry. The plane had made radio contact with a Lyon airport, but then lost touch.

An advance headquarters was set up at the town of Corps. From Corps, reports were channelled back by radio and telegrams to the Grenoble Syndicat D'Initiative—a sort of Chamber of Commerce. Bad weather forced the crews to halt work after darkness fell.

To Bring Down Bodies

Officials said more than 100 men will climb the mountain Wednesday and bring down the bodies. The bodies will be placed in a temporary channel to await instructions from Canada.

Mont L'Obiou is about 30 miles south of Grenoble. It is only 85 air miles from the site in the Alps where an Indian Constellation crashed Nov. 3 with a loss of 48 lives.

At Paris today, a tourist agency spokesman said the pilgrims were originally to have flown home in an American Trans-World Airlines plane rather than the Curtiss-Reid aircraft. Roger Guillemin, who arranged the pilgrimage, said the Canadian Government would not allow use of the T. W. A. plane.

In Ottawa, a Government aviation official said that was possible and if so, it was because of an international understanding that permission for non-scheduled flights go first to airlines of the two countries between which the flight is to be made—in this case, Canada and Italy.

Several Family Groups

The victims included several family groups. Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Michaut of Flessingue, Que., were reported to have left 19 children at home. Ernest Tremblay, 27, of St. Anne De La Pointe, Que., and his 26-year-old bride, Aline, had been on their honeymoon.

Prominent among the priests was Mgr. J. Alderville Bureau, 47, former dean of catholical law at Laval University, Quebec, and recently attached to the Quebec Archbishop's Palace. The Pope, who offered special prayers for the victims at his private chapel today, cabled messages of condolence to the Canadian Government and to the families of the pilgrims.

Southport Man Heads Milk Producers Ass'n Annual Meeting Of Nurses Ass'n

Mr. Roland MacDonald, Southport, was elected president of the Milk Producers and Vendors Association at the annual meeting of the Association held at Birch Court last night. He succeeds Mr. Smith MacFarlane who had been president for the last three years. Mr. Walter Cox of Charlottetown was elected vice-president, and Mr. Percy Gay of this City was re-elected secretary. Seven directors were appointed, three from the producers, three from the processors and one from the producer-distributors.

Following are the directors: Producers, Messrs. Leigh Kennedy and Roland MacDonald, Southport; Jack Bell, Winsloe; processors, Messrs. Walter Hartz, Walter Cox and Percy Gay, Charlottetown; producer-distributor, Mr. C. J. Wood, Bunbury. Mr. Smith MacFarlane, the retiring president was not nominated to the board of directors on his own request. A vote of thanks to Mr. MacFarlane for the efficient manner in which he fulfilled the duties of president was moved by Hon. Eugene Cullen, Minister of Industry and Natural Resources.

The reduction in the sale of fluid milk due to the increase in consumption of powdered milk was posed a very serious problem by Mr. Claude Smith, Central Royalty.

Mr. Smith felt that the store operators were urging the sale of powdered milk and that the milk producers and distributors should look into the matter.

Describes Winnipeg Trip

Dr. W. R. Carson, member of the City Milk Board, spoke at the meeting on his recent trip to Winnipeg where he attended the annual meeting of the International Federation of Milk Boards. Dr. Carson explained the set up of the milk boards in many of the provinces stressing the board in Ontario where the prices are set by the distributor. This results in different prices for different localities but is a well received plan, he stated.

A milk distributor from Minneapolis outlined a plan at the International meeting whereby milk purchased in quantity is bought cheaper than milk bought by the single quart. For example, one quart of milk is bought at twenty cents but five quarts can be purchased for sixteen cents or a total of eighty cents. People in apartment houses buy collectively and obtain cheaper milk.

Dr. Carson visited his home town Vanguard, Sask., and found many startling changes. He noticed that many of the farm homes had disappeared and on inquiry found that the western farmer had become so highly mechanized that he lived in town and drove to his grain fields.

Beer taverns he termed a curse as most of the young men, after working for the summer, spent the winter drinking beer. "I never want to see beer parlors in P. E. I.," he stated.

Farmers in Saskatchewan were hard hit by frost this past season, he added. "One woman told me that if they had harvested their full crop they would have made $25,000. However, she has purchased a new motor since I returned home although the crop was partly destroyed. This is the way with the western farmers, they just think of next year; it is a land of tomorrow.

"Edmonton is the boom town of the west, as it is increasing at the rate of 20,000 people a year," he stated. The oil was greatly in evidence and was making it possible for Prairie people to obtain gasoline at four cents a gallon less than previously.

Hon. Eugene Cullen, Minister of Industry and Natural Resources stated that he had met with Mr. Lincoln Dewar regarding the advertising of milk and found that advertising in the local section of the press was most effective. He stated that Mr. Dewar was doing a splendid job along the advertising line.

The meeting voted that the annual amount of $50.00 be paid to the Federation of Agriculture.

New Schools In 19 Localities Built This Year

Nineteen new class rooms having a total of forty class rooms have either been completed or nearly completed in the Department of Education building program for this year, it was learned yesterday from Dr. L. W. Shaw, Director of Education.

These new schools are being built in the following districts: Brockton, Alberton South, Elmsdale, Eilerslie, Auburn, Abrams Village, Summerside Airport, Emyvale, York, Mermaid, New Glasgow, Alberry Plains, Granville, Monticello, St. Peter's South, East Royalty, West Royalty, Central Royalty and Winsloe.

Central Royalty and Abrams Village schools have four class rooms, while East Royalty and Winsloe have three. Alberton South, Elmsdale, Emyvale, York, St. Peter's South and West Royalty each have two.

Additional class rooms are being built onto the following schools: North Tryon, one; Summerside, three; Millview, St. Peter's Lake and Montague each have one.

Three schools which should be operating are vacant but one of them, at Nail Pond, may have a teacher within a day or so. Dr. Shaw stated about fifteen schools, mostly in the eastern section of the Province having an insufficient number of children to operate, are vacant.

Correspondence Courses

The children in these fifteen districts are either being transported to nearby schools or are educated by correspondence courses.

These courses are conducted by Mr. Edward MacPhail of the Department of Education and cover the work taught in the public schools from Grades one to ten. Separate courses are given in Latin.

During the past six years about 1050 young people have been instructed by this method. The highest enrollment was during the school year 1946-47 when 301 students took various courses. 105 students are enrolled this year.

Following is the enrollment for the past six years: 1944-45, 141; 1945-46, 208; 1946-47, 301; 1947-48, 156; 1948-49, 132; 1949-50, 105.

The courses are made available for crippled and isolated children and those living in districts that have no teacher employed. Permit teachers or older people who have been away from teaching for a number of years also make use of the correspondence courses.

About 70 of the teachers employed are teaching with permits rather than a regular licence. There are about 90 students taking teacher training at Prince of Wales College.
