ELLEN'S DIARY

Old Folklore Explains This Very Damp, Cold Month

"When July happens to have two new moons. ... "a visitor of today observed, with an ominous nod.

"And the 13th, chances to fall on a Friday!" another remarked, with a chuckle.

"And St. Swithen's Day is apt to break dampish" one of the family added.

"Then" the first said, " the signs aren't too promising for clearing weather ahead."

"But when you come to think of it" the second offered, "it's the same moon, the same Friday, the same St. Swithen's Day all over Canada, and this weather hasn't been general, even in the Provinces not far away."

In any event, we recalled that, so far, July had not given us to see moonlight on the white of the daisied field across the creek, that, sheltered by woodlands and fringed by the alder-ed stream at its foot, spreads so prettily there, when summer is warm on the farmlands.

"Stir the fire, Ellen — and put down the teapot" James suggested as this night neared our bedtime. . . . The combination of dampish weather, and the inconvenience occasioned by a misery of hand, has left him in a state of enforced idleness which is more or less hard to bear. "And" as he says "with so much work waiting to be done."

Now, Saturday, closing out our workaday week goes, pausing, we fancy, at the hilltop to catch a second breath, before continuing on the way. And what do we mostly recall of the week? The damp with its mist-scarfed horizons? The fog above the stream? The cool winds? We think not. Rather, it is the glimpses of sunshine we have had, lifting briefly the beclouded gray. How we shall enjoy the long sweet summer- days washed with the gold of it, which for us lie ahead!

Spells of weeding, the week gave. Spells of shingling on the roof of this old house. Spells, we chuckle to remember them, for which she scattered in front of the bride as the wedding party entered the church.

Camille Haddad, brother of the groom, was the bestman and the ushers were Jean Pierre Azar, Paul Azar and Emile Haddad, brother of the groom. The attendants were George and John Haddad, brothers of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Zakem wore a beige and coffee sheath with imported lace bodice. Her hat was of coffee net over organza and her bag and shoes were in matching shades. Her corsage was of orange delight roses. Mrs. Haddad chose a beige sheath of imported dragline with matching hat and stole. A corsage of orange delight roses completed her ensemble.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Maxime's Lounge where the bride's table was centered with a five tier wedding cake and flanked by baskets of gladioli. Mr. Frank Zakem, brother of the bride, was the master of ceremonies.

For travelling on her honeymoon trip Mrs. Haddad chose a blue sheath of imported dragline with matching cape and white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Assad Azar, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Salym Zakem, Hautrive, P.Q. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Courtemanche, Granby; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Azar, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Azar, Hull; Mrs. William Farrah, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Azar, Soulange, P.Q. Mr. and Mrs. Basila Haddad, Ottawa; Miss Alexandra, Miss Nebiha and Mrs. Anina Haddad, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Elias Haddad, Ottawa, Mr. Adell Haddad, Ottawa; Mr. and and Mrs. Joseph Zakem, Charlottetown and Mr. Abe and Mr. Frank Zakem of Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Haddad are residing at 6601 — 39th Avenue, Rosemont, Montreal, Que.

Margaret Zakem Is Wed In Ceremony At Montreal

The marriage took place at the St. Sauveur Catholic Church in Montreal on Monday, July 2 at 10.00 a.m. of Margaret Zakem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Zakem of Charlottetown and Micheal Anthony Haddad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haddad, Rosemont, Montreal.

Rev. George Coriaty, BS, and Rev. Paul Robehmod, BS, officiated at the ceremony and Msgr. Athanase Nounc, BS, representing the Bazalian order and patriarch in Rome was present in the sanctuary.

For the occasion the church was decorated at the altar with bouquets of gladioli and gladoli were also used to mark the guest pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radient in a floor length gown of white organza of peau de soie with rounded neckline and illy-point sleeves. The fitted bodice featured appliques of lace and the skirt of the gown was enhanced by a long chapel train. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion fell from a crown of crystals and pearls and her bouquet featured white orchids and nugget pom-poms.

Mrs. James Haddad, Montreal, sister of the bride was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Jean Zakem, Charlottetown, sister of the bride and Gloria Haddad, Montreal, niece of the bride. They wore identical gowns of white organza over peau de sole in a street length with lace bodices and full bouffant skirts. Their headresses were of white shredded organza with a spray of blue surrounded by layers of veiling and their bouquets were of white carnations sprayed with blue.

The flower girl, Nancy Haddad, Montreal, niece of the bride, wore a dress of white tulle over satin trimmed with lace and sequined appliques. She carried a white basket of petals

Granddaughter to practise her driving, which leads up to the possession of an operator's license. . .

When she is at the wheel doing turns in the yard, Mack offside, grins with some envy and suggests, "You move over and let me in there. I'll l'arn you how to handle that machine!"

"All you have to do" Alex watching, will explain "is put your foot on the clutch and. . ." then over the other details "and away you go!" he will smile.

"She's doing well" James will say, watching her back the machine to a desired spot. "Now" he will call "turn your wheel. . . . more. . . a little more. . . easy now. Golly, that should have come naturally to anyone born to a farm!

If you can back a horse and wagon, you can back a machine."

And we smile. So many farm-children in this age, have never driven a horse and wagon — have little if any acquaintance with that exciting art.

So another week is away to journey's end. Were, the thought comes to us, its days well spent? How shall we know? One says:

"If we sit down at set of sun
And count the acts that we have done,
And, counting, find
One self- denying act, one word,
That eased the heart of him, who heard,
One glance most kind,
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then, we may count that day well spent."

Until Monday — — Diary — Good-night. . . . .
