SCORED GOALS — In account of the West Kent, Montague High School hockey game in yesterday's paper, the first goal should have read B. Clair, assists, Waterworth and Sullivan; and in the second period the goal scored by Murphy was assisted by Clair.

CASE FURTHER ADJOURNED — The case of the two Montague residents charged with hunting migratory birds within a half-mile of a baited area, adjourned for judgment on Monday, was again adjourned for judgment until Monday, February 8th. The Magistrate allowed a defendant to submit additional evidence for the defence. Counsel for the defence, Mr. R. R. Bell, was not present.

PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWERS — A delightful shower was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Frances Shaw, Montague, in honor of Miss Joyce Proctor, whose marriage to Mr. Alan Nelson takes place on Saturday. Over twenty-five guests were present, and Miss Proctor was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts. The verses were read by Mrs. Alex Hutcheson. After an evening of entertainment, a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. Last evening was also held in Miss Proctor's honor at the home of Miss Barbara MacLure, where she was again the recipient of many lovely gifts. Miss Proctor is engaged as lab technician at the King's County Hospital.

Liner Arcadia Completes Trials

LONDON, (Reuters) — The $18,000,000 liner Arcadia arrived at London's Tilbury docks Tuesday after completing her trials on her first voyage from the Clyde where she was launched last May. The Arcadia, latest addition to the Peninsula and Orient Line's Britain-Australia fleet, will remain at Tilbury until she leaves for her maiden voyage to Australia Feb. 22 via India and Ceylon. The 20,734-ton vessel which has accommodation for 1,414 passengers and a crew of 711, cost more to build than either the Queen Elizabeth or the Queen Mary.

Souris Home And School Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Souris Home and School Association was held in Souris High School with a large attendance. Previous to the business, a group of girls and boys from St. Mary's Convent, grade eleven class, entertained with an interesting debate. The subject of the debate was "Resolved that people of today are happier than the people of 50 years ago."

Miss Helen Marie MacCormack occupied the chair during the debate and introduced each of the speakers. The pro-speaker, Helen MacDonald and Norma White, the con-speakers were Mrs. Reagh Ellis, Arthur Peters and Paul MacLean. Judges were Mr. J. R. MacLean, Mrs. Emmett Pierce and Mr. M. J. McQuaid, who had a most difficult task. The decision was awarded to the con. speakers by a small majority of points.

Following the debate the president Mr. J. R. MacLean, returned to the chair. The correspondence included a detailed report of the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Home and School Federation by the provincial president, Mrs. J. Gordon MacDonald.

It was decided that Fish Liver Oil capsules be purchased from the Red Cross Society for the children of both schools. Monsignor Murphy, congratulated the debaters and their coach for the fine entertainment which they provided for the meeting.

their bishop in the upbuilding—the edification—of the body of Christ which is His church. "The bishop in our day brings the gospel to the present generation and interprets that gospel in terms of the moral and religious truths which must govern social and public life as well as the private lives of the faithful."

Represents Cardinal

Speaking directly to the Catholics who will come under his jurisdiction, Archbishop Berry said "I confide in the Lord who is my shepherd, the hopes of the future, which I pledge to give to all of you, the poor, the unfortunate as well as the comfortable, the happy and the educated, the best that is in me for the glory of God."

Attending the ceremony were representatives of the Canadian United States and French governments, Lieutenant-Governor Allister Fraser of Nova Scotia; Premier Angus L. Macdonald, and provincial legislature members.

Among the more than 200 clergy in attendance were Most Rev. J. P. Whalen, auxiliary Bishop of Montreal, representing Paul-Emile Cardinal Léger, and Archbishop P. F. Pocock of Winnipeg.

Archbishop Berry, born in Montreal 52 years ago, was educated at the College de Montreal, the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and studied at Queen's University of Kingston, Ont. He majored in sociology at the Catholic University of Washington and holds his licentiate in theology. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1927, serving as the curate of the Church of the Ascension at Westmount, Que.

He was director of the Catholic Welfare Bureau of Montreal from 1940 to 1945, when he was consecrated as bishop of Pellerin, and named head of the Federated Catholic Charities.

He made his first visit to Rome during the Holy Year, 1952.

Mayfair Theatre At Murray River Opened

In the traditional ceremony of cutting the ribbon, Premier A. W. Matheson officially opened the new Mayfair Theatre before a very large audience at Murray River last night. Speaking to his constituents, Premier Matheson expressed his delight to be among them again and congratulated the people of Murray River on their very progressive community. He commended Mr. E. K. Johnston, an enterprising young man, who was responsible for the erection of the exceedingly fine theatre in the village which would prove an added factor in the development of the community.

"Mr. Johnston deserves great credit for his initiative and enterprise," he said, "for he has contributed in no small measure to the progress of Murray River." Premier Matheson spoke in glowing terms of the lovely new theatre, and extended his hopes and best wishes to Mr. Johnston for its future success.

Hon. Donald MacKinnon, Minister of Public Works and Highways, also extended his congratulations to Mr. Johnston, "whose energy and foresight," he said, "has helped to place Murray River as an important point on the Island."

The opening of the new theatre was another milestone in the progress of the village, he said, and its future development into a community centre was a most valuable contribution to the growing citizenry of the town for many young men and women to remain in this fruitful area where many opportunities for a diversified mode of livelihood were available. To Mr. Johnston and to the success of the new theatre, Mr. MacKinnon wished the best of luck.

Mr. W. A. Gaudet, Charlottetown, also extended his congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Johnston for the success of his new theatre. At the conclusion of the official opening ceremony, Dr. M. L. Bonnell, M.L.A., chairman for the evening announced that on Thursday and Friday there would be the first showing of 3-D in the Province at the new Mayfair Theatre.

Soviet Plan

Russia is purely defensive. He said BEPC would inevitably lead to opposing military blocs in Europe instead of guaranteeing security. The spokesman also asked why only six of the 32 states in Europe should be entitled to determine "the prosperity and development of all Europe."

"Why should these six states decide on peace or war?" he asked. Dulles, chairman at the session, said Russia's plan to permit a reunited Germany to possess land, sea and air forces independent of EDC or any other safeguard posed a "terrifying" picture.

"The Soviet Union proposes that Germany should be allowed to have defensive strength on a national basis," Dulles said. "But Germany had national forces strong enough to defend itself from external attack. It would be so strong that it would threaten all of western Europe."

He added: "The greatest danger to world peace lies in the fact that in some cases, a vast military establishment can be made to attack by the decision of a single man, sometimes indeed by the decision of a single man."

Molotov hardly budged in his chair, listening patiently, as Dulles pointed out that Molotov was not inflexible. "I recall that Mr. Molotov was wrong in 1939 when he condemned France and Britain as being aggressors and ordered Hitlerite Germany as being the peace-seeking country."

But Molotov grinned broadly when Dulles, attacking the one-party election system in Communist East Germany, held up a sample ballot naver, in which he said there was no space to vote: "No."

made available to the corporation for these latter activities, Mr. Mansur said in a 31-page statement outlining some of the new legislation's features. In all, CMHC will be allowed to insure a total of $2,000,000,000 worth of mortgages.

Allegiance To Crown

A message from Prime Minister Robert Menzies said: "The welcome awaiting Your Majesty and His Royal Highness in Sydney tomorrow will be a splendid demonstration of Australia's allegiance to the crown."

"It will also be an expression of the warm personal affection we feel for you both. On behalf of the Australian government, I wish you good health and much happiness during your Australian tour." Elizabeth replied: "I sincerely thank you for the loyal message of welcome which you have sent me on behalf of the Australian government and which my husband and I most warmly appreciate."

Herbert Ewart, leader of the Australian Labor Opposition Party, said in a statement: "The Australian nation will acclaim Her Majesty particularly as for the first time in history the royal style and title of the sovereign expressly make Elizabeth II queen of this Commonwealth of Australia. As Her Majesty and the Duke of Edinburgh will personally meet only a comparatively small section of official or group representatives it is right to emphasize that their real welcome will come from the hearts of the great masses of the people."

Canon Moffatt pointed out that the duty of a professional person was one of service. He explained that this did not mean that they were to cater to the wants of the patient nor to their own desires but to apply their knowledge to bring relief to the sick.

"Emotions," said Canon Moffatt, "play a very important part in the life of the individual and intelligence and will be the controlling factors of our emotions. The sick room is charged with emotions such as fear and sorrow and if allowed to become excessive there, to bring a measure of control to these emotions."

During the ceremony Miss Beatrice Mair played the Prelude and a delightful trio was sung by Misses Joyce Stewart, Lottie Campbell, and Irene Giddings. The Florence Nightingale Pledge was read by Canon Moffatt and repeated in chorus by the students.

Georgetown In 17-5 Win Over Souris Team

Georgetown Eagles, short five regulars, defeated the Souris Tigers, who led eight men, at Georgetown last night in an exhibition hockey game. It was fast and clean on an excellent sheet of ice and despite the one-sided score some good passing hockey was dished up. Sullivan in the Eagles' net robbed Souris of many sure looking counters.

Lineups: — Souris: Goal, Steele; defence, M. Gallant, Campbell; forwards, MacPhee, Lavie, MacDonald, Jarvis, L. Gallant.

Georgetown: Goal, Sullivan; defence, MacPhee, MacLean, Johnson; forwards, Murphy, Stevens, Fulcover, MacNeil, Power, Gallant.

Referees: R. Condon, G. Lavers. For Georgetown Stevens and MacNeill divided the scoring chores with five goals each, while Murphy and Power got three each and Fulcover the other.

For the visitors Campbell got a pair, with L. Gallant, Lavie and MacPhee accounting for singles.

Neutralized Germany

six-nation, supra-national European army. This was the best method of countering the danger that a re-armed Germany might again attack France or Russia.

"A solution of this European problem, which is also an Atlantic problem and therefore a Canadian problem, can be found in Germany's disarmament and neutralization, or indeed in Germany's rearmament and neutralization."

"That solution... does appeal to the Communist for obvious reasons. It would mean the exclusion of Germany from the developing European system, and it would release her from any responsibility for sharing in collective defence against aggression."

Better Approach

"Surely it is not realistic to have any permanent policy on the disarmament, the control and the neutralization of 65,000,000 Germans inside their present boundaries. Surely it is better to bind Germany not only to the rest of Europe but to the Atlantic community."

The Soviet delegation at the Berlin conference may once again pretend that Germany can be united in an all-German government, formed not by free elections but by merging the present East and West German governments.

"Well, we all know what happened to democracy in Poland and Czechoslovakia when Russian Communist agents were allowed to share governmental responsibility with genuine democrats. It would be deplorable if that tragic error were repeated in Germany."

It is extremely unlikely Canada could accept, either the Russian proposal for liquidation of Allied bases in Germany and withdrawal of Allied forces there Canada has spent hundreds of millions of dollars to put an infantry brigade in Germany and an air division in Europe as part of its share in Western defence. Two of the division's four wings are based in Germany.

Harness Racing Czar In N.Y. Named

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey Tuesday signed his Republican administration's harness racing "czar" bill and formally appointed George Monaghan to rule the scandal-packed sulky.

The former New York City police commissioner was sworn in as czar in a few minutes after the Senate confirmed his nomination. Democrats contended the bill was window-dressing arranged by Dewey to grab the headlines in order to convince the public he was taking new, vigorous action in his drive to purge the sport.

Capacity House Greets Boosters' Club Show At P.W.C. Last Night

A galaxy of local talent well qualified to aspire to a broader field in the realm of show business, presented two hours of unusually good entertainment before a capacity house which greeted them at Prince of Wales College Auditorium last evening in their opening performance of a three-night run as the "All Star Minstrel Revue."

The show was presented by the Islanders Booster Club and produced by Ambie Weatherbie and Ivan Doherty and directed by Austin Connolly and Loman McAulay, each of whom is a veteran entertainer, well qualified to give leadership to the organization.

The presentation was under the distinguished patronage of His Honour Lieutenant Governor T. W. L. Prowse and Mrs. Prowse, the Hon. Premier A. W. Matheson and Mrs. Matheson, His Worship Mayor J. D. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, Hon. B. Earle MacDonald accompanied by Mrs. Quartet, Red Sanitation, the Premier and Mrs. Matheson in their unavoidable absence at this opening night.

The Lieutenant Governor's party included Capt. J. J. Connolly, naval aide and Mrs. Connolly and Wing Commander Alan MacMillan and Mrs. MacMillan.

The stage setting displayed all the essentials for an old-time minstrel show with a background of three rows of beautifully gowned ladies, on whom the lighting effect played with pleasing effect. The male members of the ensemble were also uniformly attired.

The Minstrels were: Interlocutor, Loman McAulay; Bones, Elmer Gallant and Hughie Trainor; Tambourine, Ambie Weatherbie and Ivan Doherty; Quarts, Fred McNeil and Loman McAulay; Trio, Marilyn Rupert, Nancy McNevin and Barbara Rupert; Orchestra: Violins, Kay Hornby, Thelma Teed; banjos, H. Warren, I. Yeo; sax, Les Alexander; drums, Abe Douglas; trumpet, F. Smith; piano, B. Connolly, A. Blanchard; stage setting, L. E. Moore; sound, Stewart Smith; electrician, Burke Electric; lights, Ted Mullins.

Soloists were: Nancy McNevin, Jim Flannigan, Ivan Doherty, Earl Hennessey, Ambie Weatherbie, Maureen Blake, Jack Haystead, Hughie Trainor, Kay Gallant, Charlie Smith, Frank McIntyre, Helen Roach and Elmer Gallant.

A clever comedy number of dancing and fiddling was given by Dennis Dowling and a tap dancing routine by Margaret Rose and Mildred Roberts with Aeneas Curley as violinist was also a pleasing number.

Applause was spontaneous throughout and despite the heavy routine demands made on the performers they were most generous in responding to encores.

Following is the cast: Marilyn Rupert, Kay Gallant, Maureen Blake, Nancy McNevin, Mary Campbell, Rita Shanahan, Peggy Dowling, Betty McAulay, JoAnn Tanton, Helen Roache, Barbara MacDonald, Joyce Partridge, Lorna Flood, Eleanor Trainor, Phyllis Brown, Barbara Campbell, Eleanor McGregor, Marion Punter, Jack Haystead, Alfred Crawford, Heber MacAusland, Leo

Asks Independent Study Carl Nickle (PC-Calgary South) said he supports the bill's general objective of increasing indemnities. Members should not have to draw on their private incomes to enable themselves to carry out their duties.

He said, however, he was voting against second reading because he disagreed with the method by which the amounts were deduced. The government should withdraw the bill for an "independent study" aimed at a general change of all defects in the legislation dealing with the Senate and the House of Commons.

Elmore Philpott (L—Vancouver South) referred to the statements of some CCF members that old age pensions and war veterans allowances should be increased before indemnities were raised. The indemnity increase was not a substitute for pensions and allowances increases. The question was simply whether MPs should have an indemnity which allowed them to survive. By voting for that principle, members would be supporting the principle of a more generous approach to pensions and veterans' allowances.

Rules On Custody Of Children

TORONTO, (CP) — Mr. Justice F. D. Hogg has ruled in effect that the custody of infants should not be taken away from a mother even if she is of a "somewhat unstable character and has interested herself to an unwise extent in another man."

Chief Justice J. K. Pickup concurred in Mr. Justice Hogg's reasons Monday for allowing an appeal by Mrs. Glenyce Lorna Philpott, 28, of Barnia for the custody of her three-year-old twin children, a boy and a girl.

The appeal court thus reversed a judgment by Judge E. A. Shanahan of Lambton County in August, 1953, which awarded custody to the husband, John Kenneth Philpott, 34.

C.C.F. Party

A day-and-a-half debate was concluded by Prime Minister St. Laurent, who said members should vote on the principle of a pay increase. The vote on second reading did not mean that those who voted for the bill were approving every part of the bill.

He said it was apparent that the Progressive Conservatives did not expect the bill would be defeated. He also left the door open for the Senate to vote themselves a smaller increase. He said that arguments for a $4,000 increase to senators "to the same extent" to apply. If senators felt it was not proper to accept the same indemnity, the Commons would agree to a reduction.

The seven CCF members voting for the bill included Charlie Gillis (Cape Breton South). The three independents were Raoul Poulin (Beauce), Paul Gagnon (Chicoutimi), and Fernand Girard (La-pointe).

Open Vote Mr. St. Laurent had said earlier that all members should vote as they saw fit personally. However, the CCF was the only party to split.

The bill now will be given clause-by-clause study and CCF members have indicated they will propose amendments. Mr. Coldwell has said the increase should be limited to $2,000.

During the debate Tuesday Joseph W. Roseworthy (York South), one of the CCF members who voted for the increase, said $10,000 is not too high, compared with salaries of executives in private business.

The amount of indemnity was not a factor in whether or not a member was close to his constituents. If the people had wanted representatives in Parliament from average income groups, they had "ample opportunity" to elect them last summer when unsuccessful CCF candidates earned as little as any member would want to receive.

Members were "much more interested" in electing candidates successful in business or professions. Members should not be forced by low indemnities to neglect their duties in order to implement their incomes by outside work.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Asiniboia) who opposed second reading, said a $2,000 increase would be "quite satisfactory." That would give members an annual pay of $8,000, equal to the pay during the last parliament when six sessions were held during four years.
