

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 5, 1881.

The Bench and the Bar.

So the Messrs. Peters are again pleading to their father; or, perhaps, it would be better to say that the father is trying a case in which his sons are advocates. This reminds us of an anecdote of an English Judge and his son. The son had passed the necessary examinations, become enrolled as a barrister, and was being formally presented to the Court. The father was presiding. When he was introduced as "barrister," the Judge said he was very happy, etc.; but expressed the hope that this would be the last and only time, while he was upon the Bench, that the new barrister would appear before the Court in his barristerial capacity. This also reminds us that a year or two ago, a young barrister in Montreal appeared once as an advocate in the Court presided over by his father; but the Bar and the Press of that city raised such a row about it that he did not do it a second time. If we remember aright, Judge Henry withdrew when his son appeared before the Supreme Court of Canada as advocate in a certain case; and we believe that it is not usual for sons to plead before their fathers in any part of the Queen's dominions, except in Prince Edward Island.

Indeed the judicial and legal situation in this Island seems to be altogether anomalous. Roughly speaking we have Palmer & Palmer & Palmer, viz.: Palmer on the Bench, Palmer at the Bar, and Palmer to see that the costs are duly taxed; and we have Peters & Peters, i. e.: Peters to try the cause, Peters to plead the cause, and Peters to collect the costs of the cause. If, from delicacy of feeling, Peters were to decline to tax costs in which his sons are concerned, or Palmer, the head of the house, should not care to tax costs in which members of his family are to participate, still there is the disadvantage (or the advantage) of the one family being under a compulsion to the other.

Now, we repudiate, utterly, any reflection whatever upon the uprightness of either of the Judges or the Barristers concerned when we say that this situation, as it appears in the eyes of the public, looks bad; and justice, we all know, should be above even the suspicion of suspicion.

We therefore beg to direct the attention of the Department of Justice to it, and to suggest "a readjustment." If Judges, Governors, etc., were interchanged among the Provinces, anomalies, such as the one we have pointed out, need not occur; and such interchange would, we think, tend to promote the "solidarity" of Canada, about which our correspondent "Observer" is anxious.

Editorial.

The editors of the Patriot and the Summerside Journal both say that the editorial columns of THE EXAMINER are controlled by the Hon. Donald Ferguson. They both lie under a mistake.

So far as THE EXAMINER is concerned, we care not what they say. We shall continue to support the Government in carrying out a policy of economy, and shall praise them when they do well and censure them when they do ill, quite independently of the clatter of our bilious contemporaries. But Mr. Ferguson is a public official who has duties which involve him with men of various views, and it is not right that he should be supposed responsible for opinions expressed by THE EXAMINER, to some of which, as a free-thinking man and an official, he must necessarily be opposed. It is therefore due to him that we should emphatically contradict the false report which the Patriot and Journal have circulated, and state decidedly, once for all, that Mr. Ferguson has nothing whatever to do with the editorial control of THE EXAMINER.

It is a salutary rule of the profession, with regard to assertions as to the authorship of articles in a newspaper, neither to affirm nor deny them. We shall not, at present, depart from that rule. But persons may sometimes correctly judge by what they do know of that which they do not know. Now, the people of this Island know that the Patriot declared that the Government forced their friends into the attendant's places in the Hospital for the Insane and Dr. Blanchard came out like a man and stated that the Government never, in any way, interfered with his selection; the Patriot led the country, by an indirect way, to believe that Mr. Sullivan was, in appointments to the Hospital showing undue favoritism to Roman Catholics, but the payroll shows that the proportion of Catholics employed there is not unduly large; the Patriot, in violent language, attacked the Government for appointing Mr. Mulligan as Supervisor, because he was not skilled in caring for the insane, though the by-laws of the Hospital show that the Supervisor has nothing whatever to do with the care of the patients. Now, if the Patriot is wrong about all these things, the facts concerning which it might have easily ascertained, is it not more probable that it is wrong in its surmises respecting the writers of articles in THE EXAMINER whose names are a secret to the editor and his staff?

The Patriot gives editorial prominence to a statement that the editor of THE EXAMINER is "a catspaw" to the Government. It is related that the editor of the Patriot has been justly incensed at being called a "hiring;" and THE EXAMINER has studiously avoided and discountenanced the use of the opprobrious epithet. Ruffianism of that kind is detestable to all right feeling men.

KING'S COLLEGE.

The Enceenia.

WINDSOR can nearly always congratulate itself on having fine weather during Enceenia week; but this year there has been an exception to the rule. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday were all wet and disagreeable days, and it was hoped that the rain had rained itself out. Contrary to all expectation, Wednesday dawned a more threatening morning than the others; and very early it began to rain in torrents. THE COGSWELL CRICKET MATCH which was to have been played between the Three Elms Club of the College and the officers of the 19th Regiment, was, in consequence, postponed. Great disappointment was caused by this necessity both in Windsor and the College, as the match is always a matter of interest and excitement. A military band was also to have played on the cricket field, the absence of which was also a subject of regret in a community where little really good music is heard.

THE CONVERSATION.

took place as usual in the Convocation Hall between seven and eleven o'clock. The violence of the rain kept away many of the usual visitors from Halifax and the country towns, while very many ladies from Windsor did not venture out for the same reason; so that the number of guests was unusually small, amounting to few more than 200. The music was furnished by part of the band of the 101st Regiment, and was particularly good. Perhaps the best played piece—though not the finest music—was "The Distant Shore Waltzes," in which the soft rich tones of the flageolets and the clear fulness of the cornet came out to great advantage. Among those present outside the College, were the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia and Mrs. Binney, Rev. John Ambrose and Mrs. Ambrose of Digby, Rev. J. D. Browne, of Halifax, Rev. D. C. Moore, of Albion Mines, Prof. Kennedy, of Acadia College, and Prof. McGregor, of Dalhousie College. Few evenings can be more pleasant than the Convocation nights in Windsor. Friends assemble there from all parts of the Maritime Provinces. Old students who do not see each other once in ten years meet here, and chat over old times. Friends who have been long separated come together and in a few pleasant hours renew the intimacy of former days. Benedictees bring their wives and bachelors their wit to enliven the proceedings. There are refreshments and promenading, and then more refreshments and more promenading. There are thousands of books in the library upstairs, and an interesting museum of curiosities to inspect. There is a mummy's foot to frighten the ladies, and a dozen or so Zulu assegais to frighten the gentlemen; and last but not least, there are cozy nooks in the library where the most interesting te te te can go on to the sound of soft and enchanting music.

Thursday morning, to everybody's delight, rose bright and fine. Thursday is the last day of the collegiate year, and of the day of proper. There was a choral celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.30 a. m., the Bishop being celebrant. At ten o'clock the procession formed in front of the College and, according to a very old custom, marched to the Parish Church of Windsor for Matins. The procession consists of the visitor, the faculty, the graduates, undergraduates, and boys of the Collegiate School. When nearing the church the processional hymn, "Through the night of doubt and sorrow," was sung. The service was sung to the festival music of Tallis, the Rev. the President being the officiating priest. The University sermon was preached by the Rev. John Ambrose, of Digby, who dwelt strongly on the necessity of definite religious instruction in educational institutions. After the return to College, CONVOCAION assembled in the Hall. The proceedings began with the President's Oration, which was particularly good. The President spoke of the intellectual needs of Nova Scotia, and showed how it was necessary that they should be supplied; and, while strongly condemning anything like education without definite religious teaching, maintained that the question of University co-operation should be fairly and thoroughly discussed. A novel feature at Enceenia followed the oration, in the shape of some scenes from a

GREEK PLAY.

The one chosen was The Acharnians, of Aristophanes, one of that poet's most laughable comedies. The characters were: Dicaeopolis, an Acharnian farmer, Mr. E. A. Harris, Lamachus, Mr. F. W. Frith, Euripides, Mr. T. F. Draper, Chorus, Mr. L. H. Morris, Servant, Mr. L. H. Morris. The acting of all the gentlemen was very good, and if we may single out anyone for special praise, it must be Mr. Harris. Though the greater part of the audience were quite ignorant of the text, the acting was sufficiently good to keep up a continuous laughter to the end. The costumes which were as nearly as may be correct, were designed by Mr. Harris. This is, as far as we are aware, the first time that such a representation has been given in Canada. A year ago Oxford astonished the world by producing the Agamemnon, and last May the Edipus Tyrannus of Sophocles was given at Harvard, but beyond those nothing of the Greek drama has ever been represented in modern days. The play was followed by the presentation of the various prizes and scholarships. The following is the list:— McCawley Hebrew Prize—Rev. F. W. Vroom. Cogswell Scholarship—Rev. F. W. Vroom. Bishop's Prize Essay—W. B. King. President's Prize—W. B. King. Welford—F. W. Nicholson. First year Divinity Prize—N. R. Ravin. Stephenson Scholarship—F. W. Frith, and E. A. Harris. Williams Prize for Modern Languages—H. A. Henley. Binney Exhibitions—H. M. Stamer.

After the prizes were given THE VALERICTORY or formal leave-taking of the year passing out, was read by Mr. W. B. King. The conferring of

was the next thing on the programme. His Excellency Sir Leopold McClintock, the Admiral, received an honorary D.C.L. Rev. John Padfield, of St. Margaret's Hall, Halifax, received M. A.; Mr. E. D. Hoarn, of London, M. A. in absentia; Rev. David FitzGerald, of St. Paul's, Charlottetown, D.D. Rev. G. H. Butler, Messrs. W. B. King, M. A. Curry, A. E. Silver, and R. Curry, received the degree of B.A. After the conferring of degrees, speeches followed by the Admiral, Mr. Allison, Superintendent of Education, and the Lord Bishop; the first being addressed to young men, the second in favor of a non-religious University, and the last decidedly against anything like co-operation with non-sectarian Colleges. The Enceenia ended with God save the Queen, after which some 200 guests sat down to luncheon in the hall.

The Tragedy at Washington.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

About 9.25 on Saturday morning last, President Garfield, accompanied by Secretary of State Blaine, drove to the Baltimore and Potomac Depot, Washington. Near the door President Garfield asked one of the officers how much time he had before the train started. The officer replied, "About ten minutes, your honor." The President, after conversing a minute or two longer, then got out of the carriage with Secretary Blaine, and walked slowly up the steps into the depot and through the ladies' parlor, and had entered the large reception room in the main portion of the depot, when were fired in rapid succession. The crowd screamed "He's shot the President. Arrest the man." Secretary Blaine, on hearing the pistol shots, rushed in the direction from which they came with a view of arresting the would-be assassin. Before reaching the man, however, the Secretary returned to the President and found him prostrated. Both shots took effect, the first in the right hip, and near the kidney. The assassin was now making his way as fast as he possible out of the building through the ladies parlor towards the "B." St. door, a carriage being there to take him away. Kearney threw himself before him and seized him.

When arrested he said, "I did it and want to be arrested. I am a 'Stalwart,' and Arthur is President now. I have a letter here that I want you to give to General Sherman, it will explain everything. Take me to the police station." His name is Charles Gillean, a lawyer of Chicago. He is a foreigner by birth, and has been a very persistent applicant for a Consular position. He has haunted the Executive Mansion several weeks, and his disappointment in not getting what he wanted led to temporary aberration of mind.

LYING WOUNDED.

The President was conveyed to the private room in the officers' quarters of the Depot. Dr. Bliss, Surgeon General Barnes, and Dr. Purvis (colored), attended him until he was conveyed to the Executive Mansion under a strong escort of Metropolitan police. Two companies of regulars from Washington barracks were ordered out to preserve quiet. Great excitement prevailed, and the streets were soon thronged with anxious enquirers, eager to learn the condition of the President. The shooting occurred in the presence of some 50 or 60 ladies.

AT THE MANSION.

A despatch of the 3rd says—All the Cabinet have been at the Executive Mansion to-day, and most of them have remained there continuously since yesterday morning, sleeping a few hours last night on couches in the library. Nearly all of the prominent executive officers of the government have called during the day, together with representatives of foreign nations, Justices of the Supreme Court, who are in the city and a large number of the President's personal friends. None of them, however, have been permitted to enter the room in which the President lies. The strictest quiet has been enjoined, and the President has not been allowed to see any one to-day except Mrs. Garfield, his nurse, and attending physicians. Senator Jones, of Nevada, called this afternoon, and informed the Cabinet that Vice President Arthur had arrived in the city and was his guest, and would like to see the President if he could be permitted to do so. Senator Jones was told, however, that the physicians thought it best at present to allow no one to see the President except members of his family. Mrs. Garfield is an unwearied attendant at her husband's bedside, aiding his physicians and nurses as necessity requires, and maintaining her strength, self-control and cheerfulness with a firm conviction that the President will recover. The in the city continues without perceptible abatement, except that the crowd in front of the Executive Mansion is not so large as yesterday. Commissioners have published a card requesting people to refrain from all noisy demonstrations relative to cannon and explosives will be strictly enforced throughout the city. The weather is calm and clear, but not warm enough, it is thought, to have any unfavorable influence upon the President's condition. There is a great difference of opinion among medical men about the probability of the President's surviving his injuries, but there is an unmistakable air of hopefulness in the faces of the attending physicians which was wanting up to a late hour last night. Despite his extremely critical condition the country can reasonably cherish some hope that the President may yet recover.
