A Way Out of the Difficulty. One day, as Jock Samson was at work in the harvest field, he was busy on the top of his cart loading the sheaves, and the farmer was below pitching. All at once Jock wondered why no sheaves were being delivered to him, and, hearing sounds of puffing and blowing below him, he looked over the side of the cart and saw the old farmer vainly trying to lift the wheel off a sheaf of corn. The perspiration was streaming down his face, and, hearing Jock laughing above him, he looked up and cried: "What are you laughing at? Come down and gie's a lift!" "Losh, man," says Jock, "can ye no move forrit the horse?" "Losh me!" cried the farmer, throwing down his hat on the ground in astonishment at his own stupidity, "I never had a thocht o' that!"—Scottish Nights.

Weary of Experimenting. With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's ointment and found it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required in effect a permanent cure.

The Bernhardt in a Row. Less than a year after my debut at the Theatre Francais my sister Regina one evening accidentally trod on Mme. Nathalie's train. Mme. Nathalie, who was one of the leading ladies, pushed the poor girl so roughly that she knocked her head against a corner, and the blood came. I immediately "went for" Mme. Nathalie, gave her a resounding smack and called her a great stupid! The men were delighted, but the affair created a terrible scandal. The manager told me I must apologize to Mme. Nathalie. I replied: "I will apologize to Mme. Nathalie if she will do the same to my little sister."—Huret's "Sarah Bernhardt."

An African Pocket Handkerchief. I must not forget one particular, unique of its kind, of the most simplified toilet of the Barotsi, the pocket handkerchief. This consists of a thin blade of iron, finely wrought, with the handle of the same material. The whole is perhaps four or five inches long by one or two inches wide, and is hung round the neck by vegetable fibers or tendons. In blowing their noses they use it as a spring with extreme dexterity, which I can say from experience is not a pleasant thing at a camp fire.—"The Kingdom of the Barotsi."

TANSTEAD JUNCTION, P. Q., 12th Aug. 1893. MESSRS C C RICHARDS & Co. GENTLEMEN.—I fell from the bridge leading from a platform to a loaded car while assisting my men in unloading a load of grain. The bridge went down as well as the load on my back, and I struck on the end of the sleepers, causing a serious injury to my leg. Only for its being very fleshy, would have broken it. In an hour could not walk a step. Commenced using MINARD'S LINIMENT, and the third day went to Montreal on business and got about well by the use of a cane. I can sincerely recommend it as the best liniment that I know of in use. Yours truly, C. H. GORDON.

CHARLOTTETOWN Business College AND Writing Academy

Will re-open for the Fall and Winter Term ON AUGUST 29th.

"Let the Searchlight of Practical Illustration illuminate the dark places of Theory" A THOROUGHLY Progressive, Practical Institution, in which young men and women are not only taught Book-keeping (in all its applications to Commerce) both by single and double entry, but are trained how to do business by actual business transactions. The students act as buyers, sellers, traders, bankers, book-keepers and accountants in actual business operations, and the currency issued by the College Bank, and the funds issued from the Emporium are used in bonafide business transactions, just the same as in mercantile and banking houses. Book-keeping in itself may be learned at home, but a knowledge of how to transact business cannot be thus acquired. That our course and system of training is eminently practical write for testimonials from business men and from students who are now holding lucrative and responsible positions. SUBJECTS: Book-keeping by single and double entry theoretical and practical Actual Business Practice, Business Penmanship, Business Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, Insurance, Practice in the College Bank, Typewriting, Shorthand, and Navigation. FACULTY: L. B. Miller, Principal, Teacher of Book-keeping, Arithmetic, Business Practices, Business Correspondence, Typewriting and Navigation. A. C. McMillan, Vice Principal, Teacher of Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, Accounting and Actual Business Practices. J. Harry Williams, teacher of Business Penmanship. Wm. Moran [licensed] Teacher of Shorthand. George S. Ennis, Esq., [Law Firm McLean & Inman] Lecturer on Commercial Law. For circulars or full information write or apply to L. B. MILLER, Principal
