OUR GENERAL POST OFFICE
In no credit to the Colony. In fact we should all feel ashamed of it. It is not one quarter as spacious as "Tom Allan's Hotel at the Cape." This is saying much; but it is no exaggeration. It is a second "Black-hole," and if the "powers that be" were desirous of shortening the existence of four criminals in a very quiet way, perhaps no method would be more effectual than that of incarcerating them in our "Post Office" for ten or twelve hours a day. We believe that all our citizens agree with us on this point, and therefore it would be time lost to prove what every one admits. Within a few months we have recorded the deaths of the two heads of the Postal Department, and we believe that their untimely and lamented demise may be, with justice and truth, attributed to the disgraceful dungeon in which they had to perform their laborious duties. Too more civil and accommodating officials we have never met than Messrs Owen and Byrne, and we question whether their superiors can be found in the entire Government staff. It is then melancholy to think that two such valuable lives should be cut short by the supineness and negligence of the proper authorities. We don't blame any man or party in particular; but if a Government has a conscience it should rectify it without delay. Matters cannot remain as they now are any longer. A suitable, well-aired, commodious building for a Post Office should be immediately rented until a new building for the special purpose can be erected. Nothing less will satisfy public feeling.

By a despatch from the Colonial Office, we learn that Her Majesty has been pleased to confer the Honor of Knighthood upon the Hon. Robert Hodgson, Administrator of the Government. This mark of Royal favor is well deserved, and we are sure all classes in this community will appreciate the graceful compliment which has been conferred upon the Hon. Robert Hodgson, whose long-continued fidelity in the public service, combined with all the graces which adorn the character of the Christian gentleman, commands universal confidence and respect. Twenty three years Attorney General of the Island, eleven years President of the Legislative Council, seven years a member of the Executive, seventeen at the head of our judiciary, and now for the second time Administrator of the Government, few public men in British America, can look back upon a more varied and successful career than the Hon. Robert Hodgson. In the lifetime of the late Chief Justice, Sir Robert temporarily filled that eminent jurist's place upon the Bench, and afterwards became his successor. We hope that the appointment which he now holds, may be followed by a corresponding promotion. His elevation to the Governorship of the Colony would, we are sure, give him the satisfaction of a member of the Executive and Legislative Councils in 1829; President of the Legislative Council in 1840; acting Chief Justice during Mr. Jarvis's absence in 1841; on the introduction of Responsible Government in 1851, he resigned every public office, except that of Surrogate and Judge of Probate, which he held until 1852, when the party to whom he was politically opposed, offered him the Chief Justiceship, in 1853 received the appointment of Judge of the Court of Vice Admiralty; in 1865, during the absence of Lieut. Governor Dundas in England, was Administrator of the Government, and in 1867, when the Hon. Mr. Howland resigned, he occupied the responsible position under similar circumstances. To receive, in the evening of his days, this mark of Her Majesty's appreciation of his services, must be a source of gratification to the recipient, while the public regard it as a fitting reward for his industry as a politician, his integrity as a Judge, his talents as an administrator, and his worth as a private gentleman. In common with our fellow citizens of all shades of opinion, we beg to congratulate Sir Robert on the honor which has been conferred upon him, and hope he may long live to enjoy it.

THE EXAMINER.
We have lately received many kind and encouraging letters from friends in all parts of the country, but the pressure on our space prevents us from inserting them. We feel very grateful, and our efforts shall continue to be directed to secure a continuance of the good wishes of our friends. The EXAMINER is second to no Weekly Paper on the Island, and we hope that all our Subscribers will assist us, by their punctuality in paying up the amount of their subscriptions, to keep up the high character which it has once more gained for itself. Many friends are regretting us to make it a semi-weekly. We are not well prepared for that; but we hope in the meantime to be able to give every satisfaction to those who are giving us such warm encouragement.
