

Cinematic Pleasures

Madonna: Truth or Dare, Cyrano de Bergerac, Jungle Fever, Europa Europa, movies that on the Island you will never see on a Saturday night. Sunday Cinema provides you a chance to see more off beat, yet stunningly well-done cinematic pleasures from all over the world. North American, Italian, German, and French exist on Sunday afternoons.

Many of the films have been nominated for Oscars and all are amazing. October 27 brought the showing of Madonna: Truth or Dare which is a truly amazing movie. Madonna is honest and shameless and your eyes can't leave the screen.

This weekend, Spike Lee's Jungle Fever will be showing at 2:00 pm on Sunday. Bring a friend.

AD AGAIN

John Bragan directs and stars in this Hitchcock romantic thriller. His real wife, Emma Thompson, is his co-star. The movie deals with a woman who has lost her memory and a private investigator who tries to help her regain it. Under analysis they realize they were married in a previous life, that marriage ended with her murder, and he is the chair for it. Other than a few inconsistencies the film is excellent. Tense from opening to closing and ending you'll never catch until they want you. Supporting cast includes Robin Williams and Emma Thompson.

Top ten horror flicks ever created in some sicko-facist Hollywood minds:

- 10/Blood Beach
- 9/The Howling
- 8/Silence of the Lambs
- 7/Nightmare I
- 6/Children of the Corn
- 5/Anything by Hitchcock
- 4/The Exorcist
- 3/Psycho

I apologize for leaving out numbers 2 and 1 but due to the horrible effect that they have had on my life, they have been gracefully blanked out of my mind.

My humble apology is given
