

No Change In Grade 11 This School Year

Schools of this Province which have Grade 11 have been informed that for the coming year the curriculum will be the same as in the past. It was recently announced by Premier J. Walter Jones, Minister of Education, that an order in council had been passed calling for uniformity in the curriculum of this grade throughout the province. However, because of the time element the proposed system, which will be announced in detail shortly, will not go into effect until 1953.

New Mayfield School Opened

The new St. Ignatius School at Mayfield was officially opened yesterday afternoon by Dr. L. W. Shaw, director of Education, who last night described it as one of the best rural schools in the Province. Dr. Shaw said it was especially well designed and built. After a brief address by Dr. Shaw the large group which gathered for the opening heard remarks from Rev. Eric Robin, Rev. J. C. Pitre and members of the trustees. Mr. Alvin Gallant presided in the evening the ladies of the parish served an excellent supper which was followed by entertainment and a dance.

Eventually she was found riding on the rear of the City watering truck.

At City Hall

On leaving the monument the visiting party will go to City Hall at 10:45 where the Governor General will be greeted by Mayor Stewart and Mrs. Stewart and escorted to the Council Chambers. There will be gathered the members of the City Council, their wives and civic officials who will be presented formally. His Excellency will then receive the Key to the City.

The latter souvenir of his visit here is one which has been specially designed and made for this visit. It is a key four inches long, of sterling silver, with the handle engraved in a maple leaf design on the edges. On one side is engraved the legend "To Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Governor General," and on the other side the words "Charlottetown, P. E. I., August, 1952."

Specially Decorated

The Council Chamber has been specially decorated in a harvest motif for the occasion. On the walls are sheaves of grain, now ripening here, and in boxes set around the dais where the Mayor is normally seated are tiny spruce trees. In addition the Chamber will be a riot of autumn flower colors with several green ferns and hundreds of multi-colored gladioli in vases. The entire decoration of City Hall through which the Governor General will pass has also been decorated with flags and bunting in the customary patriotic colors.

On completion of the civic welcome His Excellency and his party will go to Government House for a brief rest. It is here that the Queen's Representative will be the guest of Lieutenant Governor Prowse and Mrs. Prowse during his visit.

Shortly before the noon hour the Governor General will drive to Dalvey Hotel where he will be given an informal luncheon by the Mayor and City Councillors. When it is over he will then go to the Experimental Farm where he will be greeted by Mr. R. C. Parent, superintendent and Mrs. Parent, at 2:40 in the afternoon.

On the grounds of the Farm he will plant a tree in the same area where so many of his predecessors have planted others. Present for the occasion will be the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Cubs and Brownies.

Traditional Salute

The official party will leave the Experimental Farm for Government House, arriving at 3:00 o'clock, where he will be greeted with a salute fired from guns of the 114th Battery of the 28th L. A.A. Regiment. The gun crews will be under command of Major C. H. Kydd with Lieut. Col. R. D. MacNeill, Medical Officer, Lieut. Gordon McInerney and Lieut. H. W. F. Hughes present. The Battery Sergeant Major will be Ralph Dennis. The traditional salute at 30 second intervals will be fired from historic Fort Edward in Victoria Park overlooking the entrance to Charlottetown harbour.

When His Excellency has had an opportunity to rest for a few minutes at Government House he

Strange But True

By F. H. MacArthur

The Moslem Indian boy may be letter-perfect in long sections of the Arabic Koran without understanding one word that he speaks; similarly the young Hindu, so both English and Indian teachers testify, easily learns by heart whole chapters of text whose words are mere meaningless sounds in his mind.

From the day of his birth to the day of his death, every male Hindu must pay the Earthly God. When a baby comes into the world, the Brahmin must get his fee, otherwise the child will not prosper. Sixteen days later, comes a second fee, to be cleaned from birth pollution. In the third month the baby's hair must be cut, and the Brahmin must be paid. At the age of six months when the child is started on solid foods, the Brahmin gets more money. At the completion of the first year comes the birthday ceremony and the Brahmin must be paid. If the child is a boy his education begins when he reaches the age of seven. This calls for more pay, and in well-to-do families golden writing sticks are placed in the boy's hand; and the sticks end up in the Brahmin's possession. And so it goes on.

When a man dies, he remains can be removed only after receiving the blessing of the Brahmin, for which he is paid. At the cremation, the relatives have to shell out more money. After cremation, every month for a year, the dead man's son must hold a will attend the large garden party given in his honour by Lieutenant Governor Prowse and Mrs. Prowse. For this function over 1,500 invitations have been issued to citizens of the Province. It will continue until 6 o'clock.

Final event of the day will be the formal state dinner to be tendered the Governor General by the Province of Prince Edward Island. To be held at The Charlottetown at 8 o'clock this evening the dinner will offer the Government an opportunity of welcoming the new Governor General who will briefly speak to the formal dinner guests. At 10 o'clock he will return to Government House for the night.

Throughout the day members of the Navy from H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte and of the Army from units of the local Garrison will assist City and R.C.M. Police in controlling crowds and directing traffic.

Tomorrow morning His Excellency will leave here early by R.C.A.F. plane. The big Dakota will carry him to the airport at Dartmouth, N.S., where a high speed launch will be used to take the him out to H.M.C.S. Quebec. The Canadian cruiser will be his home during the sea journey to St. John's, Newfoundland.

feast for Brahmins; and give them food or whatever would be dear to the dead. All this is made necessary by religious law. And all who neglect these vested rights go to eternal damnation.

Who are the Brahmins? Government officials or parasites, who are wine and dined by the rest of the people. Think of it! Even of the early nobles, few learned so much as to write their names. We are reminded of this when we speak of "signing" a letter or document. What we really do is "subscribe", that is, write under; but most people in the Middle Ages couldn't write under—they could only make a sign of some kind, and from this practice it became the custom to speak of "signing". Zero comes from the Sanskrit word meaning void or empty. An eighth grade boy, asked to list the most beautiful things in the world, named the following: Sunset, Orange trees in blossom, Autumn leaves, new snow on the trees at sunrise, silver thaw on the trees in moonlight, the song of the Maoris, cloud enveloped mountains and a tree lined river at moonlight. That's a pretty good line-up of beautiful things, but the list would be the better for having a beautiful woman in the picture.

One often wonders how the Jews come to be such money lenders. The answer lies in the fact that in early days they could not hold land or belong to guilds so, quite naturally, they turned to about the only business left open to them—money lending. The first law school was begun at Bologna, in Northern Italy, where Trentius lectured on the Roman law as codified by Justinian.

It is interesting to note that the universities which were founded in Paris in the thirteenth century became the alma mater of most of the universities in the New World. Their history in a nutshell is as follows: English students from the University of Paris founded Oxford; students from Oxford founded Cambridge University; students from Cambridge founded Harvard College (1636), which became Harvard University in the nineteenth century; and most institutions of learning in the U.S.A. have been influenced more or less by this university. The Canadian universities are descended from Paris either through Oxford or Cambridge, but those in Latin America are offsprings of the Spanish universities, which belong to the Bologna family. And the oldest university on this continent is the University of Mexico (1563).

While Harvard is the oldest University of higher learning within the American limits of the United States, the oldest institution of learning under the stars and stripes in the Dominica University of Santo Tomas, in the Philippines, founded by the Spaniards in 1611. Many students attending these universities were the sons of rich fathers, and as going to the University came to be "the thing to do" (just as it is today) one can easily see many went chiefly for a good time.

Fights were common occurrences, and sometimes they grew into small riots. Each university had complete authority over its members and had its own jail, where unruly students were confined. And of course, the playboys had to have money. The following is a typical letter written to his parents by a student of the Middle Ages:

"I am studying with the greatest diligence, but the matter of money stands greatly in the way of my getting ahead, and I have had to tighten my belt for the past month. This is an expensive set up, and I have to provide for many things which I cannot now specify. Therefore, I beg your further financial assistance, etc." The custom of writing home for money is not likely to die out so long as we have playboy students.

The first British approach to India was when Sir John Milleden had made trading contacts in 1599.
