Czechoslovakia, U.S. Awarded Nobel Prizes

By CARL O. BOLANG
 STOCKHOLM (AP)—Czechoslovakia got its first Nobel Prize Monday. The United States, which has won or shared in more than 50 prizes, got another.

The 1959 chemistry prize, worth the equivalent of $12,606, was awarded to a Prague professor who gave the world's industries a lift by inventing a new method of analyzing complicated substances.

He is Prof. Jaroslav Heyrovsky, 68. The Swedish Academy of Sciences honored him for developing since the 1920s the polarographic method of analysis, which has proved particularly valuable in metallurgical fields. A big virtue is that the method is fast.

The 1959 physics prize, as forecast by unofficial sources during the weekend, went to two American atomic scientists—Italian-born Dr. Emilio Segre, 54, and Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, who are attached to the University of California at Berkeley.

SHARE PRIZE
 They will share $42,606 for the discovery, through research with the giant atom-smashing Bevatron at Berkeley, of anti-protons. These are negatively-charged

Fanatic Dies Nailed To Wall

FRANKFURT, Germany (Reuters)—The leader of a small religious sect who believed Christ spoke to him was found dead, nailed to a wall, Monday. Police believe his death was voluntary.

The body of shoemaker George Krausert, 64, was found in his workshop. Krausert was suspended from a six-inch nail through his right hand and a 28-inch spike through his torso. His bare feet were nailed to a board lying on the floor. His neck showed signs of strangulation and a cut.

Religious Fanatic

Police said Krausert, known in his neighborhood as a religious fanatic, died from strangulation and was nailed to the wall afterward. There were no signs of a struggle.

Police surprised 13 persons Monday night meeting to read letters left by Krausert in the hands of two women.

Police found letters in which Krausert said Christ had spoken to him. The letters said he would be killed by two men who would receive 12,500 marks ($3,150).

He wrote that his death was a sacrifice which had to be made "to bring people to reason."

Krausert gave members of his sect letters last Saturday with orders that they should be read to a group of 13 after his death. But his sect had only 11 members so two extra persons were recruited for the meeting.

Opening lead—king of hearts. Part of the skill in card play consists of getting your opponents to make errors. The more opportunities you create for an adversary to make a mistake, the greater the chance you have of getting a good result.

South is in four spades and West leads the king of hearts. Let's say declarer ducks and then wins the heart continuation. He leads a low spade. West plays low, and dummy wins the jack. Declarer then plays a low spade to the queen. East showing out, and West takes the ace. West cashes the jack of hearts, but he is then out of business because declarer will take the marked trump finesse against the 10-8 and make ten tricks.

Nothing unusual seems to have happened, yet the chances are great that South would have been defeated if West had played more shrewdly.

When declarer leads the low spade towards dummy at trick three, West should play the eight, not the three. East, of course, will produce the two.

Now place yourself in declarer's position, and remember that he does not see the East-West cards. His only concern is to avoid the loss of two trump tricks. This will not normally occur if the spades are divided 3-2. South will therefore take measures to guard against a possible 4-1 trump break. When he sees the eight appear on the first round of spades, he is quite likely to think that West's eight is a singleton or possibly was played from the 10-8 alone.

To cover both cases, and particularly the possibility that East was dealt A-10-3-2, declarer is apt to lead the king of spades from dummy on his next play. This will protect him against more than one trump loser if East actually has the A-10-3-2.

Once South does this he is a gone goose. West makes two trump tricks and the contract goes down.

To play the spade three at trick three allows South no opportunity to go wrong. The eight is the killer-diller.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

— Here's how to work it:
 A X Y D L B A A X R
 L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
