

THE ROYAL AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY'S PLOUGHING MATCH.

Thursday last, the 9th inst, being the day advertised for the Annual Ploughing Match, a piece of ground having been selected for the purpose, on the Farm of Mr. John Thorne, Hillsborough River,—at 12 o'clock, 8 Ploughs started as follows:
 No. 1, Dalziel Moorshead, of North River,
 2, Robert Carson, Charlottetown,
 3, Alexander Scott, East River,
 4, Simon Higgins, Charlottetown,
 5, Alexander Laird, Jun., New Glasgow,
 6, William Smallwood, Royalty,
 7, John McLaughlan, St. Peter's Road,
 8, John Kennedy, Brackley Point Road.
 The work in general was excellent, doing credit to the performers. The prizes were awarded by the Judges as follows:
 1st Prize, £3, Robert Carson,
 2d " 2, Alexander Laird, Jun.,
 3d " 1, Alexander Scott,
 4th " 0 10s. John McLaughlan a young man with only one arm.

Judges—R. A. FELLOWS, Esq.
 Mr. JOHN FERGUSON,
 Mr. JOHN THORNE.

It was expected that a far greater number of Ploughs would have been on the ground, and that more of the Gentlemen, members of the Committee, would have attended, to enjoy and countenance the operations of the day,—but the absence of some persons was accounted for from the circumstances of many being absent from town, at the sales of a number of wrecked vessels on the Northern shores of this Island.

GEORGE BEER, Secretary, &c.

All subscribers to the Funds of the Royal Agricultural Society are requested to pay their subscriptions forthwith.

THE LATE GALES.

In addition to the disasters done to shipping recorded in our last, we have received information of the following:
 American Schooner Cohannett, of Dennis, Mass., Josiah Chase, master, cast away inside of Tracadie Harbour near the Naid Queen, dragged her anchors. She is expected to be got off.
 British Schooner Skipjack, belonging to Liverpool, N.S.; came on shore at Rustico Island, on Sunday, and embedded in the sand. 10 bodies were taken from her. She had Mackerel on board. It is supposed she had upset.
 An American Schooner came on shore near Darnley on Sunday morning. Crew saved.

Part of the Deck of another Schooner, Windlass, &c., came on shore near the same place.
 American Schooner Fairplay, Zekiel Cushing, belonging to Portland, Maine, 11 hands on board, was wrecked the night of the gale, all hands perished. Part of the wreck came on shore a mile East of Tracadie Harbour. The vessel's papers were found, and a letter addressed to a person on the Island. Captain Cushing was son-in-law to Mr. Morrow, East Point.

American Schooner Commerce, of Harwich, Mass. U. S., John Allen, master, ashore at Tignish, near the North Cape. Crew saved.
 American Schooner Pow Hatten, of Gloucester, U.S., John Rose, master, ashore at Tignish, near the North Cape. Crew saved.
 American Schooner Bloomfield, of Boston, Joseph M'Donald, master ashore at Tignish. Crew saved.

The Jenny Lind, from Nova Scotia. Crew saved.
 The Schr. Joseph, James Nickerson, master, belonging to Murray Harbor, was on the coast of Labrador, at the time of the late gale, on her way home from a fishing voyage. On the 4th inst., in the storm the master, Mr. Nickerson, was severely injured by the tiller striking him on the side, a sea broke over the stern of the vessel and carried away the companion, binacle, compass, taffrail, part of the stern, and bulwarks, filling the cabin nearly full of water. We are happy to hear Capt. Nickerson has since arrived home.

(From the Island of Friday last.)

The following vessels which have arrived here since the late gale, wished to be reported in the Island Papers. Some of the Captains say, that they have been thirty years at sea, and never experienced such a gale before.
 Schooner Vulture, Watts, of Newburyport, U. St., in the gale of the 3d inst., lost a man overboard, named James Everett, of Nova Scotia; also lost her boat, flying-jib and jib-boom.
 Schooner Empire, Dixon, of U. S., lost her jib-boom and had her sails split.
 Schooner John, R. Perkins, of Gloucester, U. S., lost her boat, had her sails split and deck swept of every thing.
 Schooner Matamoros had her sails torn; reports that she passed an American vessel on her beam ends, with two men in the mast heads, but was unable to render them any assistance, owing to the loss of her sails and the heavy sea which was running.
 Schooner Ocean, Reed, master, from Booth Bay, U. S., had her bowsprit broke off by a sea, while her jib was stowed, lost four blbs. Mackerel and every thing else which she had on deck at the time; also lost an anchor.
 Schooner Guess, McKillie, master, from Westport, U. S., lost her boat.
 Schooner Hero, of Lubec, Ferguson, master, lost both anchors at the Magdalen Islands, was in company with five other vessels who also lost their anchors.
 Schooner Sarah Brooks lost flying-jib.
 Several other vessels which called here, had lost some of their sails, and went off again to the Gut of Canso to get new ones.
 Schooner Cadmus, Elliott, master, arrived in 7 days from Boston, reports that the gale did not extend beyond Cape Sable. Saw a number of American vessels passing through the Gut, all more or less damaged, one, the Telegraph, had lost two men overboard, by the main boom jibing the sail, and the Captain (Attwood) severely hurt; heard in the Gut, that there were 75 sail of vessels ashore on the Island.
 The Rival, of Truro, U. S. Crew saved.
 The W. R. Barnham, U. S. Crew saved.
 The Golden Rule, of Gloucester, U. S. Crew saved.
 The Mary Scotchburn, of Newburyport, U. St. Crew saved.
 Captain Joseph M'Donald, of the schooner Bloomfield, informs us, a Brigantine was lost on the North Cape of this Island—that all hands perished—and that she has gone to pieces. He states she was a British-built vessel, 70 feet long on deck, 22 feet beam, Cedar timber, and soft wood plank and beams—supposed to be Canada built, apparently four years old. A number of empty Porto Rico sugar hogsheads with spruce heads came on shore from her. The number on the head of one of them was 28 E. 1206 (red chalk), on the other end, H. (black paint.) The name of the vessel could not be discovered; but the stern of a boat supposed to belong to her came on shore, with the name Poloce Mouraske, on it. Her bow, sails, chains, anchors and windlass were found to the West of the N. W. reef.
 Captain M'Donald and others also inform us, that there are from 20 to 30 vessels on shore, between Malpec and the North Cape—and that on Hog Island, in Richmond Bay, there are some 40 or 50 more.

A large Bark, in ballast, from Europe, bound to Richibucto, is on shore at Cable Head.
 We hear that a number of vessels are to be seen in the Gulf, riding at their anchors, swept of every thing, and all hands supposed to be dead.
 The Brig Cores, of Charlottetown, P. E. Island, is reported stranded and waterlogged in Placentia, coast of Newfoundland.
