

HONORED ON 80TH BIRTHDAY

One of the most highly respected and active members Mrs. Neil MacKinnon, was honored on her 80th birthday on Friday evening when she was entertained at a dinner party at the Charlottetown Hotel by J. Russell Driscoll M.L.A. and his family of Mt. Herbert. Premier Walter R. Shaw and Mrs. Shaw were also guests for the happy occasion. Following dinner, a testimonial celebration was held at Hazelbrooke Baptist Church Hall, when presentations were made by members of Bethel, Mt. Herbert, Hazelbrooke and Crossroads, districts, who gathered to pay homage to this outstanding woman, whose Christian attitude toward her fellowmen has been proven time and again by the good she has done for so many. Mrs. MacKinnon lives with her son Robert and his family at Crossroads and is still very active around the farm and does much that an 18-year-old would find strenuous. She also assists with the household and loves to knit. A daughter, Mrs. Russell Farquharson resides in Mt. Herbert and she has a son, Wallace in Winnipeg. Mrs. MacKinnon is pictured above with Premier Shaw.

Longer Lasting Polio Vaccine Is Developed In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Integrity is doing what you think right regardless of the cost, says the woman who led a group of Canadian researchers in the development of a safer polio vaccine.

There is no asset more precious, says Dr. Hilda Macmorine, research member of the University of Toronto's Connaught Laboratories. "We don't play with tiddly-winks here," she said. "We play with lives. Even if a batch of virus fluid passes all official tests, if you doubt it you throw it down the drain. You must not be pushed, no matter what it costs."

Dr. Macmorine and her staff of 50 have developed a safer, longer-lasting, stronger polio vaccine, announced recently. She was born in Kars, Ont., 40 years ago, the daughter of an Anglican clergyman. A Trinity College graduate in honors chemistry and a Banting Institute research fellow, she joined Connaught Laboratories in 1940. Her first job there was helping the army identify disease-causing bacteria.

TURNED TO CONNAUGHT In 1943, she and her staff of 20 planned production of the army's entire supply of the new wonder drug, penicillin.

Dr. Macmorine said Dr. Jonas Salk, discoverer of a polio vaccine based on earlier research at Connaught, asked the laboratories for the first large-scale production because Connaught was ready and was not commercial.

"He felt it a U.S. drug company produced the first vaccine it would belong to the company rather than to the country," she said.

All discoveries at Connaught belong to the university. The creator receives only the legal $1 for signing over rights.

The virus fluid production unit began refining polio vaccine when Dr. Macmorine became its head in 1956. The vaccine is still made by growing polio virus in mashed monkey kidney, a method developed by Connaught's Dr. Andrew Rhodes. Added formaldehyde paralyzes the virus so it will not multiply or cause polio.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN The Simple Ingredients A Culinary Challenge

Two 12-ounce cans of corned beef, combined with other budgetwise ingredients, can furnish an appetizing entree for six or eight persons. You may think it is easy to become careless when the ingredients in a dish seem inconsequential. When that happens, meals take a tailspin. Simple ingredients are a challenge to our best cooking skill.

We hope you will find that the easy-to-corned Beef Balls with Sauerkraut columned today will be enjoyed by your family.

Measurements level; recipes for 6
CORNED BEEF BALLS WITH SAUERKRAUT
2 (12 oz.) cans corned beef at room temperature
2 slices white bread
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 large apple
1 (1 lb.) can sauerkraut
3 tsp. melted butter or margarine
Flake corned beef into small pieces with fork. Separate bread into fine soft crumbs. Mix bread and eggs into corned beef. Shape into 12 balls containing 2 tsp. each.

Core, peel and dice apple. Combine with sauerkraut and spoon into shallow 1 1/2 qt. casserole. Top with corned beef balls. Brush with melted butter. Cover with foil. Bake 25 min. in mod. oven, 350 degrees F.

MONDAY OVEN DINNER
Chicken Vegetable Soup (from planned overs)
Corned Beef Balls with Sauerkraut
French-Fried Potatoes
Apple-Ginger Casserole Pudding or Bowl of Fresh Apples with Cheese of Choice
Coffee, Tea Milk

APPLE-GINGER CASSEROLE PUDDING
3 c. homemade or canned applesauce
1 tsp. fine-grated lemon rind
3/4 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 contents pkg. gingerbread mix
1/2 pt. vanilla or butter pecan ice cream (optional)

To applesauce add flavorings. Turn into buttered 3-qt. pt. low casserole or baking dish. Place in mod. oven, 350 degrees F. and heat 20 min., or until applesauce is hot.

Then make up gingerbread mix following pkg. instructions. Remove applesauce from oven; spoon gingerbread mix batter over it. Bake 30 min. longer or until gingerbread topping is well-browned and puffy. Serve

Games and social chat followed, and a hot buffet supper was served by the hostess assisted by her daughter Donna.

Mrs. Profitt is the former Hazel MacMurdo, and they have one daughter Georgie, Mrs. Walter Simmons, and two sons, Wendell of Charlottetown, and Rowan of Halifax.

Parents Honored On Anniversary
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simmons entertained at their home at New Annan at a family party honoring the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Profitt, Kensington, on the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary on February 22.

Percy MacMurdo was master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Percy MacMurdo read a humorous poem of her own composition, featuring the couple. Gifts were presented by Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Erskine MacMurdo, and congratulatory messages were read by Mrs. Harold Woodside, Wendell Profitt and Walter Simmons complimented and offered felicitations to the couple and Mrs. Erskine MacMurdo read a poem appropriate to the occasion.

St. Martin's Church Group Elects Slate Of Officers

A discussion took place regarding projects for the coming year at the annual meeting of St. Martin's Church group (South Shore) held recently with 13 members present, when it was decided to have an Auction tournament, afternoon tea and a salad buffet during the year.

Following minutes and financial report, the following slate of officers was brought in for 1966: president, Mrs. Ivan Laurie; vice-president, Mrs. Joseph Walsh, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Vincent K. Murphy. These three officers were re-elected. Mrs. James Dowling and Mrs. Clifford Hogan were elected as the purchasing committee; Mrs. Francis MacIsaac, the visiting committee and Mrs. John Quilty, on the telephone committee. It was decided to honor the senior members of the group in May - this would include those

Hampton UCW Hear Panel On Trinidad

Hampton UCW met at the Church Centre for their February meeting which was presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. Bill Myers for the devotional part of the meeting the members read the program prepared for the World Day of Prayer service.

Plans were discussed for a Valentine Tea which was held at the Church Centre. A committee of Mrs. Rogerson, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Bill Myers and Mrs. M. MacEachern was appointed who made the necessary arrangements.

Mrs. Jones suggested as Bible-study for the March meeting, the members bring a verse of Scripture they would like to have explained.

Several settings of dishes were displayed to the members so that a suitable pattern might be chosen for use in the Church Centre and an adequate collection was received at the meeting to purchase two blankets for mission work. A donation was made to the M. and M. fund in memory of the late Birch Yeo and also to the heart fund in memory of the late Mrs. Hector MacNeill, a sister of Mrs. Win Bell.

Mrs. Jones prepared a very interesting and educational study on Trinidad, which was presented in the form of a panel-discussion with Mrs. Edwin Ferguson as emcee and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. G. Dunston and Mrs. MacEwen as panel members.

Next meeting will be held at the Church Centre with Mrs. Bell as devotional leader and Mrs. Bell on food committee.

who have been members for 25 years or more. A further discussion on this is to take place at the April meeting.

Future meetings will be held on the first Monday of the month at the homes of the members with Mrs. Jack Weatherbie hostess for April. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

ELLEN'S DIARY Brown Buds On Lilacs Kept An Ear To Earth

Sunshine and a light winter breeze, the day gave. The night a calm, and silence and stars. "This" a farmwife commented a bit in her voice on the wires of this morning, "will be a perfect day to wash" it was. One of winter's best. A clothesline is bare tonight. There is a delectable scent of dry, clean-washed, pieces in the kitchen. And a happiness, a gratefulness over the fine cooperation the new week at its outset had given her in her work, a song in the housewife's heart.

This morning at the spreading, as we pinned the articles of wash to the line, there was no sound of springtime birds about, no sight of any greening in the flower-border. Sparrows twittered in the thorny barberry tree in the yard across the lane, and brown buds on the lilacs were keeping an ear to the earth listening to catch any whippers of a stirring there. This we had. And what a remembered old Minister of years gone would solemnly call "a communication" at hand.

"Read it!" Peter chuckled with a young grin when we had moments of leisure together in the old armchair. "You tell me word for word what it said." "How are all the folks, a not forgetting that black cat, the roof-climber?" Papa Starling who, with his lady, are friends of several summers, wrote. "He is one nuisance - that animal! Has Peter grown?" "I'm older" Peter smiled. "I'll be six my next birthday. Six candles; this time" he reflected. "And how is wee Alex?" "He's not wee! He's growing tall. He is up to Scamp's shoulder now!"

"And Scamp, the houn'-dog, how does he do? I confess he has startled me more than once with his sudden rushes along the yards, and his excited barks. But... well, it's strange the things one remembers kindly, when he is miles and miles away from that place he considers is home!" "Keep going!"

The minute hand on the old clock was indicating the deadline for putting the vegetables for dinner, to cook. Beyond the window, and across the yards, the farmers were cleaning the stables, the Paddy-horse, waiting his sleigh-load at a door. The sunshine - how good to see it! This Monday, how lovely!

"We like it here in winter!" Papa Starling said, we continued, eyes to the wind in the willow twigs stirred gently. "But would you believe it? We are looking ahead with every anticipation to that date on the calendar when the wind tickles an ear, and we know the time has come to return to the North!" Peter drew a long, happy sigh. "Mama-shes in excellent health, better than I've seen her for years - joins me in sending regards to all inquiring friends. "Ha!" Peter grinned, reaching for his cap. "Do you know what Mack would say about that letter. That's for the birds!" he would say.

For bedtime a warning the clock now gives. And according to, we fold up the tents of our day. Until tomorrow - - -Diary - - - Good-night.
