

Molded Cherry Salad Served For Dessert

By Ida Bailey Allen

Many women today are beset with the problem of brittle, splitting, breaking nails. But, according to medical science, the condition can usually be overcome in about 3 months' time by simple out regular routine.

UNFLAVORED GELATIN

Just stir 1 envelope of unflavored gelatin into half a glass of fruit juice and drink at once. A good way to remember to do this is to take it in the morning fruit juice. Exactly why gelatin and no other known food has this effect on the "finger (or toe) nails is not known. The scientists feel it may be because its proteins have a physicochemical or cement-like property which may prove to be similar to that in the nails.

Butter Supper Tomorrow: Mince-raw; grated cheese; hot or cold meat loaf; french fries; pickles; molded cherry salad; honied-sour cream; nut butter fingers; coffee; sea or milk.

The preceding menu features a molded sweet cherry salad for dessert—which is the only correct time to serve a sweet molded salad at dinner. It should not be served with the main course, for a sweet dish with meat or fish is not only a poor combination, but it often dulls the appetite so that insufficient amounts of the main dish are eaten.

All measurements are level unless otherwise specified. To 1 1/2 c. juice drained from 1 (No. 2 1/2) can tart sweet cherries, add 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin. Heat and stir-cook until the gelatin dissolves. Then add 3/4 c. hot water, 2 tsp. lemon juice and 2 1/2 tsp. sugar. Cool. Refrigerate until beginning to thicken.

Remove the pits from the cherries. Stir cherries into the gelatin. Rinse individual molds with cold water. Spoon in the cherry gel. Refrigerate 4 hrs.

Serve on crisp lettuce. Top with honied-sour cream dressing.

Honied-Sour Cream Dressing: To 1 c. dairy sour cream add 1 tsp. each honey and lemon juice.

Nut Butter Fingers: Make in advance if desired and refrigerate ready to bake.

Sift together 2 c. already-sifted enriched flour, 3 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/2 tsp. sugar. Add 1/4 c. butter or shortening.

Chop in with a pastry blender the consistency of cornflakes.

Roll the remaining dough into oblong shape and press lightly over the top. Cut into finger-lengths with a sharp knife.

Place on an oiled baking sheet. Brush with milk. Bake 20 min. in a moderate oven, 375-400 degrees F. Serve hot.

Trick of the Chef: While heating 2 pkgs. frozen French fries, stir in 1/2 c. crisp fried onions and a little salt. Dust with paprika.

Cover with 1/4 c. fine-chopped walnuts, pecans or filberts blended with 2 tsp. butter.

"Quiet Stands the House," is a poem of high merit written by the Rev. C.J. St. Claude, Jean formerly of Summerside, now of Arnprior, Ontario. This poem appears in the Presbyterian Record for June with this preface: "One hundred years ago this June George Gordon sailed for the South Seas to martyrdom in Erromanga. On hearing the tragic news his brother, James Gordon, immediately volunteered to take his place, went out, and was martyred on the same island. The little homestead of the Gordons still stands in Alberton, P.E.I.

In the third stanza the voice of the blind mother is heard old and shrill, when she arose and cried in the dark:

"It is well—not ill, When the Gay Gordons go riding, Riding to the sea— Would God I had another son For that sweet company"

"Quiet Stands the House" is truly a poem of great beauty.
