

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES MacKENZIE

Winsloe Couple Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Congratulations and best wishes for many more years of married life were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacKenzie, Winsloe, who celebrated their golden wedding on Dec. 25 at the home of their son and his wife, Captain and Mrs. Herbert MacKenzie, Borden.

Mrs. MacKenzie, the groom of fifty years married Catherine MacLennan at the latter's home in Pleasant Valley on Dec. 25, 1907. Rev. Mr. Gillis of the Presbyterian Church, Hartsville, performed the ceremony. The happy couple resided in South Granville until fifteen years ago when they sold their farm in South Granville and built a neat and attractive home in Winsloe.

Their six children and twelve of their thirteen grandchildren were home to celebrate with them on this happy occasion. One granddaughter, Mrs. Charles Kinne and their two great granddaughters Janis and Barbara Kinne, Falmouth, Nova Scotia were unable to be present.

Their children are: Cassie (Mrs. James Beatrice), Dorchester, Mass.; Nettie, (Mrs. Brewer Auld), Freetown, P.E.I.; Dorothy, (Mrs. Walter MacLure), Brackley Pt., P.E.I.; Barbara (Mrs. Alexander MacDowell), Belleville, Ont.; Captain Herbert MacKenzie, Borden; and Charles, Westmoreland, P.E.I.

During the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert MacKenzie welcomed the guests at the door. Miss Barbara MacKenzie and Mrs. Ralph Balderston, sisters of Mr. MacKenzie, poured. Miss Beverly Beatrice was in charge of the guest book and their four daughters and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles MacKenzie, Jr., served the guests.

The house was tastefully decorated and the table was very beautiful with a three-tier wedding cake in the centre, flanked with gold chrysantheums and golden candles in golden candlesticks.

Telegrams were received from Mrs. Alex. Stewart, Edmonton, Alberta, sister of Mrs. MacKenzie; Rev. Harold Brown, minister of Zion, who at the time was in Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kinne, Falmouth, Nova Scotia; and Mr. and Mrs. Lea Toombs and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Winsloe. The gift from the family was a television set. Many gifts were received from grandchildren, relatives, and guests.

On Friday evening Dec. 27, the people of Winsloe and vicinity met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Balderston when a complimentary address was read by Mrs. John Rodd and the presentation of two beautiful lamps was made by Mrs. John Stockman on behalf of the Winsloe people.

Mr. MacKenzie, on behalf of his wife, thanked those present for the very lovely gift and for the many, many kindnesses shown them during their sojourn in Winsloe.

Paris Spring Fashions Are On Their Way Again

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP) — Patou, in the first show of the Paris spring fashion season, started out today with sacks and wound up with blouses.

The new designer for the house this year is Mad Carpentier, a pupil of Vionnet of prewar fame. Low-bosomed cocktail seats ranged nearly all, while daytime necklines were filled in with starched white blis almost as modest as a nun's wimple. Skirts just covered the knee without much to spare, and the leading colors were beige and blue.

Patou's daytime dresses and suits may be sacks, but they are never baggy. Jackets are slightly longer, often double-breasted and with long lapels and flap pockets. The collection is rather a mixture of different styles, but running through it consistently are loose backs gathered on to deebones.

SLEEVES TO THE ELBOW

Elbow-length sleeves on coats and jackets are shaped like leg of mutton sleeves cut off halfway. A popular daytime neckline is a very narrow deep V, with buttons extending below the waistline.

The designer takes the slack right out of the sack for cocktail, afternoon and evening wear. Her sheaths have no seam at the waist, but they hug the body from the hip up.

Costume jewelry runs to deep collars of pearls or crystal, dressing up the strapless or deep decollete formals. Waistline jewels also are back, pinned watch-fob of chataleine fashion on one side of high-waisted skirts.

Some afternoon and cocktail dresses have wide satin corset belts, and there are several belted jersey shirt-waist dresses. Draper returns to the bustline and sometimes to the hip.

For a spring showing, there were very few prints. Those that turned up were mostly large roses on a white background.

TRAVELLER'S REST W.M.S.

The Christmas meeting of the Traveller's Rest Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Ella Montgomery. The president, Mrs. Bert Poole, conducted the meeting of the theme, "Let the Song Go Round the Earth, Jesus Christ the Lord."

The program consisted of Bible selections and carols. This closed with the singing of the hymn, "In Christ There Is No East or West", followed by prayer.

The following slate of officers was elected for 1958: president, Mrs. Bert Poole, vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Blanchard, secretary, Mrs. Roy Walker, treasurer, Mrs. John Marchbank, Christian stewardship secretary, Mrs. Percy Marchbank, Christian Citizenship Secretary, Mrs. Roy Walker. Mission Band Leader, Miss Catherine Poole, Baby Band Leader, Mrs. Bert Poole, Refreshments, Mrs. David Walker and Mrs. Delbert Rayner, organist, Mrs. Arthur Blanchard.

Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Radiation In Future May Preserve Foods

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

One of the high spots of my visit to Baltimore was the privilege of listening to an address on the versatile atomic food, by Lt. Colonel Belmont S. Evans Jr., of the army reactors branch, U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in Washington, D.C.

We have heard rumors and read a few facts about the future of radiation in preserving foods. In his address, Colonel Evans not only reviewed the progress that has been made, but pointed out that radiation under scientific control can be a boon to mankind by destroying bacteria that cause food to spoil.

Proof has already been obtained that this can be satisfactorily done without causing unfavorable flavor changes.

Irradiated meats, potatoes and other vegetables can be kept for many weeks without refrigeration and still taste palatable. Other foods still in the test stage, present flavor change problems.

STUDIES SUPERVISED

All studies pertaining to radiation of foods, their nutrition and wholesomeness are being supervised by the army surgeon general in conjunction with the Food and Drug Administration.

The levels of radiation that are used to irradiate foods for human consumption are low enough to give a wide margin of safety. To prove that irradiated foods are safe, the directors of the project have checked and double-checked every stage along the way toward developing safe, acceptable products.

When an irradiated food has been fed safely to a colony of animals with no ill effects, it is considered safe for human taste-testing. To date there has been no indication that irradiated foods are not wholesome or have any undesirable effects on either human or animal guinea pigs.

When the process is released to industry it will have undergone the most exhaustive research and development phase and testing program of any preservation process ever developed.

EXOTIC FOODS

Later, Col. Evans proved a most interesting luncheon companion. His hobby is exotic foods. In fact, his whole family enjoys eating foods of all nations. Even his young son has capitulated. His favorite food? Escargots—which any boy would call snails!

Torrow's dinner—Celeriac Saladettes, sesame-broiled chicken, potatoes rissole, carrots-braised with onions, prune - pineapple compote; coffee, tea, milk.

All measurements are level; recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6.

Celeriac saladettes: Wash, pare and cut enough celeriac (celery root) into julienne to make 2 c. Boil 2 min. Drain. Season with 1 1/2 c. not-sweet garlic French dressing.

Refrigerate 30 min. Serve in nests of lettuce.

Sesame-broiled chicken: Clean 2 (2 1/2 lb.) frying chickens. Wash and dry. Cut into serving sections. Brush with not - sweet French dressing. Dust with one tsp. each salt and monosodium glutamate mixed with 1/2 c. pancake flour.

Arrange on an aluminum foil-lined grill. Broil 3 in. from the source of heat. Turn with tongs to brown evenly.

When almost done, brush again with French dressing. Coat lightly with sesame seed.

Finish broiling. Allow about 85 min. altogether.

Trick of the chef: add 1/2 tsp. ground ginger to pancake flour for coating broiled or fried chicken.

STANHOPE W.I.

Mrs. George MacMillan was hostess to the Stanhope W.I. on January 7th. for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Rhodes Warren was appointed to act as president for the evening.
