UNITED STATES.

North Eastern Boundary Negotiation.—The Commissioners appointed on the part of Massachusetts, Maine and New Brunswick, to settle the North Eastern Boundary, are now at Washington. Our information, derived from an authentic source, leads us to the belief that not only this vexatious question, but all the points of difficulty between Great Britain and the United States, will be satisfactorily arranged and disposed of. Lord Ashburton's instructions are believed to be of the most liberal character, and he will be ready to stretch a point rather than permit the good understanding of the two governments to be longer endangered by differences that can be better settled now than at any subsequent period.

The Northeastern Boundary is really the only serious point between us and Great Britain.

The great obstacle in the way of settling the Northeastern Boundary has been the obstinacy and inaction of Maine. The appointment of Commissioners is the first important step she has ever taken towards a settlement. It is in accordance with the wishes of the people of the whole State, and it is hardly to be conceived that either one or all of them will insist upon unreasonable terms, and thus risk the responsibility of thwarting a settlement. As to the commissioners from New Brunswick, they will, no doubt, be governed in a great measure by the wishes of the British Government, as expressed by Lord Ashburton; and as he is so anxious to bring the thing to a favourable issue, there seems to be good reason to hope that everything will be happily consummated.—N. Y. Herald.

We understand that the usual preliminaries have been gone through with, and that the commissioners are now awaiting a proposition from the British Minister.

Rhode Island.—Providence, June 24.—We are informed that three Artillery companies from Newport, Bristol and Warren, are ordered to Providence this afternoon, and that a steamboat has been sent for them.

The Marine Artillery and Sea Fencibles are ordered out for twenty-four hours' service.

There will certainly be a movement made by the Suffrage party, headed by Dorr, to take possession of Rhode Island, in a very few days. There is every indication of it in our advices from that section. Munitions of war are stolen every night, and companies are forming in all the principal towns.

The General Assembly has authorized the Governor to declare martial law throughout the State, whenever, in his opinion, it shall become necessary.

Emigrants.—It appears from the following extract from Galignani's Messenger, that multitudes of Germans are embarking for the United States:

"Whole villages, including the rich as well as the poor, are emigrating, says a letter from Mentz, from Germany to North America. Three of those from Upper Hesse have, within these few months, been entirely abandoned, and several in Rhenish Prussia are preparing to follow their example. A short time ago the whole population of one of these villages passed through to Mentz, on its way to America, accompanied by its pastor and its schoolmaster."

Escape of a Canadian 'Sympathizer' from British Captivity.—A New York paper announces the arrival in that city of James Gammett, one of the 'sympathizers,' who were taken in Canada, and condemned to death, but had their sentence commuted to transportation. The account says:—"Gammett and eleven others were sent out from England, in the ship Canton, to Hobart's Town, on the 22d of September, 1839, and reached there on January 16th, 1840. They were all sent one hundred miles into the interior, to work on the great road leading across the Island from Hobart Town to Launceston. Here they worked in irons for two years. After that Lord John Russell sent out orders to mitigate their condition. They then received each a 'ticket of leave,' and were allowed to work at their respective trades, on their own account, but still to be kept to the interior, and never allowed to go to any seaport on the Island. Gammett, however, was allowed a pass by the magistrate of the district to go to Hobart Town, to get a model for a stump machine; and by the assistance of some American soldiers at Hobart Town, made his escape on board an American whaleship, and reached this city in fine health and spirits last Wednesday—being the first of the American prisoners who has made his escape from Van Dieman's Land.

Another Steamer.—The Bunker Hill Aurora says.—The company owning the royal mail ships running between Liverpool and Boston, have purchased the Steamship Margaret, Captain Shannon, and her arrival at Halifax is now daily expected. This vessel is to carry the Mails between Halifax and St. John's, N. F., touching at Cape Breton.

SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1842.

We have nothing later from Europe; and the American and Colonial papers received since our last, contain little news of any importance.

Important from Washington...—Treaty with Great Britain concluded.—The New York American of the 4th inst. contains the following important intelligence:

"A highly important report---and which we have reason to think well founded---reached the city this morning from Washington. It is substantially, that Mr. Webster and Lord Ashburton had finally agreed upon ALL the points in discussion between the two countries, and that a Treaty was drawn up and ready for signature, and would be signed on the 4th of July.

"The North Eastern Boundary is settled by ceding to Great Britain the Territory north of the St. John, and by Great Britain ceding to the United States the strip between our present Eastern Boundary and St. John river—including the City of Fredericton, now the Seat of Government of the British Province of New Brunswick—and of course the navigation of the river to the sea.

"To this arrangement New Brunswick was very averse, but higher considerations have prevailed, and a settlement that must be deemed by the United States honourable and satisfactory in a high degree, has been effected.

"As to the details on other points, we are without information."

The American says, that this intelligence may be relied upon, as coming through a source which entitles it to implicit belief.

[But few of our readers will be credulous enough to believe the above story. Lord Ashburton, we are well aware, will have much difficulty in settling the Boundary question, by the scale of justice and honorable fairness.—We are quite prapared for having the worst of the bargain, but not for the sacrifices above reported, which are ridiculously preposterous.—Halifax Gaz.

Death of the Vice President of the United States.—The Hon. S. L. Southard, who succeeded Mr. Tyler, as President of the Senate, on the latter gentleman's elevation to the Presidency, died at Fredericksburg, on Sunday week. His remains were taken to Washington for interment.

Hon. Henry Clay, of Kentucky, has been nominated for next President of the United States, at several recent political meetings in different parts of the Union.

(From the Royal Gazette.)

Pursuant to requisition, a Meeting of the inhabitants of Queen's County was convened by the Sheriff, on the 29th ult., for the purpose of congratulating Her Most Gracious Majesty upon her recent providential escape from the horrible attempt made on his Majesty's life. His Honor the Chief Justice having been called to the Chair, and H. Palmer, Esq., requested to act as secretary, it was moved that the following gentlemen be a committee to prepare an Address, and that the same Committee wait upon His Excellency with the said Address, and request His Excellency to transmit the same:—Hon. Attorney General, W. Cundall, Esq., Dr. De St. Croix, Hon. C. Young, Mr. Forgan, Mr. Binns, Hon. D. Macdonald, Dr. Conroy, Mr. H. Palmer.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

Most Gracious Sovereign;

We the Inhabitants of Queen's County, in your Majesty's Island Prince Edward, at a public Meeting convened by the High Sheriff, beg leave respectfully to offer our sincere and heartfelt congratulations on your providential escape from the recent diabolical attempt upon your Majesty's life; and we assure your Majesty that in no part of your Majesty's extensive dominions was greater horror felt at the atrocious crime, nor more universal joy at the merciful interposition of an overruling Providence, in the preservation of your Majesty's life, than by your Majesty's faithful subjects, the Inhabitants of this County. And that Your Majesty's valuable life may long be preserved, to bless a devoted and happy people, is our fervent and constant prayer.

To His Excellency Sir HENRY VERE HUNTLEY, Knight, Lieutenant Governor, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency;

We the Inhabitants of Queen's County, in the Island of Prince Edward, convened at a Public Meeting by the High Sheriff, beg leave respectfully to request that your Excellency will be pleased to transmit the accompanying Address to her Gracious Majesty the Queen, expressing our sincere and heartfelt congratulations upon her late providential escape from the horrid attempt made upon Her Majesty's life.

On behalf of the Meeting,

(Signed) E. J. JARVIS,
Chairman.

[Reply:]

To the Inhabitants of Queen's County;

Mr. Chief Justice, and Gentlemen of the Committee;

I have the liveliest gratification in receiving and forwarding your Address upon the late infamous attempt upon Her Majesty's life, and I believe that this expression of your feelings will be reiterated throughout Her Majesty's dominions.

H. V. HUNTLEY,
Lieut. Governor.

Government House, July 9th, 1842.

To the Editor of the Colonial Herald.

Sir; The half-yearly Examination of the pupils at the Central Academy took place on the 14th inst., in the presence of His Excellency the Lieut. Governor, the Chief Justice, Col. Lane, and several other literary gentlemen, as well as parents of the children, and all had reason to express themselves highly gratified with the progress which the boys had made in their several branches of study—comprising English Reading—Geography---Mathematics---and the French, Latin and Greek languages. The pupils in the higher classics especially acquitted themselves in a manner highly creditable both to themselves and to their teachers; and those in the junior classes evidently showed that they were well grounded. I was sorry to observe, that more of those immediately interested in the prosperity of the Institution were not present, and that it seems to meet with so little general countenance and support, which, in my opinion, would not be the case if its merits were better known.

A PARENT.

To the Editor of the Colonial Herald.

Sir;—You will pardon us when we say, that we are proud to send you, for publication, the enclosed letter from His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, Patron and Visiter of the Central Academy. It augurs, we trust, better things for the interests of this Institution.

We are, Sir,
Your most obd't. servants,
J. WADDELL,
ALEXANDER BROWN.

Central Academy,
July 15th, 1842.

"Government House, July 15th, 1842.

"Gentlemen;

"In justice to you, I consider it my duty to express myself highly gratified by the examination of the pupils under your tuition in the Central Academy; and I have the most sincere pleasure in stating, that in every case, the pupils appeared to be not only well grounded, but also extensively informed in the several studies in which they were successively examined—a circumstance reflecting the more credit upon the masters, who have laboured so severely under the want of necessary books, which, if supplied—as I trust, by some means, they will be—I can see no reason to suppose that the Academy will be otherwise than a permanent advantage to the Colony.

"I am, Gentlemen,
Your very obd't. humble servant,
H. V. HUNTLEY,
Lieutenant Governor.

"To the Masters of the
Central Academy,
Charlottetown."

To the Editor of the Colonial Herald.

Sir;—The insinuation of An Elector of Queen's County, that I am a bankrupt, is a private slander, totally unconnected with politics, and held to be of a very grave and serious nature in England and her commercial Colonies, even when founded on fact; but the offence is immeasurably aggravated, when the aspersion proceeds from pure malevolence, and has not the shadow of a base to rest upon. An insinuation of the sort, being attended with, at last, all the evil effects of a direct charge, would inevitably be visited with a heavy penalty in any other part of the British dominions, howsoever it might be viewed in Charlottetown. Having declined to furnish me with the slanderer's real name, you have assumed the enviable relation of receiver to this liar and thief of mercantile credit. I, therefore, beg to tell your friend, that if he shall fail to come before the public in his real name, and either retract, or endeavour to prove his allegation, the community may rest satisfied, that his picture of a closet bravo and public dastard, has been drawn from his own character.

Believing our Elector to be identical with the writer who now finds it expedient to date from Brackley Point, I shall take the trouble to exhibit his ignorance on some properties of the cipher—a subject upon which he may be competent to give an opinion, after he shall have been a year or two longer at school. "Let us look at his logic," arithmetical, for, I assure you, Sir, I would be very sorry to have any manner of claim to it. He asserts that a cipher "is a worthless unit"—* (bring a dictionary, and refer to it, Elector, dear,)—and that it becomes valueless when placed before another figure!!! Schoolboys know that when so placed, in decimals, it decreases the value ten times, and is of the utmost use. He further states, that any other figure, unlike the cipher, has always some value in itself. In point of fact, no arithmetical figure has any real value, abstractedly considered; but the cipher, not being the representative of nothing—as supposed by this thick-headed numbskull—but the indicator of the denary scale, is the most useful of them all, but the most difficult to comprehend, and was neither understood nor used in Europe till nearly 200 years after the nine digits. Every person acquainted with the summation of an Algebraic series, is aware, that it is quite possible to expand the operation of dividing an unit by a cipher, and that the quotient is a sum infinitely great, howsoever mysterious such a result may appear to our learned Elector. Also, in the higher arithmetic, or analysis, there are numbers which can neither be said to be ciphers, more than ciphers, nor less than ciphers; yet the mind has a very clear perception of those numbers, and much benefit is sometimes evolved from their calculation. In the indispensable arithmetic of logarithms, 0 is equal to 1, and consequently all logarithims of fractions are less than 0; yet, by those very numbers, which are less than ciphers, are the important tables in navigation, and other exact sciences, mostly computed.

I might go on proving the cipher to be the most useful of all figures, but what I have already written will be enough for our Elector, who is not gifted with the wit to be aware of his ignorance, to "chew the cud" of mental imbecility upon; and I would recommend him, when he shall next be seized with the cacœthes scribendi, to know his man and his subject a little better.

The Electioneering excitement being about to culminate, I shall not again intrude on your columns, should I not have to do so regarding the first paragraph in this letter.

Your obd't. servant,
D. MACLEAN.

New London, 8th July, 1842.

* Mr. Maclean does not appear to have been aware, when he penned the above remarks, that an error of the press was inadvertently committed in copying this part of An Elector's communication, as stated in our last. The passage in question should have read thus—"The cipher, by itself, is the symbol of nothing: it is worthless until placed behind a numeral figure."—Ed. Col. Herald.
