MESSAGE TO MEN

Proving that True Honesty and True Philanthropy still Exist

If any man who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excess or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell, and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-beings to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c silver to cover postage and address Mr. G. Strong, North Rock and, Mich. 135 p&w.

Testimonial

C. P. Fletcher, Esq.

DEAR SIR, - I do not wish to return to Montreal without expressing my gratitude to you for the very excellent Bell Piano that you placed at my disposal for my recital. I have tried many Canadian Pianos of different manufacturers and must say that, considering the size of the instrument, I have never found one to equal it for depth and brilliancy of tone. The action is quite as elastic and responsive as in American Upright Pianos of the highest grade. Again thanking you, very sincerely,

I remain,
Yours,

HER OPINION OF MEN.

Aunt Philenda Had Married Four and Discovered Man's Ideal.

"I may be wrong about it," modestly began good old Aunt Philenda Broadhead in the midst of the assemblage of ladies at Mrs. Judge Tubman's quilting bee, "but I don't believe there is any fixed rule or set of rules that can be safely followed in all cases in managing a husband. I may say—being as I have buried three as good husbands as a woman ever had and a fourth, as he is also buried, I'll just pass over without comment—that I have had considerable acquaintance with men, and as a result of my somewhat extended experience I am pretty well convinced that there is no established law which can be depended on to operate successfully in the cases of any two of them.

"What is one man's meat is another man's poison, you know, and the method of procedure which will convert one parcel of masculine material into a satisfactory husband will prove a total failure when applied to the next one. Men, in their dispositions and possibilities, resemble nothing else in the world that I can think of so much as they do a lot of toads. You can never tell in advance which way they are going to jump when you poke 'em, nor, for that matter, how far.

"There is a proverb which says that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, but some men are dyspeptic, and the riot in their internal economies cuts off all communication with their hearts in that direction. You can win one man's everlasting subservience by the successful application of a mustard plaster to the proper portion of his anatomy at the ordained time, and the same action will make a tyrant or a misanthrope or both of the next man. One man can be subjugated by making him afraid of you and another by making him think you are afraid of him. You must talk to one man and listen to another.

"All in all, about the only infallible rule regarding men folks that I have gathered from my experience with them is that the man who before marriage loves a woman the most extravagantly after marriage loves her the most economically. The average man's ideal wife is one who knows how to dress on nothing a year and always look well."—Tom P. Morgan in New York Truth.
