A wrecking train in charge of Conductor Thompson left for the scene of the accident yesterday morning at eight o'clock and after clearing the track, returned with the damaged locomotives and plow at ten o'clock last night.

(SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.) A Scott Act Judgment. TORONTO, March 6. An important judgment in regard to the Scott Act was given by the Chancery Divisional Court yesterday in the Queen vs. Fee. In June last Judge Galt in the Queen vs. Halpin held that under section 123 of the Act by which the accused is made a competent and compellable witness he is not bound to criminate himself, and in the Queen vs. Fee, Judge Proudfoot took the same ground. An appeal was made to the Chancery Divisional Court, and they hold that the defendant is a compellable witness on behalf of the crown, even to the extent of criminating himself. The court also held that the Divisional Court has jurisdiction to review the decision of the Judge in a single court in criminal matters. Results of the Recounts. TORONTO, March 6. General Wolsley.

HIS DREAM OF AN INTERNATIONAL MILLENNIUM—AN APPALLING WAR IMMINENT—ENGLISH POLITICS—PETTY SQUABBLES—A GLANCE AT AMERICA—A FIGHT OVER A KETTLE OF FISH. A newspaper correspondent has had an interview with Gen. Wolsley. THE RELATIONS OF THE GREAT POWERS. Being asked what his view was of the relations of the great powers, he said: "Simply expressing my personal opinion, I should say I feel sure that a vast and appalling war is a certainty in the near future. But this, indeed, everybody may be said to know. The rapidly increasing armaments, the huge burdens which several of the powers are laying upon themselves, and the directions in which the armaments are being developed and massed make war inevitable. But whether it will be this summer or next, there is only one man in Europe who knows—that is Prince Bismarck. THE LESSON OF THE GERMAN ELECTIONS. Correspondent—What do you take to be the lesson of the German elections; do they mean a Franco-German peace? Gen. Wolsley—I do not see that they do; but their overwhelming lesson, to my mind, is the disregard of the popular voice in Imperial matters. Prince Bismarck's line, from first to last, has been to disregard the people's wishes, snub them and ride rough-shod over them; yet by doing so he has created out of a handful of petty German States one of the most powerful empires of the world, an empire, moreover, in which the very people whom he has thus disregarded are the first to take enormous legitimate pride. ENGLISH POLITICAL SQUABBLES. Correspondent—Do you see the profile of an English Bismarck in the horizon? Gen. Wolsley—No; I do not. The miserable squabbles and petty personal aims of our party government preclude any such hope. I do see, however, with the greatest satisfaction and gratification, the beginning in English life of something like a National party, in which Liberal-Conservative and Radical will drop their differences on the questions of an Empire Britannica, and indeed an ultimate Federation of all English-speaking peoples. AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING FEDERATION. Correspondent—That then is your ultimate ideal for us? Gen. Wolsley—When every man who speaks English is in the same Empire or Federation, or whatever it may be called, an international millennium will be reached; for we should then be able to impose peace and freedom on all the world. AN ADMIRER OF AMERICA. I am a great admirer of America and American people. I witnessed at Washington the final review of the armies of the Republic at the close of the war. The spectacle of that immense force melting away among the people and being almost immediately absorbed was the most colossal I have ever seen, and left upon me an ineffaceable impression. I never lose an opportunity of assuring people in England that the education of a public man is not complete until he has been in America and stayed there at least six months. Every step which brings England and America nearer together seems to me a step nearer the realization of the ideal civilization of the future. I am therefore always delighted when I hear of an Englishman marrying an American lady, or vice versa. THE FISHERIES DISPUTE. With such a miserable squabble over a kettle of fish as the present fisheries dispute I have not a moment's patience. I am convinced that if I or any man of ordinary tact or experience was sent over with sufficient authority to arrange matters with a similar American representative, the whole affair could be settled out of hand in a week. THE Star of Montreal has created a sensation by bringing definite charges of blackmailing against members of the City Council. The charges are that a Mr. N. De Disle was blackmailed to the extent of $1,000 to get an alteration in the homestead plan of the city affecting his property; that the Royal Electric Light Company paid $10,000 to get its contract with the city; that $4,000 was subscribed by parties interested in the latter scheme for the purpose of influencing aldermanic votes, and that the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery, desiring to lay a water pipe from its works to the canal, was blackmailed to the extent of $1,500 to buy votes from aldermen.
