Diefenbaker Gov't Faces Byelection Test Today

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative government faces its first election test Monday since piling up a record number of Commons seats in a general election last March. A change in party representation in the Commons in either by-election would be regarded as an upset. Montmagny—'Islet has been Liberal since it was formed 25 years ago. It was last held by Jean Lesage, northern affairs minister in the previous Liberal administration who resigned to head his party's Quebec province wing. Among the problems the government had to cope with since first taking office were a serious business recession that was felt by all segments of the community and accompanying high unemployment. Although the worst of the recession appears to be over, the prospects are for another winter of serious unemployment.

WIN MAJORITY

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was without an overall Commons majority when he first came to power in 1957 facing these and other problems. But he soon appealed for one and was answered by a record 205 Conservatives elected last March 31. The Liberals were reduced to 48 seats and the socialist CCF to eight. One vacancy will remain after Monday's voting, caused by the death last week of Val Yeats, who won the Manitoba seat of Springfield for the Conservatives in March.

Spaak Asks Postponement Of U.K. Plan For Cyprus

ATHENS (Reuters)—NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak Sunday was reported to have recommended postponement of Britain's "partnership" plan for Cyprus pending a conference of interested parties. Greek diplomatic sources revealed that Spaak, who flew here last week for urgent talks on the Cyp. problem, made three recommendations: 1. Postponement of implementation of the British plan (scheduled to go into effect Wednesday against strong Greek opposition) which would bring Greece and Turkey into partnership with Britain during a transitional seven-year self-government period. 2. Holding of a round-table conference attended by representatives of Britain, Greece and Turkey as well as Greek and Turkish Cypriots to narrow the gap

UAW Postpones U.S. Strike Against G.M. Until Thursday

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union Saturday postponed a Tuesday strike deadline against General Motors until Thursday and ordered 45,000 members until Tuesday so that it could devote full attention to getting GM plans back to normal.

The UAW chief said he would join new contract talks at Chrysler Monday, but would switch back to GM Tuesday. Bargaining continued Sunday at Chrysler, where Reuther said "there are fewer problems than at GM."

The union and Ford reached a three-year agreement Sept. 13, 20 PLANTS CLOSED

More than 20 GM plants across the United States were closed by wildcat strikes or shut down because they resulted in parts shortages last week as workers stayed off jobs to support UAW demands for quick agreement on a new contract.

Reuther said "we have made it clear that these people who thought they were helpful really are hurting us."

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice-president, hailed the union move as "a very good thing." He added: "We're glad to know the union is going to make every effort to cut off those hit-and-run strikes which have cost our workers millions of dollars in wages."

Asked if GM had served notice on the UAW it would not continue negotiations while wildcat strikes were in effect, Seaton said: "We did not."

between the opposing views. 3. Amendment of the British plan on two main points opposed by Greece: A. The substitution of Greek and Turkish commissioners by Cypriots, elected by the island's two communities, to act as advisers to the British governor of Cyprus; B. Restriction of the jurisdiction of the two communal assemblies to exclusively communal affairs, and the creation of a single chamber representing both communities to legislate for the island.

Saturday Archbishop Makarios, exiled leader of the Greek-Cypriots, formally proposed to Britain that Cyprus should become independent during a United Nations guarantee.

(There was as yet no official London comment on Makarios' proposal.)

Car Ferry Slated Back On Run Today

The S.S. Prince Edward Island is expected to return to service on the Borden-Tormentine route today. George B. Greenough, superintendent of the CNR's Island Division said in Charlottetown last night.

Barring some unforeseen occurrence, the veteran trans-Strait link would resume her normal schedule at 8:25 a.m. this morning, he said.

The 40-year-old CNR ice-breaker, for many years the Province's chief link with the Canadian mainland, was damaged by fire, which broke out in the steamship's stoke hole nine days ago. The necessary repairs were carried out while the ship was tied up at her Borden berth.

In the interim, the only standby, the S.S. Scotian II, which formerly operated across the Strait of Canso between Cape Breton and N.S., assisted the M.V. Abegweit with the freight end of the Borden-Tormentine service.

New Hurricane Heads Northeast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Ilsa whirled northeastward in the Atlantic Sunday on a path that would take it east of Bermuda and make it a menace to shipping.

At 6 p.m. the season's ninth tropical storm and fifth hurricane was about 230 miles southeast of Bermuda.

Still packing winds up to 100 miles an hour around the centre, the hurricane is moving along at 15 miles an hour.

OVERWHELMING VOTE

France Gives Approval To A New Constitution

PARIS (CP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle Sunday night headed for the greatest triumph of his career as French voters throughout the world overwhelmingly backed his constitutional proposals.

In metropolitan France early returns showed a 4-to-1 majority. Results in places as far scattered as French Somaliland in Africa and the New Hebrides Islands in the Pacific Ocean were equally decisive.

The first 13,000,000 votes officially counted showed 10,470,000 affirmative ballots to 2,440,000 negative ones.

De Gaulle told one of his lieutenants he was "very content" at the thumping majority for his constitution designed to strengthen the powers of the executive, weaken those of a vacillating parliament and produce governmental stability.

Between 85 and 90 per cent of the electorate voted and officials said that a record number of the 26,772,255 eligible went to the polls in metropolitan France.

Interior ministry officials said that in many departments the "no" vote was smaller than the total ballots polled by the Communists in the 1956 elections.

They interpreted this as the first serious setback the Communists have experienced at the hands of the French electorate since 1946.

Returns from France's vast overseas territories, with more than 15,000,000 registered voters, were slow coming in.

SEE SOME TROUBLE The constitution, incorporating strong executive powers demanded by de Gaulle and offering the overseas areas partnership under the tricolor or independence from the mother country, was expected to have rough going in one or two territories.

Premier Chou En-lai asserted Sunday Communist China will bring the United States to "final and complete disaster, if the United States insists on provoking war" in Formosa Strait.

Peiping Radio said Chou declared China cannot tolerate U.S. actions "interfering in our country's internal affairs, infringing on our country's sovereignty, threatening the peace in the Far East."

Communist China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi said the United States will suffer utter defeat if it goes to war against his country.

Canada's undertaking to keep preferences on some imports from Britain at the present level means little, says the paper. "She (Canada) is already committed to that under GATT. So she is merely saying: 'We will keep our promises.'"

The headline on the story reads: "The Saddest Empire Talks Fizzle Out into Nothing."

But a high percentage of approval was expected in most areas. Early reports indicated that between 70 and 75 per cent of the eligible overseas voters had cast ballots. This meant that more than 10,000,000 Africans, Madagascan, Polynesians and West Indians had voted. Also voting were residents of St. Pierre and Miquelon off the south coast of Newfoundland about 20,000 French residents of Canada also were eligible to vote. Six men died and eight were injured in France Saturday night as the Algerian nationalists struck for the last time before the polls opened.

SLOW VOTING IN CITIES The big city vote where hostile Communists hoped to make a showing was slow coming in. But the Communist vote never was expected to tip the balance.

No Loss Of Life As Areas Along Beaches Evacuated

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina coastal residents struggled Sunday to restore essential services in their hurricane-battered area.

Hurricane Helene was gone, moved some 400 miles out into the Atlantic and leaving up to the weather bureau said. Behind, the vicious storm, with winds up to 135 miles an hour, left tangled communication lines, felled power circuits, blocked highways, chopped up beaches and smashed dwellings. Some beach communities had no drinking water. State and local officials strove mightily to make order out of chaos.

Most agreed it could have been much worse. Instead of smashing head on into the coast, Helene swerved seaward and moved parallel toward the northeast. So only one side of the big storm struck the mainland. Frequently the after half of a hurricane is the most destructive.

Fortunately, too, the wind direction held off the 10-foot-or-more-above-normal storm tides which had been predicted.

No loss of life was reported as weather bureau warnings had caused the evacuation of most exposed beach areas.

At Atlantic Beach near "ore-head City a bread company's warehouse collapsed.

The Marine naval air station at Cherry Point evacuated about 200 people from nearby beaches. The base reported that winds reaching 97 m.p.h. were recorded.

A 300-foot pier was destroyed at Ocean Isle Beach, N.C. A pavilion on the same beach also was destroyed.

Weather forecasters here said the storm centre was expected to pass—about 100 miles south of Sable. Marine interests were warned to prepare for gale-force winds over all coastal areas from the Gulf of St. Lawrence south.

At mid-afternoon Sunday Helene was centred about 300 miles off Yarmouth on Nova Scotia's south-western tip. Winds up to 60 miles an hour were expected along the south and eastern shores of the province today.

Helene had already made herself felt over much of eastern Canada Sunday with cloudy skies and rain. More than an inch of rain fell in some parts of the southern Maritimes. The rain area extended into southern Quebec. But the wind was moderate—no more than 25 miles an hour.

Final results of the election were: Against, 19,470; for, 7,565.
