Yawl Leaves On World Cruise

PLYMOUTH, England, Sept. 27 (Reuters)—The 40-foot yawl Sybil, with three men, a woman and a child aboard, slipped quietly out of Plymouth Harbor today on what is believed an "escape from red tape" world cruise.

Skipper of the 16-ton craft is Christian Burchard, 47, former accountant from Durban, South Africa.

With him were his wife, Audrey, 28, their three-year-old son Christie, and two crew members—locomotive engineer Bernard Baker, 26, and a former merchant navy officer, John McCoy, 28.

They began their tour two days ago, but were forced back by bad weather. It was not known whether the yawl was heading for another British port or following her original route—Gibraltar, the Canaries, the West Indies, the United States, and then through the Panama Canal to the Pacific, where the Burchards hope to find a "dream island".

Rule Gambling Gain Not Taxable

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27.—(CP)—An Income Tax Appeal Board sitting here today ruled money won by a Winnipeg restaurant owner in July 1946, was not taxable income. His appeal was upheld against a tax ruling.

John DiCosimo, who claimed to have won more than $18,000 gambling profits in two consecutive nights, carried the appeal to the Board.

Stanley Zedd of Winnipeg was named as the man who paid off the money to Mr. DiCosimo, who claimed he won $9,700 one night in a River Heights district home and $6,800 the next night in another home in the same district.

In a tax return filed for 1946, Mr. DiCosimo showed an increase to capital of $17,662, said to have been made in gambling.

The Tax Board in Winnipeg is reported to have called in Mr. DiCosimo's auditors and asked where the capital gain came from. When Mr. DiCosimo said of extreme gambling, the Board did not accept the story and ruled he must pay tax on the money.

you have, or ever will have, and they are only trying to knit, now, the ties that will hold you all together for the rest of your lives.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a lady friend to whom I am very devoted. Recently I bought her a very good fountain pen and though I asked her not to let anyone else use it, she did permit a man where she worked to borrow it. We disagreed on the matter, and have had a serious quarrel over it. Who is wrong? M. T.

ANSWER: If such a trivial matter could cause a serious quarrel between you, I doubt if you could be very devoted to this lady. She would have been guilty of extreme rudeness had she refused the brief loan of her pen to a co-worker. If it was so important to you not to have anyone else use it, she should not have taken the pen to the office at all. I really think you owe her an apology, and make sure that all future gifts are of such nature that she will not carry them around with her or be placed in a position where her refusal to lend them will cause embarrassment.

Plan To Cut Pollution In Rainy River

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Sept. 27 (CP)—An attempt will be made soon to cut down the discoloration of international waters in the Rainy River district resulting from mining operations in Steep Rock Lake.

U. S. Senator Hubert N. Humphrey has informed civic officials at nearby International Falls, Minn., that an underwater line to discharge silt from mining operations is to be installed near the lake bottom. He said it is expected this will reduce the discoloration of water flowing from the lake through the Seine River to Rainy Lake.

The discoloration—labelled by Fort Frances residents as pollution—has been a sore subject ever since dredging started in Steep Rock Lake and Rainy Lake began to turn a dusky hue several months ago.

The dredging is to uncover a large iron ore deposit under the lake. So far, the dredge has cut 36 feet into the bed but engineers estimate at least another 170 feet must be dredged.

Silt from the operation goes into another part of the lake where most of the solid matter settles, but some stays in the water that flows to Rainy Lake.

Protests against the muddy waters included an appeal to Canada from the State of Minnesota which cited a 1909 treaty forbidding use of international waters which might harm health or property values in either country.

M. S. Fotheringham, president of Steep Rock Mines Ltd., said the discoloration had been magnified out of proportion. Discoloration of the international water was only 10 parts in 1,000,000 compared with 200 to 300 parts in the Upper Mississippi River.
