HAPPENINGS

Ladies of the Charlottetown Curling Club will be hostesses this evening at a dinner which will follow the first Ladies' Bonspiel of the season. This event takes place today and will be a one-day competition for the Crockett Trophy. Lady Curlers from Montague, Alberton and Summerside Clubs will be competing.

Colorfully decorated Christmas trees and miniature snow men formed seasonal decorations Thursday when the Women's Auxiliary of the Zion Presbyterian church held its annual tea and bazaar. Over six hundred guests were served. Mrs. George Lee, president of the Auxiliary, reported the occasion as being a success socially and financially. Mrs. Pearl McKay, Mrs. Georgie MacRae, Mrs. Belle MacLeod and Mrs. E. Reid.

Mrs. Lawrence Edwards, City, spent the week-end in Dartmouth N.S. While there she attended the wedding of her niece, Marlene Edwards to Roland Geoffrey of Montreal. Mrs. Edwards was accompanied by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cumdore. They were guests of Mrs. James Edwards, Mineville, N.S., and Mrs. Alex Gates of Dartmouth.

Miss Muriel Ford whose marriage to Alvin Johnston takes place Saturday, Dec. 5, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by her friends at the home of Miss Lois MacLellan. The lovely gifts were passed by Miss Sylvia Duffy and the verses read by Lois MacLellan. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Elwood Ford and Mrs. James Crabbe also entertained for Miss Ford at Mrs. Crabbe's home. Miss Verna Lee Ford read the verses while Mrs. Elwood Ford passed the gifts. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Murtok MacLeod, Vernon, left Tuesday for Natick, Mass., to attend the wedding of her cousin, Fred Colpitts which will take place in Natick, Dec. 5. From Natick, Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod will go to Toronto and Calgary where they will spend the Christmas season with their daughter, Joan MacLeod.

Of interest to relatives and to call or remain, asked Sach other. And echoes returned to these rooms of his voice spinning yarns of his near or far travels. Or some homely incident of his everyday round which was sure to end in a chuckle for himself and his listeners. Even the serious conversation and sensible, was apt to be turned into less worrisome channels by some whimsical remark he would offer.

So good and lovely are our memories. Bound about with those happy smiles, we of kin shall remember forever of the lad, and man, held dear not only because of family ties but that to his own account we always loved him so well. Until tomorrow—Diary—Goodnight.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM EDGAR HART Young Couple Pledge Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

St. Mary's Anglican Church, Summerside, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently when Doreen Janette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Maynard, became the bride of William Edgar Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Hart of St. John's, Newfoundland. Rev. B. Fream performed the double ring ceremony. Mr. Lowell Huestis was organist and accompanied Mr. Robert Schurman, who sang "O Promise Me" and "I'll Walk Beside You". The church was attractively decorated with baskets of multi-colored gaidoli and dahlias.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her ballerina-like wedding gown of french silk velvet with a very full skirt and the bodice trimmed with french crepe. The waist length veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of blue tifted carnations.

Mrs. Victor Black of Halifax, N.S., as matron of honor, was gowned in blue velvet with matching blue feather hat and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations encircled with white mums.

Mr. George Benson, Halifax, N.S., was best man and Joseph Baltzer of Halifax, N.S., and Donald Maynard, brother of the

ELLEN'S DIARY Happy Memories Remain To Ease Sorrow Of Parting

Today this farmwife mourns the recent passing of a brother. Nor are we alone in our sorrow. James and the family, particularly, we fancy, the younger farmer his namesake, is saddened by the death of this man to him and all so dear. Not without warning, nor unexpected by his loved ones and friends the end came, for death has been shadowing his steps for some time and more obviously of late. So in this home by the Strait tonight a small and aged woman too mourns sadly this first break in her family of eight—the passing of her second-born son. All through his illness he had been first in her thoughts.

Like many another mother so blessed, she gave her first-born son proudly to the Church. He was a good lad, destined always it seemed for his service. He is a quiet scholarly man, a student always, and is more or less reserved by nature, though he has an appreciative sense of humor as well.

But her second son—he whom she now mourns. She talked of him much this evening, sometimes close to tears, though often with a wistful smile as memory took her by the hand and led her back through the remembered younger years. For none of us—neither the farmer who took such pride in his fields and his stock—but the laddie this old home of his people reared and well knew; the boy, bright and quick of mind, though little interested in the rather bleak instruction of the school-classes of those now far-by years. His preferred classroom was the open, his first loves the horses, his delight to study humans, to read and understand them as thoroughly as his elder brother did his books.

"He always brought the sunshine with him" his mother recalled this evening "he made my day brighter whenever he stopped by." We think of him on this to call or remain, as we each in the fields, along the little brook as a lad fishing, or sailing on the pond they fashioned by the Squash, Long-Time Favorite Will Provide Vitamin A.

"What do you consider the most adaptable vegetable of the fall season, Madame?" asked the Chef.

"Squash with its many varieties," I answered. "Some form of fall or winter squash could be served every day for a week without seeming monotonous."

"Of course no vegetable in our east of national foods has had a longer run than squash" chuckled the Chef. "It's been around and popular for a long time."

"The Indians often munched it raw," I chimed in. "Indian squaws taught Colonial housewives how to cook it and Americans have been inventing new ways ever since."

RICH IN VITAMIN A "It's comforting to know, Chef, that a half cup of mashed cooked squash provides more than a day's recommended allowance of vitamin A for an active adult, as well as considerable minerals."

And all squash is low in calories. "Each variety of squash has its own individual flavor, calling for special ways of preparation."

"The Hubbard, 'those important group members number about a dozen and a half, is superb when steamed, mashed, seasoned with allspice, pepper and mixed with a little cream and a few grains of sugar, then topped with crisp bacon crumbs."

"And sliced, bland Butternut squash," suggested the Chef, "is a savory smoothie, that becomes piquante when citrus juice and grated citrus rind are added in the baking."

RECIPE OF THE WEEK Fresh Squash Chiffon Tart: Bake 6 (3 1/2") tart shells from American pastry.

Add 1 envelope unflavored gelatin to 1/4 c. cold water. Separate 2 eggs; mix yolks with 1/2 c. sugar, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. ground ginger and 1/4 tsp. each ground nutmeg and cinnamon.

Add 1 c. mashed steam-boiled fresh Hubbard squash. Stir in 1/2 c. milk. Stir-cook over hot water until thick.

Remove from heat; add gelatin mixture. Stir until dissolved. Refrigerate until mixture begins to thicken.

Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Then beat in 1/4 c. additional sugar. Fold into gelatin-squash mixture. Pour into cooked baked tart shells. Refrigerate again until firm.

Garnish with whipped cream. Butternut Squash Amandine: Wash 3 medium Butternut squashes; cut in halves. Scrape out seeds; peel squash.

Place in wide-bottom saucepan. Add 1" boiling water and 1/2 tsp. salt. Cover. Boil 12 min. or until tender when pierced with fork.

Arrange squash on oiled baking sheet or pan. Top each squash-half with 1 tsp. brown sugar and 1 tsp. sliced blanched almonds. Dot with 1 tsp. butter or margarine.
