

Heavy Holiday Traffic Reported

The long week-end holiday gave city dwellers a chance to enjoy themselves and they took a variety of ways of doing it. Some spent yesterday lying in the warm sun, some worked at preparing their summer cottages and a large number went fishing. Reports on the big ones which were caught or got away have not been received as yet since many anglers decided to stay out today as well.

Large numbers of motorists were on the roads yesterday after the disappointment of a rainy Saturday and countless more are planning family picnics for today as called for by the traditional 24th of May.

Up to last night only one serious accident had been reported and that occurred Saturday afternoon when 12-year-old Joseph McPhee was hit by part of a truck while fishing at Black Pond Bridge. A full report of the accident appears elsewhere.

Heavy holiday traffic was reported from both ferry systems, but the figures were not available. However, at Borden both the old S.S. Prince Edward Island and the M.V. Abegweit were plying the Strait steadily to keep up with the annual rush.

At Wood Islands the customary tie-up was reported for a holiday season despite the fact that the Prince Nova and the Charles A. Dunning went on summer schedule to try to keep up with the flow. No figures were reported by Northumberland Ferries but travellers state it was particularly heavy at the Caribou terminal in Nova Scotia. It was not believed last night that all traffic had been cleared up before operations ceased for the day.

Similar conditions are expected to, today as the returning flow will probably start early and continue through the day.

Leaves To Rejoin Husband In Europe

Mrs. Allan Clarkin accompanied by her infant daughter, Terry Lynn, is leaving early this week for Quebec en route to rejoin her husband, Sgt. Major Allan Clarkin who is stationed in the 27th Brigade in Germany.

Mrs. Clarkin is the only Islander going with the present group of wives. Another Maritimer from Stellarton, N. S. is joining her at Moncton. They will sail from Quebec City on Thursday. Mrs. Clarkin is the former Miss Lola Brady, R. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Brady, 5 Bungalow Place, and she took her nurse's training at the P. E. I. Hospital.

Sgt. Maj. Clarkin is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. Clarkin of this city and is a member of the Canadian Army Permanent Force. He was stationed at Petawawa for some time before going to Korea. On his return he was at Camp Borden and was posted to Germany last year.

Masonic Class Receive Royal Arch Degree

A large class of Masonic candidates received the Holy Royal Arch Degree at a special convocation of Alexandria Chapter No. 11, in the Masonic Temple, Charlottetown on Saturday afternoon.

The degree was put on by a team composed of members of Cornwallis Chapter, U. D. Nova Scotia, and included many Masonic notables from throughout the jurisdiction. Several Air Force officers from the R. C. A. F. station at Greenwood accompanied the team and received the degree along with the Island candidates.

A large delegation of Royal Arch Masons from Prince Edward Island Chapter, Kensington, accompanied their M. E. H. P. Companion Harry Daley to the City to witness the degree and fraternize with the visitors.

The chapter work was followed by a banquet in the Charlottetown Hotel on Saturday evening with approximately 100 in attendance.

The visiting brethren and other members of the Masonic fraternity attended Divine service in Zion Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning when the minister, Rev. W. Harold Brown, M. A., preached a sermon suitable to the occasion, taking as his theme "The Master Builder". M. E. Companion Seymour C. Gordon, high priest of Cornwallis Chapter read the lesson.

The junior choir of the P. E. I. Island Protestant Orphanage sang an anthem.

ST. DUNSTAN'S GRADUATES HEAR INSPIRING BACCALAUREATE SERMON

An inspiring Baccalaureate Sermon by Very Rev. Frederick Lynch, S.J., President of St. Mary's University Halifax, was delivered to the St. Dunstan's University Graduating Class in the University Chapel yesterday evening on the eve of the S. D. U. Centennial Commencement Exercises.

Using as the text of his address "What Think You of Christ?" Father Lynch very eloquently explained the meaning of "Loyalty to Christ" to the graduates and he reminded them that their first duty is to preserve and strengthen that loyalty.

During the course of his remarks Father Lynch, who left St. Dunstan's in 1927 to enter the Jesuit Novitiate, paid high tribute to the achievements of the Island University.

Right Reverend Patrick McMahon, Rector of St. Dunstan's Basilica Parish, said Benediction He was assisted by Rev. Francis Simpson and Rev. Francis Aylward.

Honorable Sean Murphy, Ambassador of Ireland to Canada, and Sir William MacMillan, K.C., S.G., were present for the Sermon and Benediction.

Father Lynch will deliver the address to the graduates this afternoon at the Commencement Exercises when 34 students will receive degrees in the fields of Arts, Commerce and Science.

Father Lynch attended St. Dunstan's for two years prior to 1927. He was ordained in Ontario, Ontario, in 1940 and was appointed president of St. Mary's University in 1950.

He is a son of Mrs. John Morris Bayfield Street, Charlottetown.

Following is the text of Father Lynch's address:

There is a story told of a sentry who kept guard at an outpost in the Roman Empire in Northern Italy. An officer of the guard came up and demanded, "What are you doing?" The sentry looked at him in surprise. The officer repeated, "What are you doing?" Then he went on: "You are holding back the sea. Behind you lies the Empire with Roman roads and all the things that mean civilization and culture. Before you stretch the forces of barbarism, the Goths and the Visigoths who would overturn emperors may come and emperors may go, but you are the guardians of the Empire."

Now, in a sense, we are all sentries. Today, as our Holy Father the Pope looks on from his Church of St. Peter over the world, he regards all of us as sentries guarding the Church and the kingdom of Christ. Now, a sentry must have a cause and he must have a loyalty. And the measure of a sentry is how far he is gripped by the cause. A. Thoreau remarked, "Every man for whose drum the living, vital Christ whose story we read in the New Testament and who lives on today. The Christ of Bethlehem, whom we find a tiny infant come all the way from Heaven to go from the cradle to the Cross out of love for the Christ of Nazareth—God Himself hidden and forgotten in a carpenter's shop in Nazareth. The Christ of the public life, the Christ who at the request of his mother did the first of his miracles in Cana of Galilee. The Christ of the Mass, who could stand forth before the whole world and say, "They say—but I say," and give us a lesson for all time. Who could stand before a proud world and say "Blessed are the meek and lowly who shall possess the land." Who could say to a world that loved war and had been at war, "Blessed are the peacemakers." That is the Christ, the Christ who went about doing good—healing the sick, forgiving sins; the friend of children, the friend of sinners; the Christ who hated hypocrisy and who scourged the Pharisees in those scolding words, "Woe to you, ye who weep and fast, but who will not let your hearts be broken." The Christ of the Passion, who as He hangs from his cross, looks over a world he has come to redeem and finds in sinful man something that is worth the human life of a God. The Christ of the Resurrection, who could come for before all his enemies and show them that after they had done their worst, after they had crucified Him, He lives still. The same Christ that lives still, tonight, 1954, and is here with you in this tabernacle, and before whom you come tonight in this eve of your graduation. And you ask yourself, "What think I of Christ?"

Now, your loyalty is again not an abstract loyalty, not something we learned in books, but a deep, personal, throbbing loyalty to Christ the loyalty of a St. Peter who would say, "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life." Or, again, who answered a similar question when Christ asked, "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God." The faith of a St. Thomas, who, as he put his hands into the wound in Christ's side said, "My Lord and my God." The faith of our Blessed Mother, a faith that was never professed, and there is no record that she ever asked if she loved God. And yet, as I mentioned before, Christ performed His first miracle, the beginning of miracles, did Christ in Cana of Galilee, because His mother turned to the waiters and said "Whatever He shall say to you, do ye."

Those are the terms of the necessity for Christ. But in a special way, I think, you, the class of 1954, have a very special claim to Christ, and He has a special claim on your loyalty. You are graduating in the Marian Year, the end of a century. In 1854 Pope Pius IX defined the dogma of the Immaculate Conception to a skeptical world, a world which was anti-clerical and was skeptical in every sense. To confirm that judgment four years later, in 1858, a lady appeared to a peasant child called Bernadette, in a place called Lourdes, and said, "I am the Immaculate Conception." In other words, she was saying, "I have come from Heaven to confirm the words of the Pope."

Again we have facts. On May 13, 1917, Our Lady appeared again at Fatima to three peasant children with a message that they would pray and offer their little peasant sacrifices to keep the world at peace. Strange as it may seem, on the same day in Rome a bishop was consecrated whose name is now Pope Pius XII. And 25 years after 1917 this Pope consecrated the world to the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Our Lady of Fatima.

That has been the story of Our

Apprehended By Police

Two Georgetown youths were apprehended by the R.C.M.P. on Saturday morning near the summer cottage of Mr. Guy Hemphill and charged with breaking and entering the cottage which is situated at Burnt Point.

Earlier in the morning, Mr. Hemphill drove to his cottage and saw that it had been entered. At the same time he noticed two men running from another cottage and save chase. After following them to their destination, Mr. Hemphill returned to his cottage and phoned the Montague detachment of the R.C.M.P. Corporal D. Davis and Constable J. Fraser drove to the scene, found the two youths and placed them under arrest.

One of them who was under the age of 16 was allowed to go to his home. Both will be arraigned before Magistrate Joseph W. MacDonald at Georgetown tomorrow.

Distinctive Military Records

It is doubtful if the Police Force of any city in Canada, certainly not in the numerical range of Charlottetown, has the distinction enjoyed here with two Military Medal winners on the staff.

Chief C. W. McArthur (left) who that coveted decoration as a Corporal in the attack on Regina French on the Somme River Oct. 2, 1916. He was wounded the same day and after hospitalization returned to France as a Commissioned Officer, and was again wounded on August 18, 1918. He received the M.M. at the hands of General Turner in England. He enlisted in Charlottetown in January 1915.

Cons. Leo Alphonus MacDougall (right), the most recent rookie on the force, represents a later generation in receiving the coveted Military Medal for "Bravery in the Field", the only circumstance under which the decoration is awarded, and then to enlisted men exclusively. Although wounded on the Gothic Line in Italy on Sept. 2, 1944, Cpl. MacDougall later returned to his unit, the Cape Breton Highlanders and won his decoration in the crossing of the Lamarna River in Italy on Dec. 13, 1944.

He enlisted at Charlottetown in June 10, 1943 and received his Military Medal at the hand of Governor General, Lord Alexander on his visit to Charlottetown.

Moscow Paper Critical of "Gone With The Wind"

By Stanley Johnson

MOSCOW (AP)—A Moscow newspaper calls the motion picture "Gone With The Wind" a conspiracy carefully organized in Wall Street to arouse race-hate against American negroes.

The official organ of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, Soviet Culture, labelled the civil war movie, now being revived in American theatres as anti-negro propaganda, and declared:

"The propaganda of racism was very subtle. They paid special attention to this film in Wall Street. They spent a lot of time in its staging. The premiere of the film was in the centre of the Ku Klux Klan country, Atlanta, Georgia. It was a particularly reactionary film about the Civil war in the United States."

"RACIST FILMS"

The paper accused the American motion picture industry of waging war against negroes and other minority groups in the United States in other films, too.

Soviet Culture claimed that so far this year alone Hollywood has put out 30 "racist films" which it intended to inflame race prejudices and set groups against one another.

Among such "racist" productions the Moscow paper listed the motion pictures "Hondo", which it said was aimed at the American Indian.

Soviet Culture described the post-war films "Pinky", "Home of the Brave" and "Lost Boundaries" as works intended to arouse racial feelings among audiences and intended to implant the ideas that negroes should "not forget their place" and that blacks should not mix with whites.

DR. MANCHU A THREAT

The famous old film "Viva Villa" Soviet Culture described as a "Hollywood calumny about the liberation forces of the Mexican people."

"Viva Villa" was shown in Moscow first run motion picture houses several years ago. The Soviet did not pay the American producers for the privilege and claimed the cinema as "war booty captured in Germany."

Soviet culture even found race-hate propaganda in the series of detective films on Dr. Fu Manchu. Said the paper: "This mythical Chinese equipped with the mere rudiments of science and technical science is pictured all the time as threatening white civilization."

Expedition To Explore Strange Labrador Lake

TORONTO (CP)—A mysterious crater lake rimmed with rock in the wilderness of northern Labrador is a strange apple green.

Practically all other lakes in the rugged region, when seen from the air, are blue.

Another strange thing about the lake, 40 miles west of Hebron mission, is that it is perfectly round. Scientists think it may have been caused by a meteor smashing into the earth, perhaps millions of years ago.

An eight-man expedition, sponsored jointly by Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum of Geology and Mineralogy and by the National Geographic Society of the United States and assisted by the U. S. air force, will leave here this summer to take a look at it.

Led by Dr. Victor Ben Meen of Toronto, geologist and director of the museum, members of the party will fly to the crater site in mid-July. They will take 6,000 pounds of scientific and cold-weather equipment.

MONTH OF "SUMMER"

They plan to establish a camp on the boulder-strewn shore of a lake near the crater. With luck, they will have a month of comparatively ice-free "summer" weather for their research before the onset of winter.

The scientists will seek to determine whether the crater is of meteoritic origin or came into existence when the earth's crust was formed. They also intend to look for effects of a great ice sheet which probably covered the area as recently as 3,000 years ago.

Dr. Meen will pay special attention to plane, animal and human habitation, ancient or modern. He also expects to question Eskimos in the district on their possible use of meteoritic iron in tools.

week-end last year.

A breakdown on the death toll: British Columbia: One highway fatality, one gassing.

Ontario: 10 traffic deaths, six burnings, two drownings.

Quebec: Three highway accidents, two drownings, one a fire death.

New Brunswick: One traffic fatality, one drowning.

Newfoundland: One drowning.

Four provinces reported no fatalities up to Sunday evening they were Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island.

The worst highway accident happened when two men were crushed to death after their heavily-laden transport went out of control trying to pass a car and crashed into a tree near Burks Falls, Ont.

The victims were Frank Lightheart of Balfleet township and Alexander Carriere of Hamilton.

Denosa Champagne, 42, of Montreal, was killed when a car in which he was riding shot off the highway at Saint Joachim de la Plaine, Que., and rammed into a tree.
