

Variety in Woman's Works.

To "begin as you can hold out" is an old adage often repeated for the benefit of the young wife; it may be dwelt upon by the young housekeeper at least with profit. One thing I never would "begin" with is a copper tea kettle. I would never have the memory of that once bright but constantly dimming tea kettle haunting me; that is one bitter experience which may be so easily avoided. When there are only two members of the family and a competent girl in the kitchen the kettle may be kept bright, and that too without great danger of the family drinking verdigris in their tea; but when the children come, and the mother's room is further removed from the kitchen, and her watchful care must be exercised over other and more important subjects than pots and kettles, the pleasure of having a copper tea kettle is greatly diminished, as it seems to be no longer possible for its good looks to be preserved. A good tin tea kettle, of medium size, may be kept clean and bright at all times with little effort; and the time and thought that must be given during an ordinary long life to the copper vessel would easily be used to better advantage. A thoughtful woman who wishes well to all womankind, and who appreciates the beauty as well as the necessity of going faithfully and with thought every humble duty that is owed to the home, is still sometimes appalled when the conviction is forced upon her that the great mass of women think of nothing else. She feels with pain and a great sense of loss, that the brains of most women instead of being evenly developed are necessarily the reverse. Who does not know, and esteem, and pity some woman of her acquaintance who retires from school with a scanty equipment in the way of arithmetic, grammar, and spelling, and who after that never opens a book, unless perhaps some light novel; who skims through the morning paper, noting possibly the last murder, but nothing more? It seems as if even these women might be awakened to something better, might be made to appreciate the meaning which others give to life, and might become interested in pursuits which give pleasure lasting long after the copper tea kettle has been scoured into oblivion.

Distilling Attar of Roses.

THE ROSE FARM IN INDIA WHERE THE PLANTERS GET $100 AN OUNCE FOR THEIR PRODUCT.

"Genuine attar of roses," remarked a New York chemist, "which is made in India and Australia, costs $100 an ounce at the place of distillation. It takes 50,000 rose blooms to yield an ounce of attar. They are the common roses, and grow in great profusion in California, where the distillation of attar could be made a very profitable industry. I have seen hedge rows near Samona, in that State, so dense with these roses that the odor from them on a warm, sultry day, caused a feeling of peculiar faintness and oppression in the passer by. This is the effect of the attar that is distilled by the heat and moist air, and is held suspended, as it were, in the atmosphere.

"There is money in that cause of faintness and indolence, but in this country not only the sweetness, but the great value of the flowers, is wasted on the desert air. In northern India the roses are regularly cultivated. They are planted in rows in fields, and require no particular care. When they begin to bloom they are picked before mid-day. The work is done by women and children, who seem to regard it more as a pleasure than a pursuit of labor. The rose leaves are distilled in twice their weight of water, which is drawn off into open vessels. These are allowed to stand over night, being covered up with cloths to keep out dirt and insects. In the morning the water is coated with a thin oily film. This is the rare attar of rose. It is skimmed off with a fine feather and dropped into vials. The process continues daily until the bushes cease to bloom. So it may well be imagined that any essence or oil that requires the distilling of 50,000 roses to fill an ounce vial has a right to have a good price set upon it.

A Rich Man.

William King a very rich London merchant, who loved life, adopted a curious scheme to lengthen the period of his declining days. He willed $1,000 to his physician, with the proviso that the sum should be doubled every year that the testator should be kept alive. The second year the sum became $2,000; the third, $4,000; the fourth, $8,000; the fifth $16,000; the sixth, $32,000; the seventh, $64,000; the eighth, $128,000; the ninth, $256,000; the tenth, $512,000. Upon the death of Mr. King, a few weeks ago, the physician was paid $750,000, between ten and eleven years having passed since the agreement.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs, none so trifling with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1867 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctor gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and an satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me."
HORACE FAIRBROTHER,
Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours, 120 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effective remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."
A. J. CHASE,
Lako Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL."
JOSEPH WALLEN,
Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles."
E. BRADDOCK,
Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

MRS. SOPHIA POTTER'S Bone Rheumatic Liniment

IT is a fact worth knowing that Mrs. Sophia Potter's Bone Rheumatic Liniment cannot be excelled for removing pain and soreness. It is no worthless trash, as some may suppose, simply because they have been imposed upon by others but is positively the "King of Pains." Sore throat cannot stand before its power.

All we ask is a trial that you may be convinced of the truth of our statement. Our experience is that one bottle tried also sells many more.

See circular for particulars and testimonials, and try a bottle—it will not fail to do all that is promised.
