LETTERS CONTINUED

Besides this, all students were aware of the length of the semester when they enrolled. It is no injustice to them if the semester was not shortened. A shortened term is an injustice, however, to the handful (present petitions say this "handful" is 100+) who have insufficient time to complete their work, are taking Saturday classes, and are doing make-up labs. A majority here is not the question.

To change the calendar dates back would do double damage, and this is not reasonable. Senate's decision must stand. Therefore, we can only hope that Senate will clean up its act and cease these unethical practices. As for the student senators, they have once again given evidence for the inability of the student to make independent and responsible decisions regarding the decline of academic standards. Hopefully, the newly elected senators will fill the intellectual void and show some individuality. (congrats on this J.P.)
Yours truly,
Peter Wentzell

A THANK YOU

Dear Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to say thank-you to everyone who supported me in the recent Student Union Election, and also to send out a special thanks to those who helped me prepare for the election.
I feel I have gained much from this experience--besides meeting a lot of new people, I have also come to realize that students do care about their Student Union. Let's all hope that their enthusiasm will carry over into the next year.
And finally, I would like to congratulate my opponents--Bob Kelly and Tom Clow--for running excellent campaigns. I hope their interest continues in the Student Union and they will be around next year to help make it a better place.
Thank-you,
Sue Parlee

BROWN BITES BACK

Dear Editor,
I was very annoyed to read in the March 13th issue of the SUN Ms. Bulger's letter on my campaign strategies. She painted a picture that portrayed me as an undermining student politician. These accusations deserve no acknowledgement because of her ignorance.
In the first place, she gave the impression that Rory Beck and myself were solely responsible for the quote "Ivan Who". Her letter was scripted in such a way that it gave little chance for any level or our court system to question the incrimination. Furthermore, I find it to be inconceivable for the author of "Rumor Hath It" to derive this label from the Colonel Gray article.
Secondly, Ms. Bulger made it more than clear that the interviewers of the CGHS column were conspirators of a scandalous election tactic. I feel an oral or written apology should be issued to Anne Marie Walling and Maureen McCabe, for Ginny's biased thoughts. If this is not to be done, than I can foresee a precedent which could destroy the initiative by other enthusiastic students in preparing future high school articles.

In conclusion, the suspicions of the SUN as being a tool of my campaign were a very absurd comment. The conception is utterly naive in substance because my reports published in the SUN were not of a selfish nature, but were a student input move. If you wish to continue this discussion Ms. Bolger, then feel free to approach me face to face, anytime.
