

head was regularly laid open, and there had been working till he dropped, the brain saying a single word or giving a groan. We bled it, and tore up one of the sheets, and tied it up; and after a bit he seemed to come to a little, but it was only to talk wildly, and throw his arms about and stare.

Latest News by Telegraph

London, 2nd Evening.
Gen. Napier arrived in this city this morning. An immense crowd was assembled at the Railway Station to witness his appearance. He was received with cheers which did not cease until he had entered his carriage and driven to his hotel.

In the House of Lords this evening a vote of thanks to General Napier and the officers and men of the Abyssinian expedition was moved by the Earl of Mansfield and seconded by Earl Russell, and was unanimously adopted. The Prince of Wales and many members of the Court were present on the occasion.

In the House of Commons all the benches were filled with members and the galleries crowded by a brilliant throng of ladies and gentlemen. A bill known as the Napier Bill was brought forward by the General entered the House he was warmly greeted by the members. The Premier, Mr. Disraeli, then moved, and Mr. Gladstone opposed the bill. The vote was taken by a large majority in favor of the bill.

The National Chamber of Commerce has confirmed the success of Milan IV. to the throne of the Principality, and has also confirmed the nomination of Milan as Emperor of the Principality. Milan made a brief speech before the Chamber in which he declared that though young he would learn to make the people happy and to bring peace and order to the city and throughout the Principality.

Paris, July 9.
In the Corps Legislatif today, M. Maignan, Minister of Finance, delivered a speech in which he reported to the attack which had been made on the Government for continuing its military preparations, and declared that armament or disarmament was really a question of peace.

London, July 9.
In the House of Lords this evening, Lord Stratheden presented a petition of the people of Nova Scotia against the Canadian Dominion, and praying Parliament to allow the petition to be considered. The boundary bill was passed in Committee.

Despatches from Shanghai have been received, which represent that the revolution in Japan had received a new phase. It was reported that a combination had been formed by twelve of the most powerful Daimios, and the Mikado, or spiritual Emperor. This new combination threatened to prolong indistinctly the restoration of tranquility to the country.

Mr. Morton Peto has passed through the Court of Bankruptcy and been discharged.

London, July 9.
In the House of Lords last night, the Boundary Bill, and the Scotch Reform Bill were passed in Committee. The Irish Reform Bill was passed in Committee.

From the latest news from Japan, it appears that the Mikado still retains supreme power. The representatives of Foreign Powers have been instructed to demand satisfaction for the murder of a British subject, and negotiations were entered upon for a continuation of the treaty in force. The Mikado expressed a wish to maintain the best terms with Foreign Nations.

London, July 9.
The Daily News has a very severe criticism upon Secretary Seward in reference to his recent despatch concerning the Fenians. Political struggles of a serious nature have developed themselves in the Queen's Government in late days, and the struggle to obtain control of the Government.

John Bright is on a visit to George Peabody at Dublin.

FROM THE STATES.
New York, July 9.
It is asserted that President Johnson will issue a general amnesty proclamation tomorrow, including Jeff. Davis and all leaders in the late rebellion.

New York, June 7.
The National convention occupied yesterday afternoon in receiving resolutions on a great variety of subjects, and listening to speeches from leading members. The committee on the platform and resolution will probably report this forenoon, at which balloting for a Presidential candidate will commence.

The National Democratic Convention this morning adopted a platform, and at 12:30 o'clock commenced balloting for candidates for the Presidential nomination, but after six ballots, adjourned without any candidate receiving the required number of votes. On the last ballot, Hancock had 116 votes and Pendleton 169.

New York, 9th.
The interest in the great Democratic Convention continues unabated. The candidates who have a great number of friends here, and the excitement is intense. The last ballot yesterday resulted as follows:—Hancock 1414, Hendricks 87, Fremont 564, Donnell 12, Hoffman 3, Chase 4, and about 10. It is impossible to say who will be the candidate, but Hancock's chances look best.

The National Democratic Convention today, on the 22nd ballot, unanimously nominated Horatio Seymour of New York, as the Democratic Candidate for President, and Charles F. Johnson of New York, as Vice President.

The greatest excitement and all-day enthusiasm prevailed both in the Convention and on the streets.

Montreal, July 9.
Great destruction to property is caused by fire, raging in the woods between Montreal and Quebec.

A NEW AND GRAND REMEDY IN MEDICINE.—Dr. Maggill is the founder of a new Medical system. The quantities, whose internal doses give relief to the stomach and paralyze the bowels, and give precedence to the mind, which restores health and appetite with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most violent cases by a box or six of his wonderful Pills. This is a new and grand remedy, and cures the most violent cases by a box or six of his wonderful Pills. This is a new and grand remedy, and cures the most violent cases by a box or six of his wonderful Pills.

There is no other medicine in the world which cures the most violent cases by a box or six of his wonderful Pills. This is a new and grand remedy, and cures the most violent cases by a box or six of his wonderful Pills. This is a new and grand remedy, and cures the most violent cases by a box or six of his wonderful Pills.

His Lordship, the Bishop of Charlottetown, said that after the eloquent and well-timed speeches of his two respected friends, very little was left for him to say. He would express the very great pleasure he experienced in witnessing the advancement of the students in their many studies, of which they had given ample proof on that occasion, and which must have been highly pleasing to the parents of the students, and the friends of the Institution generally. He hoped that the good seeds of virtue which had been sown in their breasts during the past scholastic year would bear ample fruit, and that they would prove by their general deportment that they were not unworthy sons of their Alma Mater. He would have them remember that they must not be satisfied with being great men—they must also be good men, and to be good men they must begin by being good boys. He knew that he was addressing some of the students for the last time in that capacity; but he would be always proud to hear of their future success, in whatever land or whatever sphere of life their lot may be cast. He wished them all pleasant holidays, and he hoped to see that during the vacation on which they were just entering, their conduct would be such as would do credit to themselves, their parents, and their Alma Mater.

We have received a letter from Mr. C. J. Fennell, relative to his connection with the North Star. As so much has been said about this subject, we deem it unnecessary to publish it.

MANNA IN THE DESERT.
How like Manna, refreshing and nourishing, the Holy Spirit is to the soul. The Manna in the desert, the precious blood of the Anointed One, Jesus Christ, is the only true Manna. It is the only true Manna, and it is the only true Manna. It is the only true Manna, and it is the only true Manna.

JUDSON'S MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS.
Like the Bazaar Serpent raised by Moses in the desert, they are also miraculously.

THE HERBES LOOKED.
Upon the Serpent and healed, the Gentiles and the Jews both.

IN OUR TIME TAKE THE "RESCUE OF TULA ALMANAC."
Sent by all the leading Dealers.

MR. A. H. ST. GEORGE, Proprietor of the Canadian Advertising Agency, Toronto, Ont., is our Agent for procuring American Advertisements, and is authorized also to receive Canadian Advertisements for this paper.

The Examiner.

Charlottetown, July 13, 1868.

PUBLIC EXAMINATION AT ST. DENIS COLLEGE.

The Annual Public Examination of the Students attending the above Institution took place on Wednesday last, the 8th inst., in the presence of the parents of the Students and a large number of other friends of the Institution. A new feature in the proceedings of the Examination this year was the presentation of arms by the students to His Lordship the Bishop of Charlottetown, and the Hon. Col. Gray, immediately on the arrival of those gentlemen.

The Examination brought out in bold relief the great proficiency of the students in their various classes, which included English, French, Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, History, Geography, &c. To render the proceedings more interesting, appropriate pieces of music were interspersed here and there among the classes, and the display made in this branch also, we were told by competent judges, was highly creditable to the Institution.

As soon as the examination proper was concluded, His Lordship the Chief Justice rose, and said that it afforded him great pleasure to be present on this occasion. He strongly exhorted the students to persevere in the good path on which they had so successfully entered, and he exhorted them that, if they did so, a great career of usefulness was open before them. Too much praise cannot be said to be given to His Lordship the Bishop of Charlottetown for his strenuous exertions in the cause of Education in this Island, and he was proud to see that His Lordship's efforts were appreciated, not only in this, his native land, but far beyond the limits of P. E. Island.

The Hon. Col. Gray said that it afforded him, too, great pleasure to be present on this occasion, and to listen to the very appropriate remarks made by his respected friend, the Chief Justice—remarks which, he hoped, would be stored up as precious treasures by the young gentlemen to whom they were addressed. His Lordship had four different subjects on which to congratulate them. He congratulated them in the first place, on their military training, which he had an opportunity of observing that morning, and which, he assured them, would be always beneficial to them in after life. In the second place, he would compliment them on their proficiency in the noble game of cricket, of which they had lately given many proofs. He would congratulate them in the third place on their general good conduct which, as a personal observer, he had no hesitation in pronouncing to be irreproachable. Saint Dunstan's College had been in operation for many years, but he had yet to hear the least syllable breathed against the moral deportment of its students. In this fact, he believed, coupled with the well known progress which students make in the institution, would be found an explanation of what might appear strange to casual observers—the sending of students from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario to this Establishment. If he lived at the East Point, and had a son to educate, he would, without hesitation, send him to St. Dunstan's, and he would feel perfectly satisfied that that son would be as safe in that institution as under his own roof. The fourth matter of congratulation was the great proficiency they had displayed in their various classes. This was the third occasion on which he had assisted at a public examination in this institution, and he had great pleasure in saying that he found each to be an improvement on his predecessor.

He would particularly compliment the Caesar class and the Second Junior Geography—he felt, however, that it would be invidious to particularize, especially, as all the classes had passed so satisfactory an examination. He hoped the day was not far distant, when the Institution would be acknowledged both publicly and privately; in fact, St. Dunstan's was really the only Institution of its kind which the Island could boast, for it was the only Institution in which boys were taught and boarded—the only Institution, in which boys were continually under the surveillance of their masters. Before he would sit down, he would wish to impress upon the students there present, the necessity of persevering in the course they had begun, and of keeping continually in view the great career which the future had in store for them, if they were only faithful to their duties.

We are now, he continued, four millions in British America, and before another decade we will be, in all probability, double that number—the nucleus of a great nation. A boundless field will thus in a few years be open to the young men of British America, and if the students there present wished to take a good start in the great race of life, which he was sure they did, now was the time to begin the training. All here present cannot be Bishops or Judges (laughter); some will, of course, rise higher than others, but many must rise, and who will rise, depends very much on the use that is made of the many opportunities which the students enjoy in the Institution, of advancing in every department of learning.

His Lordship, the Bishop of Charlottetown, said that after the eloquent and well-timed speeches of his two respected friends, very little was left for him to say. He would express the very great pleasure he experienced in witnessing the advancement of the students in their many studies, of which they had given ample proof on that occasion, and which must have been highly pleasing to the parents of the students, and the friends of the Institution generally. He hoped that the good seeds of virtue which had been sown in their breasts during the past scholastic year would bear ample fruit, and that they would prove by their general deportment that they were not unworthy sons of their Alma Mater. He would have them remember that they must not be satisfied with being great men—they must also be good men, and to be good men they must begin by being good boys. He knew that he was addressing some of the students for the last time in that capacity; but he would be always proud to hear of their future success, in whatever land or whatever sphere of life their lot may be cast. He wished them all pleasant holidays, and he hoped to see that during the vacation on which they were just entering, their conduct would be such as would do credit to themselves, their parents, and their Alma Mater.

We have received a letter from Mr. C. J. Fennell, relative to his connection with the North Star. As so much has been said about this subject, we deem it unnecessary to publish it.

THE ANNUAL EXAMINATION OF THE PUPILS OF THE CONVENT DE NOTRE DAME.

The annual Examination of the Convent School of Notre Dame, took place in St. Andrew's Hall on Monday the 6th inst.—The hall was tastefully decorated with evergreens and some beautiful specimens of embroidery the work of the pupils. The Scholars, of whom there were about a hundred present, dressed in white, formed a most pleasing and interesting spectacle. The room was crowded with spectators, among whom were many of the elite of the city. His Lordship the Bishop and the city clergy were present. Three pianos and a harmonium, from which sweet music was discoursed at intervals during the Examination, were upon the platform. The children of all the classes acquitted themselves admirably, eliciting frequent plaudits from the audience. At the conclusion of the examination his Lordship made the following remarks:—

My dear young friends, I congratulate you on the success you have each and all displayed this morning. I would wish to say a few impressive words to you, particularly as you are on the point of closing up your scholastic career in this term. Last winter we had the pleasure of being present and presiding at your Examination and, during February, we were also pleased to be eye-witnesses of the progress you had made in these studies. During the course of the year we have also found frequent opportunities of seeing your assiduity to your studies. In February last there were no prizes distributed, but liberal offerings were awarded to those that were successful, and notwithstanding the severity of the winter we are pleased to see that the great spirit has not been cooled, and turned into resentment. We see to day a number of crowns to be distributed to those who merit the honors. We are only too happy to be present on such occasions as these, and to have our friends around us to encourage you, my children, on in the path of science and virtue. You will return home to your parents very soon, and glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see in the month of August, and I shall be glad to see you with your presence. Your acquaintances, little sisters and brothers, will expect to see in you the practice of those lessons of virtue which you have learned during the past year. I feel you will realize to the utmost their most sanguine anticipations. Your kind parents and guardians who have seen you here, and who have seen you so well and so particularly those who have tried to impress on your minds those lessons of learning and virtue. I shall always be happy to visit your scholastic exhibitions and will likewise look with fondness to meeting you during vacation. But those who have not yet finished their course of studies, I shall expect to see