State Witnesses Tell Of Oswald Shooting

DALLAS (AP)—Jack Ruby was quoted by a police officer Wednesday as saying within a minute after he shot Lee Harvey Oswald, "I hope the son-of-a-bitch dies."
The testimony came from Dallas Police Officer J. R. Leavelle, a state witness at the trial of Ruby for his life in last week's presidential assassination.

Leavelle was the man in the crowd who was overheard when viewers saw on television at the instant Oswald was slain. The officer's left wrist was handcuffed to Oswald's right wrist.
Leavelle said the 32-year-old Ruby took about two quick steps from a crowd of spectators and fired a single bullet into Oswald's abdomen. Immediately after the shooting, Ruby was overwhelmed and driven to the floor by policemen.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?
"What are the facts as to whether he was still trying to pull the trigger?" Leavelle was asked.
"The right hand was still contracting on the gun as though he was trying to fire another shot," the witness replied.
"Asked to identify Ruby, Leavelle pointed to the defendant, a Dallas strip-tease joint operator, and said, 'That's the gen-

House Votes Not to Limit Time Occupied in Debate

By DON MACLEOD
Members of the Legislature yesterday voted 11 to 10 not to limit the time taken in private debates in the House.
The vote came while a bill in committee to give consideration to recommending anyone debating in their behalf members should be restricted. Mr. Stewart suggested that "we are here to carry out the business of the House of Commons" and thus have some time for the real business of the government or the opposition leader speaks and then go home. I don't think we should have restrictions. Premier Walter R. Shaw felt that some provision should be made to cut down the length of debates. He said, however, "there is no intent to limit the privileges of members."
Premier Shaw said he would like to see the same system followed in debates as in the House of Commons and thus have some time for the real business of the government or the OTTAWA — While plans for a tunnel to serve as part of the Strait are being considered, little does not imply that rail travel will not be carried, Heath Macquarie, MP for Queens, was told in the Commons Wednesday.

The information, supplied by Public Works Minister J.P. Deschatelets, was in response to questions posed on the Commons' order paper by Mr. Macquarie.
The Works Minister said that a reduction in cost of the crossing is one of the main considerations of the present study and new techniques seem to indicate a reduction in estimates previously made. Mr. Macquarie had specifically mentioned an estimate of $80 million compared to a former estimate of $105 million.
Mr. Deschatelets said that the combination of underwater and causeway construction has not contributed to an increase in the cost of the line contemplated for completion of the project.
He said the large scale crossing model to be constructed at Coldbrook, N.B. because all the government buildings P.E.I. available for such a project had been found unsuitable, mainly due to a lack of necessary clear floor space. Cost of the proposed model is estimated at $55,000.

Legislature Visited By Manitoba Lt.-Gov.

By NANCY WHITE
The friendly spirit of the Dominion Brier entered the Legislature yesterday afternoon in the person of Hon. Erick F. Willis, the lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, and a trustee of the Macdonald Brier Trust.
Legislative business ceased briefly as the lieutenant-governor entered the chamber.
Premier Walter Shaw, becoming the gracious host, greeted the guest with a hearty hand-clasp and a brief welcoming speech in which he paid tribute to the versatility of Mr. Willis who, during his career, had held the portfolios of agriculture, labor, and highways in the Manitoba government.
Speaker of the House John R. Maclean said that it was the first time in his experience that the lieutenant-governor of another province had visited the P.E.I. Legislature.
Alex Matheson, leader of the Opposition, noted that his province and Mr. Willis's feel especially close to one another because of provincial-level conferences and their delegates are placed side by side.
Premier Shaw then introduced each member of the assembly to Mr. Willis, who inquired at the end if there were any business in the House.
"There are some who say that're Irish, but I think they're mostly Scotch," your Honor," Mr. Shaw replied.

Grand Chief Of Micmacs Dies At 90

SYDNEY (CP)—Funeral services will be held here Saturday for Chief Gabriel Silliboy, grand chief of the 7,000 Micmacs Indians in the Atlantic Provinces. He died Tuesday night at the age of 90.
A devoted member of the N.S. Chief Silliboy was an Indian leader from earlier days and to his death served as a link with the past. He was famed as a teller of old tales.
He moved to the nearby Eskason Reserve in 1942 and was closely connected with an unsuccessful effort made 20 years ago to concentrate all Micmac people at Eskason.
A devoted member of the Roman Catholic Church, he led religious activities among Indians at earlier times when a priest was not available. He was honored with a such decoration for his devotion.
He became chief in 1918. He is survived by three sons and five daughters.

Canada Asks Cyprus For Peace-keeping Move

ANYONE HAVE GUN TO TRADE?
CINCINNATI (AP)—Anyone who has an arduous or maybe an old gun he'd like to trade? Or perhaps you're in the market to trade for or buy a male wolf, an electric eel or even a black-bellied pangolin.
If you are, Cincinnati is the place to be.
Approximately 200 members of the American Association of Zoo Parkers and Aquariums are meeting here and a major part of their business is the swapping or buying of zoo animals.
The male wolf is being offered for $50 and electric eels range in price from $35 to $125.
Fred Zechendelaar, a wild animal dealer from New Rochelle, is offering the black-bellied pangolin—an anteater relative—and he has a black-bellied one for the same price.
If the other side of the market one man is trying to make a deal for a giant red snapper, another is looking for a female okapi and a third wants a female Abyssinian blue cat.
The merchandise isn't here, of course. The deals are eight weeks away.
He then invited Mr. Willis to sit in on the session, but added apologetically that he wasn't likely to be too exciting.
"The leader of the Opposition and I have signed a pact to be kind to each other this year," he explained.

Separatist Uses Side Door As Students Mass After Talk

MONTREAL (CP)—Separatist leader Guy Paoliot of Quebec City escaped under bodyguard through a rear entrance at Sir George Williams University Wednesday as hundreds of demonstrators students awaited his exit at the front door.
The students, who had just heard Mr. Paoliot address a crowd of 600 on separatist principles, cheered loudly as a Quebec fleur-de-lis flag was torn and tossed into the street. The flag, carried by one of the students, was retrieved by police.
Mr. Paoliot, leader of the Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Québécoise, followed the lead of former Parliamentarian Marcel Chénou, forecasting possible danger to Queen Elizabeth II, should she make a scheduled visit to Quebec this fall.
"The only way out or warning," he said, "but just my own opinion as a private citizen."
"I think the Queen would very well be the victim of aggression when she comes here."
The students' protest was with the students spontaneously singing O Canada while Mr. Paoliot sat quietly on a stage.
His speech was riddled with caustic, bold and shrewd remarks. He said he would be invited to address the body in the future as part of the university's bi-cultural week activities.

Fourth Pup Mill In World Announced By Smallwood

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A proposed fourth pup mill for Newfoundland, near Goose Bay, Labrador, was the big surprise of the throne speech delivered by Lieutenant-Governor Phelan O'Dea at the opening of the 1964 Newfoundland legislature session Wednesday.
It had been expected that the Liberal government of Premier Joseph Smallwood would announce success or failure of plans to locate an announced third mill at Come By Chance, Nfld. Instead the speech said the government is "striving to learn about the start of actual construction of both proposed mills in the forthcoming year."
The speech made no mention of a government proposal to build a fourth mill on the $45,000,000 rest of the third mill project.
The projected $700,000,000 Hamilton Falls hydro electric development was a prominent item in the throne speech.
The government said that although the project is a major one, the project's 1,000,000 horsepower would be transmitted to other parts of Canada and the United States, it is "confident that the Newfoundland province never has been so content with the development of a generous proportion of the province's energy resources as it is today."
The creditives argued during the throne speech that the French C-141 jet airliner should have been chosen instead of the American DC-9.

supervision of the development of the Bay d'Espoir water resources.
The speech also included reference to a fisheries development program which was said would be watched closely in the coming years; the new fisheries policy of the United States, which is to be enlarged and expanded; the Canadian centennial celebration, through which will include a grant from the government of Newfoundland to the province of Ontario for the purchase of a new 300-bed children's hospital to be located in the former United States military hospital at Fort Pepperell in St. John's.
The minister also said he will be asked to consider a bill dealing with a universal declaration of human rights as proclaimed by the United Nations and to enact legislation affecting the Bay d'Espoir project.
