 THE season has come in which many a young man goes to the country with ten dollars' worth of fishing gear, and comes back, after a day's hard work, with half a cent's worth of trout. Nothing like combining profit with pleasure; and nobody knows as well as the ordinary amateur angler how to effect the desirable combination.
 A MONTREAL correspondent reports: "The true story of Captain Shannon of the veteran corps of the 13th, shaking hands with the Princess Louise, as told your correspondent by himself, is that he approached her, held out his hand and asked her if she would oblige him by shaking hands with an American soldier. It required a good deal of determination. He said she hesitated a moment, then held out her hand and smiled, and to use Shannon's words, "O, such a smile." He said this was the result of a promise made to his mother before he left Brooklyn.
 We are pleased to see that the Post Office authorities have adopted the suggestion of Mayor Dawson and others regarding the notice of dead letters received. To-day, a list of dead letters received at the Post Office in this City, is posted in the Post Office corridor, where it may be seen by all interested. Some of the letters are addressed to very important business men. Heretofore months would pass before a correspondent would be notified of his letter's detention.
 LAST night about 12 o'clock, four of our city police force surrounded a house of ill-fame at the west end, and attempted to enter. The inmates made a vigorous resistance by barricading every door. Sergeant McGregor and three officers fought their way into the den and succeeded in arresting James Murphy, Terrence McEntee, Daniel Carroll, and Louis Carroll. The proprietress—Ann Callaghan—attempted to escape through a window, but she was arrested and brought to the Station with the others. This morning the Stipendiary Magistrate sentenced her to five months imprisonment with hard labor for keeping brothel. McEntee and Murphy were sentenced to four months each with hard labor, for frequenting her house, and the Carrolls were sentenced to one month's hard labor for the same offence.

Among the Tombs.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir:—The Bible Christian burying ground near Vernon River Bridge is not a large one. It is neat and trim and exhibits many marble head stones. Jas. L. Hayden Esq., has a private family vault which is a credit to the man and the spot. The Rev. Mr. Metheral preached here for many years. He was an estimable christian, a good neighbor, and kind friend. He removed to West Cape some time ago where he died. But for the occupants of the tombs.

Christie McLaren, wife David Enman, died at	51
John Masters, a native of Dart, Eng.	78
Jeremiah Enman	77
Margaret Fraser, his wife, from Scotland,	77
Wm. Carr, a Collier, came here in '34,	82
Mrs. Thos. Furness, 3rd daughter of Thos. Robertson, Esq., Brighton Lodge,	67
John Furness, Westmoreland, Eng.,	92
Sarah Ross, his wife, Skye,	91

Mr. Furness was a good specimen of a plucky Englishman, and by trade a caulker. His sons are to the fore yet—"chips of the old block."

Harry and Jessie Vickerson died young. A neat marble stone marks their resting place. Mary J. Langley, wife of Rev. Mr. Matheral, and their child are also here.

John Fletcher,	38
Henry Watson Fletcher,	25

But we pass on to Uigg, where the Rev. Samuel McLeod, one of the finest specimens of a Christian teacher that we know, ministers to the spiritual wants of the Baptists of that flourishing settlement. He is hale and hearty in his 82nd year. The late Malcolm Forbes lies here. He died at

Grace Forbes, his wife,	72
Catherine Shaw,	57
Dr. McLean,	43

(His widow has placed a fine grey sandstone monument over his remains.)

Margaret McLean,	80
Angus McDonald,	76
Margaret McDonald, wife of Rev. Dr. McDonald,	32
Donald McDonald,	65
Margaret, his wife,	67
Norman McLeod, Skye, 1829,	78
Rod'd McLeod, Skye (13 years deacon),	66
Malcolm McKinnon, Skye, 1829,	69

The old folks in Pownal are not numerous. The church is neat and the burying-ground well laid off and tastefully cared for. Pownal, nestling under the brow of Gay's Hill, is one of our model villages for architectural style. We move along.

Rebecca, wife of David Smith, N. S., died at	51
Isabella, wife of J. R. Burke, Esq., (Her monument is the most conspicuous and expensive in the cemetery.)	69
Robert Enman,	67
Philip Lane, Esq.,	68
Lydia, his wife,	71
John Lane, Queen's County, Ireland,	84
Joyce Lester, his wife,	84
Margaret Sophia, wife of James Mellish, Ireland,	61
Catherine Webster, wife of John G. Lane, who with her infant child perished in the Hillsborough River, 25th Jan., 1874.	91
David Gay,	82
Mary, his wife,	82
Mary Wood,	67
Richard Noy,	65
William Sealy,	75
Edward Burke, stone erected by his son Walter,	75

Some very old people lived here in the early settlement of the Island; William Praught is living at 84, and his father, a Loyalist, was said to have reached 100 years. Our pioneers were truly a hardy stock.

I am sorry I must, at present, pass by Cherry Valley, Alexandra, Southport, Burnt Hill, and Lot 48. I mislaid my notes, but will attend to all these places in due time.

The Baptist Church at the Cross Roads, Lot 48, is a comfortable but plain, unpretentious house of worship. The burying ground is well fenced and in good order. The Rev. Dr. Knox has been Bishop here for over a quarter of a century. As everybody knows the Doctor—not to his disadvantage either,—as a scholar, divine or citizen, I think I had better relegate him to his favorite rostrum.

Donald McGregor died at	66
Deacon John Dewar,	62
Charles Kennedy, Perthshire,	70
Margaret, wife of the Rev. Dr. Knox, ("Good, great and glorious." A fine headstone)	33
Donald McRae, Captain Sam's father,	83
John Boyver, Cheshire, England, (came to Island in 1785 from Rhode Island.)	67
Mary, his wife,	75
Catherine Boyver, wife of Stephen Boyver, (and also their daughter, wife of Norman McLeod, who died in Nebraska.)	69
Jane Duncaan, Perth, died 1832,	60
James Duncan, Fife, "1838,	80
John Malcolm (Sir James Malcolm's brother), drowned in Charlottetown, (A large Aberdeen granite shaft adorns these graves. The Duncaans landed at Miramichi.)	24
Neil Stewart, Perthshire, 1808,	83
Mary, his wife (emigrated same year as husband),	68
Donald Stewart,	79
Charlotte, his wife,	77
Donald McGregor,	83
Isabella, his wife,	82

I had to pass by the private graves at Vernon River.

Some old names, familiar in our early history, are recorded on the tombs at Cherry Valley. James Hayden, senr., is there; Col. John Nelson, Mr. Enman, James Morrison, James Leard, one of the earliest Loyalist settlers; Mr. Wisener and some others. Mr. Ferris, of Devon, England, and for many years employed in the Greenland fisheries, is laid in this section of the Island. He was full of information on the subject of Greenland life, its hardships, and privations. His better half is from the Arctic regions. Yours, etc., C.

Aperient Fruit Lozenges

Prepared From the Bark of the Rhamnus Frangula.

A MEDICINE which has been described, on high authority, as "the only real aperient we have"; all others usually classed under that name being drastic in their operation, and often injurious in their after effect. These Lozenges are extremely palatable, and children take them readily as a sweet meat.
