

"O Wad Some Power," Etc.

THE KHEDIVÉ AND THE HIGHLANDER.

A curious incident happened the other day in the garden of the Ghezreh palace where the Khedive is in the habit of strolling about after lunch. The garden is surrounded by the Nile and by very high walls, and is vigilantly guarded by both Highlanders and Circassians. The Khedive was walking in the shade of some palm trees unattended and dressed as an ordinary Egyptian official (Tarboush) black, clerically cut coat, tweed trousers and patent leather shoes. Nothing about him indicated his rank. Passing by a narrow gateway the Khedive noticed a tall Highlander proceeding to and fro on sentry duty. His Highness, who speaks English quite fluently, asked the sentry "How do you like Egypt?" The Highlander—a soldier of the gallant Forty-second (the black watch), who afterwards recounted to me the conversation that ensued—replied, "Got to like it pretty well, now that we are in barracks," and glad to find any one who could talk English, and not dreaming who his interlocutor was, the Scotchman continued the conversation by asking, "What sort of a berth have you got here?" The Khedive replied, "Oh, not a bad one; I am attached to the palace." The Highlander then continued, "What sort of a chap is this 'ere Khedive. He must be a rum 'un from all I hear." The Khedive, whose good nature is proverbial, asked "What do you hear about him?" The Scotch replied:—"Well, as near as I can make out, this Khedive is about the worst man of the whole lot of 'em. He ain't got no sort o' courage nor manhood about him, and as soon as we get out of this old, Arabi's beggars will make a sort of 'haggis' out of him." The conversation was at this interesting point interrupted by the appearance of the guard relief, who presented arms to the Khedive, and then revealed to the Highlander, now utterly discomfited and as red as a lobster, the fact that he had been talking to no less a personage than the successor of the Pharaohs.—N. Y. Herald.

Current Notes.

There were 59 births, 85 marriages and 46 deaths recorded in the city of Toronto last week.

Sir Henry Thompson, the great London surgeon, is a water drinker and vegetarian, and is said to be editing a vegetarian cooking book founded on an old-time treatise.

The Roman carnival is on the decline, and this year none but the rudest part of the population and a few foreigners took much interest in it. The Roman people, since they attained to self-government, have developed into a larger manhood, and are no longer capable of being amused by puppet shows.

The Duke of Newcastle is now staying in Florida, and in the spring he is going to the Western States and San Francisco. It is expected that the Duke will make Clumber park his permanent residence when he comes of age. This beautiful place has not been regularly inhabited by its owners since the death of the famous Tory Duke in 1850, the great grandfather of the present peer.

The Canada Pacific Railway Syndicate have fully resolved on the construction of a loop line eighteen miles from their South-Western branch, at Buffalo Junction, to West Lynn and Emerson. Work has been commenced on the new railway and traffic bridge, and general manager Van Horne has given assurance of the construction of suitable freight and passenger depots at West Lynn as well as at Emerson.

The Parliament of Germany has passed a law which virtually prohibits the importation of American pork. The ostensible reason is the prevalence of trichina in American hogs, but it is not unlikely that trade interests have been fully as powerful a consideration as that of the public health, as the trichina spiralis is a cosmopolitan creature, and goes for the most adjacent hog irrespective of nationality or color. An agitation against American pork was set on foot in France some years ago and resulted in similar statutory limitations as to its importation and sale. The working classes, however, to many of whom American pork was the only flesh-meat attainable, raised such an opposition that the law was materially modified. It is right that the public should be protected from unwholesome food, but if the measure has been made too sweeping in order to raise food prices it is a retrograde piece of legislation that will hardly be sanctioned by public sentiment.

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

For the cure of Leucorrhoea or White's Excessive of Menstruation, Green Sickness, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh of the Uterus or Vagina, Hysteria, Pain in the Back, or Piles, or for the purpose of invigorating and giving tone to the Generative Organs, two pills should be taken twice daily, or in very feeble conditions, one pill three times a day. To effect cures in chronic cases it will be necessary to continue the use of the remedy for some months. A reasonable trial will create sufficient confidence in the remedy to insure its being taken until a permanent cure is effected.
