Defenbaker Position
Different Than '57

By DAVE McINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—In the brief 23rd Parliament of 1957-58, in session from Oct. 14 to Feb. 1, Prime Minister Defenbaker tortured the Liberals and CCF with the charge that they dare not upset his minority government.

In the coming 25th Parliament, the show may be on the other foot, with the Liberals, New Democratic Party and Social Credit during Mr. Defenbaker's new minority government to call an election.

The Liberals, no doubt, already have been through the 1957-58 Commons record to find statements by Mr. Defenbaker which he may find embarrassing now.

As early as Nov. 19, 1957, with the 23rd Parliament barely a month old, Mr. Defenbaker said it was "hopeless" for the Commons to carry out its functions with the then "unhealthy lack of a working majority on the part of the government."

AS INTOLERABLE
On Feb. 1, 1958, the day that Mr. Defenbaker obtained dissolution of Parliament for a new election, he said the government's position as a minority administration had become "intolerable."

"No honorable member will dissent," he said, "that a situation in which a government can depend upon the support of only a minority of the members of this House is not a healthy situation or one that could be expected to continue long."

"As the House of Commons is divided today, stability in government is impossible of the achievement. . . . An immediate

LONDON (AP)—The British supreme arbiters of male fashion says Prince Philip and his brother-in-law, Lord Snowdon, have started a new style in hats.

From notes on "John Taylor, editor of Tailor and Cutter, said Thursday, 'We shall probably see more people wearing the black instead of the grey topper.'"

For the well-dressed male attention of one of the world's most elegant sporting events—the Royal Ascot races—the top hat is still the fashion.

Also de rigueur are striped trousers and a tail coat.

With hundreds of males wearing grey toppers at the second day of the 1962 Royal Ascot race meeting, Prince Philip and Lord Snowdon crossed up the field Wednesday.

They wore black toppers.

Prince Philip and Snowdon
Starting New Trend In Hats

It was such a startling development in the hat world that the London Daily Sketch devoted two pages to the haberdashery viewpoint, and showed pictures of Lord Elveden, the Marquis of Blandford and Billy Walters all decked out in grey toppers.

The paper headlined them "Grey people."

Over pictures of Philip and Snowdon, the former society photographer, Antonio Armstrong-Franks, the paper said: "The topper people."

Fashion arbiter Taylor said: "There is no right period for hat-wearing at Ascot, other than one must wear a top hat. The grey topper is the beginning of the 19th century. It steadily began to replace the old-fashioned black topper."

"It's all a matter of taste, but now that His Royal Highness

Osmping lead—king of spades
The art of falsifying is a study in itself. Most top players of false cards repeat themselves often and are well known to the experienced player, but there are many false cards that are not so well known to the everyday player.

Here is a fine example of an imaginative play that resulted in declarer's making a contract otherwise deemed to be defeat.

South was in three notrump and West led the king of spades.

It was clear to declarer that

Economics Expert Favors Showing Costs Of Credit

By EDNA BLAKELY
KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—An economist professor said Thursday he was not sure why the price of consumer credit should not be as clearly stated on a contract as is the price of bread in a supermarket.

Prof. F. Neufeld of Toronto said he was in favor of disclosing interest rates and added that he was not impressed with most reasons given for increasing control over consumer credit.

Lord Snowdon has brought back the bank, I shouldn't be surprised if they haven't started something."

Friends of Philip and Tony—neither of whom is enchanted with the new hat—said they may have switched to moulton black as a gag.

Prof. Neufeld was a member of a panel discussing legislation for consumer credit as a conference on consumer credit sponsored by the Consumers Association of Canada.

"There does not seem to appear to be anything immoral about spending beyond one's income from time to time," he said. Most consumers were capable of deciding how much they could afford to pay.

I. B. Coleman, a Montreal loan company executive, said his company was 100 per cent in favor of full disclosure "in terms that will mean something to the consumer."

Mr. Coleman said spelling out charges in dollars was the "only sensible method of informing a consumer of the extra costs of time buying."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it

CRYPTOQUOTE is a LONG FELLOW
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE MAJOR HOOPLE

East took the king, but could return nothing to prevent South from cashing nine tricks. He had no more spades to lead, even if East had had another spade to play, South would still have been solid ground because West. In that case, would have only two more spades to cash.
