SHOULD GIRLS OWN UP TO BRAINS!

Some Facts Bearing on This Important Subject Which Are New.

"I wonder if the men really like women with brains?" said the girl with the auburn hair.

"Yes; provided they have brains enough to conceal the fact that they possess any," replied the girl with the dimple in her chin, "but what made you think of that?"

"Well, you know Dick's present fad is geology, and I've been trying for months to affect an interest in it, and going about tapping rocks with that horrid hammer that always will come down on my fingers."

"Well?"

"Well, Elsie told him yesterday that she didn't know one kind of a stone from another and was sure she could never learn, and he looked down into her eyes and said not to try, that for his part he liked a girl to be womanly and clinging, not one of those mannish creatures who want to know everything."

"What a shame!"

"Wasn't it? And after the hot sun has tanned me for the rest of the summer, and after that horrid Glyddon girl had said almost within Dick's hearing that it was another kind of 'rocks' entirely that I was interested in. Did you ever know anything so horrid?"

"I never did. But men are all the same. You know we all wondered why Prof. Knowitall was so attentive to that horrid Vassar girl who used to crush us all with her knowledge?"

"Why, yes; did you find out?"

"I did. I heard her yesterday asking him how to spell 'plaisance.'"

"Well, I never, the deceitful thing! And when the rest of us were all reading up in his horrid old book and pretending that we liked them."

"It's a hard world, my dear, and the most deserving people seldom succeed. By the way, May's engagement to that rich young donkey is announced to-day. And how do you think she got him."

"Couldn't guess; do tell me."

"She saw him at a party and pretended not to know who he was; she asked Delia to tell her who that very intellectual young fellow was. Delia offered to introduce him, but May said she was afraid, he looked so grave and wise and she was such a silly little thing that he would be sure to laugh at her."

"But how did he——"

"O, Delia had no better sense than to tell him."

"Humph! Delia never did know what was good for her. Why, I once heard her tell a fat old bachelor that she fairly doted on poetry and never could learn to cook."

"You don't say so! O, Effie, did I ever tell you about the widower that was so attentive to me last summer in the mountains."

"You know you didn't—but tell me now."

"Well, it was lots of fun—you see he had been married so long that he had forgotten all about the ways of girls. Why, he would be so pleased at the stale old tricks that it quite hurt my conscience—told everybody that I had promised to teach him all about palmistry, and actually wanted his old pipe to hang up over my mirror. And the night I asked him how large the moon looked to him, I could hardly keep him from proposing before we got back to the hotel."

"But hadn't he plenty of money?"

"O, yes, and I wanted him to spend a lot more of it on me before I had to say no."

"O, was that it? Well, I must go home and rest now. Claude is coming this afternoon and he has a fancy for long walks, so I have to pretend that I have, too. O, I tell you, its hard to be amusing when you are ready to drop with fatigue."

"But why don't you pretend to sprain your ankle? Then he could sit by you and read poetry instead."

"I daren't risk it. You see, Eva is really fond of tramping and he might get into the habit of going with her, she's so ugly."

"Perhaps you're right, but I tell you it keeps one busy nowadays what with convincing the men that you have no brains, and the other girls that you have too many for them to succeed in getting ahead of you."

Will Have to Wait.

Fanny—Mamma, when I was in Central Park yesterday, I saw some boys turning somersaults. I'd like to stand on my head, too.

Mother—It is not proper for a little girl to turn somersaults.

Fanny (with a sigh)—Oh, well, I suppose I'll have to wait until I get to be a big girl.

Remedy for Lynching.

"I'm down on lynching," said the red-faced, big-voiced man on the street car. "The practice is a disgrace to this country. We have got to stop it or the best man in the nation will not be safe. Lynching is murder; nothing short of it."

"What remedy would you propose?" queried the little shriveled up interrogation point who is always around when the violent man of the red countenance exploits himself.

"Remedy? I believe in heroic measures, sir. This is an evil that we cannot trifle with. Why, sir; if there was to be a lynching bee in our beautiful City of Detroit, I would lead a party to hang the ringleaders. That, sir, is the surest and the quickest way to make lynching unpopular."

Simple Enough.

"I can hardly understand," said the gentleman from Massachusetts, "what system of ethics obtains out here, by which a man who steals is hanged, whilst a murderer is allowed to go scot free."

"Hit's jist this way," said the Arizona gentleman, "and simple enough when you look at it right. When a feller kills another one, it is jist a private affair between him and the feller he kills, and ain't no sign that he is liable to be killin' someone else. But when he starts out hoss-stealing, why, the chances is he will keep on hoss-stealing, and so we get rid of him for the good of the community."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Munro Case.

GRANLEY, Ont., Aug. 7.—The interest in the case of Mr. Munro, of which mention was made in a despatch from here last week, rapidly increases as his improvement in health progresses. As a wise man should do, Mr. Munro did not say anything about his trial of Dodd's kidney pills for the dropsy which afflicted him, until he had found that good would result from their use. Now that he has satisfied himself and others of this beyond the shadow of a doubt, he is loud in his praises of the remedy. In answer to the enquiries that have poured in upon him about his health, Mr. Munro answers: "I am better than I have been for three years, and the credit is due to Dodd's kidney pills." His case and others prove that these pills are, by all odds, the most wonderful remedy of the age.

A SPLENDID RECORD.

A Provincial Industry Trebles its Business in the Last Three Months.

Some three months ago this journal informed its readers that a new provincial industry, that of the Hawker Medicine Company, of St. John, had completed its first qurrter's business, and that itss book showed a development of trade and a record of sales that was not only gratifying but really astonishing.

Another three months has now elapsed and the company have balanced their accounts for the six months. The results show that in the last three months they have trebled the business of the first three: they have about doubled their working staff and work has been carried on in the packers room till 11 o'clock every night in order to fill orders promptly. From all parts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, from Newfoundland and parts of the United States, the orders have rolled in. The business is now firmly established. The experimental stage is past: repeat orders come in constantly, showing that where once the remedies are introduced, they win permanent favors with the people, who know as soon as they have given any of them a trial that these standard remedies are all that they are claimed to be. Indeed, this last might readily be assumed without a trial, and judging solely from the character of the gentlemen who form the Hawker Medicine Co., as they are numbered among the leading citizens and most honorable and successful business men of St. John.

The Hawker Medicine company are now patenting their remedies in Great Britain and will presently extend their operations there, as well as more extensively to the United States. About the middle of this month Thomas Rankine, who so successfully introduced the Hawker remedies in Newfoundland last spring, will start and traverse the western part of Canada, from Montreal to Vancouver in the interests of the company. With such a record as that of their first six months now closed, the Hawker Medicine Co. are evidently destined to achieve a great success. They control standard remedies, which have received the endorsation of leading physicians in Canada and the United States, as well as the fervent praise of sorely afflicted people who have by their means been restored to health.

Their place of business is at 104 Prince William Street, St. John, N. B., where they have the most extensive and elaborately fitted up premises of the kind in the Lower Provinces. William Hawker, the original inventor of the remedies, has been a druggist in St. John for 30 years, and had long proved the value of the different remedies before the present company was organized. It is with pleasure that this journal records the company's wonderful success.

Worse Than Dynamite.

Hardly a month passes but we read of terrible explosions and loss of life from natural gas.

One writer has raked up Chinese history wherein it appears that away back in the time when the famous Chinese wall was building, before the use of gas wells was discovered, a terrible explosion took place.

The big wells in some way got the start of the little ones, so that enormous volumes of air were sucked down into those subterranean magazines. When the air reached certain proportions the whole thing went off like a leaky gasoline stove. The result was horrible in the destruction of lives. The same writer predicts similar conditions underlying the great natural gas belt of this country, from Toledo, through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, whereby that whole vast region might be ripped up to the depth of 1,500 feet, leaving a chasm for the waters of the great lakes to pour down into, blotting out every living human in this now densely populated valley from the face of the earth. That writer might easily have shown further that throughout our whole country, not only in densely populated regions and cities, but in country and village houses as well, natural gases far more dangerous than is found in the lake regions, are carrying off not only "pig-tail" Chinamen, but our own families and friends during the hot waves of July and August.

Scores of people are dying daily from typhoid fever, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera-morbus, and infant summer complaints; all caused by poisonous gases and ferments, far worse than hydrogen gas or dynamite in their explosions. Fortunately this latter danger can all be averted by the use of a simple old fashioned remedy, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, used internally, as explained in a pamphlet sent free to anyone by I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass. No matter if you have used this remedy before, it will pay you to get a bottle and read the directions, or send for the pamphlet just to learn how to use it economically.

D. Waters, Campbellford, Ont., says that the Peterboro Medicine Co. (Limited) are at liberty to use his name in the interest of all who may be suffering as he was before he used Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure.

New York.

Mr. George Edgett, writing from New York for a half dozen bottles of Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic, said he had tried one bottle and it was just what he wanted to tone up his nervous system and build him up. It had been recommended to him by a friend in New York. If you are run down or nervous, try this valuable restorative tonic, it will build you up.

Tourists,

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of sickness. For sale in 75 cent bottles by all leading druggists.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ar

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Edison, F. Hopkinson Smith, H. H. Boyesen, Alphonse Daudet, Camille Flammarion, Edward Everett Hale, Professor Graham Bell and many others, have furnished material for especially prepared interviews, which will appear fully illustrated in this magazine.

HENRY M. STANLEY will contribute, especially for young readers, a story of AFRICAN ADVENTURE.

NATURAL HISTORY AND ADVENTURE.—There will be several articles written by Raymond Blathwayt, who has been called by Mr. W. T. Stead the best interviewer in England, from material furnished him by Carl Hagenbeck, of Hamburg, the great animal importer and trainer. These articles deal with the Capture of Wild Beasts, the Training of Wild Beasts, the Transportation of Wild Beasts, the Adventures and Escapes of Carl Hagenbeck. The series will be illustrated by an English artist of great skill in drawing animals.

JOHN BURROUGHS, C. F. HOLDER, DR. C. C. ABBOTT, and other writers famous for their work in this field, will contribute to the Magazine.

Of interest to both Young and Old will be PROF. R. L. GARNER'S AFRICAN EXPEDITION TO THE GORILLAS. Arrangements have been made, in connection with a leading English review, to publish Professor Garner's letters descriptive of his present expedition to Africa. Professor Garner is noted the world over for the curious and interesting investigations he is making in the speech of monkeys. He sailed for Africa last September for the purpose of further pursuing his studies in the native haunts of the gorilla. The illustrations of these articles will be from photographs taken by Prof. Garner in Africa.

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE also contains most interesting articles under the heads: The Edge of the Future," "Newest Knowledge," "Knowledge of Immediate Value," The Present Hour," "Stranger than Fiction," etc.

Parties using the telephone would find talking much more satisfactory if they would observe the following rules:—

1st. Speak with the mouth about four inches from the transmitter.

2nd. Speak in a moderate tone of voice, not too loud, and distinctly.

3rd. Place the telephone so as to cover the ear just as if you wished to shut out all other sounds. Do not press too hard on the ear.

It is possible to talk and be heard when standing back two or three feet from the transmitter, if you shout loud enough, but it is not a pleasant mode of conversation, is entirely unnecessary, and is a useless waste of wind and lungs, besides being very annoying to all within range of your voice.
