Commission Criticizes Gas Shares Purchase

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

QUEBEC (CP) — A Quebec royal commission recommended legislation to prevent legislature members and civil servants from using their position for private gain.

The recommendation followed a lengthy inquiry into the sale in 1957 of Quebec-Hydro's gas distribution network in Montreal to a private company for $37,000,000.

The royal commission "unreservedly and severely" condemned the purchase of units of four shares and one debenture in the network's buyer, Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, by members of the Union Nationale cabinet, members of the legislature, senior civil servants and their entourage.

In all, 73 such persons were listed among buyers of the united priced at $140. These persons made a profit of $35 a unit the day they were delivered "without risk of loss." The total profit was $119,420.

The report, released Wednesday by Premier Jean Lesage, recommended no legal action against the legislators or the civil servants.

A senior law officer of the provincial government said there was no law specifically prohibiting legislature members and civil servants from buying the shares.

However, the report said that in the case of the Quebec-Hydro Act, the Hydro commission's members are prohibited from acquiring an interest in a company competing with Quebec-Hydro.

The report listed seven Hydro officers or members who bought shares in Quebec Natural Gas.

Mr. Lesage told reporters that the report will be sent to the government's legal officers for study, but declined to say anything further.

Referring to the legal prohibition against Hydro commission members buying shares in a competitor, the report said it is a sound principle which, by amendment, should apply to senior officers of the commission.

The report was signed by Mr. Justice Elie Salvas of Sorel, Que., a member of Quebec Superior Court Howard Irwin Ross of Montreal, a chartered accountant, and Jean - Marie Guerard of Quebec City, a lawyer.

MORE UPCOMING

The commission also is preparing a report on the second phase of its inquiry that began in October, 1960. This report, scheduled to be presented to the government next October, will deal with purchasing practices under the former Union Nationale government.

The top government figures condemned for buying Quebec Natural Gas shares were (number of units in brackets):

The late Onesime Gagnon, then finance minister and later lieutenant-governor of the province, (130); former premier Antonio Barrette (125); the late Paul Sauve, former premier, (150); legislative councillor Gerald Martineau, then Union Nationale party treasurer, (250); Edouard Asselin, Union Nationale government leader in the legislative council and chairman of the board of Quebec Natural Gas, (100); Daniel Johnson, then member of the legislative assembly and now Union Nationale leader (150).

Cuban Premier Castro Admits To Opposition

By GEORGE ARFELD

HAVANA (AP) — Recent statements by Cuban Premier Castro and other government officials have acknowledged opposition to his regime through sabotage and shooting.

A number of militiamen and soldiers have fallen to counter-revolutionary bullets in the last few weeks. For the first time since the advent of the revolution, army troops on sentry duty are wearing steel helmets.

Saboteurs have struck at cotergent plants and sugar cane fields, and also at places much closer to the consumer's comfort. Interior Trade Minister Luzardo has revealed one laundry establishment received 1,000 complaints in one month. Rebellious bus drivers were charged with stripping the gears of new Czech - made buses.

Discontent caused by an uneven rationing of food brought demonstrations in several provincial towns and the outskirts of Havana.

A daily newspaper, Revolucion, closely identified with Castro's personal tastes, recently devoted entire front pages to the "maximum leader's" ascent of the Sierra Maestra Mountains.

Castro took several days off from his Havana schedule and returned to his old centre of operations, the area where he harassed the forces of dictator Fulgencio Batista into defeat. Revolucion played it up in full style. "Fidel returns to the hill," the headlines said.

In the hills Castro found many of the same irregularities that are plaguing his three-year-old revolution. Revolucion told of peasants complaining about a lack of vaccines for their hogs, irregular supplies of clothing and footwear, and teachers and sanitary workers who showed up only twice or three times a week.

This, and more, was taking place in Castro's own home province.

Castro's discovery of irregularities caused one magazine writer to ask: "Is it possible that it has to be Fidel who fixes everything?"

Despite his familiar Marxist utterings a number of observers affirm Castro is in the process of shedding old Communists for his revolutionary cadres. They claim large numbers of them, formerly ensconced in different key positions, have been replaced by younger, "more fidelista" followers.

The process started four months ago. In the interim none of the leading Communists has made a published speech on ideological topics.

WOODSTOCK

Mr. Hubert Arsenault, his brother Damus Arsenault and a grandson, spent a few days recently with their brother Fidele and Mrs. Arsenault at Woodstock. They motored to the province from Providence, RI.

Mr. Arthur Arsenault, Mrs. Arsenault and their son, Rev. Raymond Arsenault of Woonsocket, Mass., were visitors at the home of their uncle, Fidele Arsenault and Mrs. Arsenault on August 1.

A shower was held in St. Luke's Hall on Aug. 1 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, who were recently married. The young couple received many beautiful gifts.

Rev. J. Clarence Pitre motored to Moncton on July 30 to visit his sister, who resides in that city.

Opening lead—three of clubs.

You need a pretty good sense of what's going on when you're a defender, or you may discover too late that you've been had.

Look at this hand, which features exceptionally good play by both sides. It occurred in a team match in France. At the first table, West (Henri Szwarc) led a club. East took it with the ace and, following standard procedure, returned the four, his original fourth best.

Declarer went up with the king, cashed the ace of diamonds, and then played the jack of clubs!

West took the jack with the queen and returned the queen of diamonds!

As a result of this last play, South had to go down one. But if Szwarc had made the mistake of cashing his clubs instead of returning the diamond, South would have made the contract. Declarer would have disposed of the ten of diamonds on the fourth lead of clubs and would then have been in position to cash dummy's diamonds.

Once Szwarc returned the diamond, declarer was dead. He could not afford to duck the queen, because West would then cash his clubs to defeat the contract.

And when, in the actual case, he took the queen with the king, the diamond suit became blocked so that it could not be run. South did as well as he could at this point by leading the queen of hearts and taking a finesse, but West turned up with the king and took his clubs to nip the contract by an eyelash.

Obviously, Szwarc viewed the jack of clubs lead as a Greek gift. He was smart enough to realize that a block situation in diamonds existed, and he therefore refused to cooperate with South by cashing his clubs.

Strangely enough, the hand turned out to be a draw. At the second table Szwarc's teammates bid six diamonds and also went down one, losing a heart and a club.

Apparently, much ado about nothing!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
