Triumphs over the Worst Forms of KIDNEY... DISEASE

The wonderful success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills adds to the fame of the great doctor whose name is familiar in almost every home as the author of the world famous Recipe Book.

Scores and thousands of grateful men and women have been rescued from the miseries and dangers of kidney disease by this greatest of all kidney cures.

Mr. D. C. Simmons, Mabes, Ont., writes: "My kidneys and back were so bad I was unable to work or sleep. My urine had sediment like brick dust. I was compelled to get up four or five times during the night. I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and concluded to give them a trial. I have only used one box and am completely cured. I was a great sufferer for 18 years, but my kidneys do not bother me now. I enjoy good rest and sleep and consider Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a boon to suffering humanity."

For Business Men

Getting Along Without Him.

"Shon," as he was called by the good natured German, for whom he worked, had been advanced from cash boy to head clerk, and since his promotion had several times asked for an increase of salary, which was invariably granted. At last he again appeared at the old merchant's desk with another request for an increase, but as business was somewhat dull, and the German thought "Shon" was receiving all he deserved, he engaged him in the following conversation:

"Shon, I think I bays you putty vell alretty, vat for I bays you any more?"

"Shon" replied confidently, "I am your principal assistant, and know every detail of your business, and the truth of the matter is you could not get along without me." Replied the German, "Is dot so? Vy "Shon," vat I do suppose you die?" and "Shon" replied, "suppose you would have to get along without me."

The old German good-naturedly took several whiffs from his big pipe, and finally said, Vell "Shon," I guess you petter consider yourself dead."—Business.

Booms When it is Boomed.

Business booms when it is skillfully boomed, and seldom does take on a great spurt unless something is done to push it, remarks an exchange. The best way to push a business is by advertising it, and good business men agree that the most effective advertising is newspaper publicity. It costs more than some other kind of publicity for the first outlay, but when the results are taken into consideration the cost is seen to be very small indeed. Newspaper publicity should be made use of in the way to produce the most beneficial effect, and this in itself demands no little skill, either the result of personal experience or that of others.—Press and Printer.

The Address.

No printed matter intended to draw trade should ever be sent out without the address on it. Even circulars and booklets for local distribution ought to show the names of town and state as well as the firm name, and then there will be no possible chance of a misunderstanding.—Profitable Advertising.

Slovenliness.

An exchange says: The habit of leaving things about on the counters is too common. It is slovenly; if it has to be done, however, let it be at some back counter, where customers do not come. It is bad taste to have customers wait until you can clear a few inches of the counter to place the articles upon which you wish to show them. No; have plenty of serving room; insist upon it. Keep the counters well dusted down, and not littered up with a consignment of goods waiting to be marked off, or a wholesale order being executed for a country smith or builder. The customer who is attracted by your neat and clean window display is likely to be the very one who will be the first to notice the uncleanness and slovenliness of your counters, and also the general appearance of the interior of your shop.

It is so.

where they are led or driven. They like to be told exactly what to do and when to do it. The ad that makes a clear, straight, definite proposition or statement about something in particular is the one that makes the best and deepest impression.—Bates.

The question as to whether advertising increases the cost of goods to the consumer is on an exact parallel with the question as to whether the substitution of steam vessels for sailing ships has increased the cost of carrying, or the substitution of the railroad for the stage coach has increased the cost of traveling.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

The proper kind of advertising, the kind that is culminative, requires time. When the results do come, they don't come with a rush. The growth is of the substantial, healthy kind.—C. V. White.

The primary purpose of retail advertising is to sell specific goods; the secondary purpose is to make specific goods advertise the whole business. When the work is well done both results follow the single effort.—R. C. Ogden.

Advertising is one of the legitimate necessary expenses of business, and must be met the same as insurance, taxes or the payment of salaries.—R. Van Zandt.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED

And is Being Permanently Cured Daily by Clarke's Kola Compound—Here is What a Hamilton Lady Says:

Mrs. Gilbert, 105 Rebecca street, Hamilton, writes: "I suffered from a bad form of asthma for over nine years, and, notwithstanding all the doctors could do for me, got worse and worse, so that my neighbors looked for my death at any time. I spent money lavishly in the efforts to get relief, but all to no purpose. For six weeks at a time I could not get up or down stairs, and was in a miserable condition. My daughter, who clerks in a drug store, had heard a good deal of Clarke's Kola Compound, and urged me to try it as a last resort. I paid $2 for a bottle, but that is nothing. For it is worth more than that for every teaspoonful. Two doses gave me splendid relief, and, after using but one bottle, I am a marvel to all who know me. I am doing my own work, can get around as well as ever, and feel like a new creature. Clarke's Kola Compound has been a Godsend to me, and I look upon it as a marvelous remedy. You may use this testimony as you see fit, and I shall be glad to give fuller particulars to any one inquiring. I gratefully endorse Clarke's Kola Compound."
