To her who most has felt the cruel blow,
The State has ministered with liberal hand,
And, though they cannot heal her widowed woe,
All earthly aids have placed at her command.

How poor McGee, in path of duty fell,
Their annals sadly shall record the stroke;
But proudly therewith may they also tell
What public virtue his sad fate awoke.

Of him, no memory sought they to retain,
But such as added lustre to his name,
And carefully erased was every stain
Which blurred the record of his youthful fame.

But shame! oh, shame! when here poor Whelan died,
They who had long upon his life blood fed,
And fattened on his brains, heartless, denied
His widow's and his orphan's claims for bread!

Forgotten slanders on his name revived,
The records of his services withdrew,
And e'en his virtues basely they contrived
As faults to picture to the public view.

But ere this shame shall stain historic page,
Just retribution shall these men o'ertake,
The blinded people, stung to righteous rage,
From their bowed necks, the hated yoke shall break.

Strong in the knowledge of their rights withheld
Determined, too, that knowledge to assert
Shams shall no more their minds in bondage hold,
Nor idle fears from honor's course divert.

True Liberty shall yet o'er all prevail,
All, all, in heart and conscience yet be free!
All, all, with Christian love each other hail,
And creeds diverse destroy not amity.

Our schools not beds of Heathenesse shall be,
But under equal and appointed rule,
In faith, discipline, and in doctrine free,
Shall each, in all things, be a Christian school.

Hark to the mutterings of the coming storm!
Soon shall it sweep with conquering powers along,
State, Courts of Law, and all misrule reform,
Dashing to earth each devotee of wrong.

No longer bold contemners of the law,
And men, for gain, who yield them sovereign sway,
Shall hold the weak, by their vile threats, in awe,
Or glory in misdeeds in light of day.

But men of honor, talent, truth—and skill
To give th'o'erburthened and the weary rest,
To culture good, and check the growth of ill,
Shall rule the land, and in their rule be blest.

The just, translated to the heavenly sphere,
And freed from every ill which mortals know,
Still—so we fondly trust—have treasures here,
And fondly gaze on those they loved below.

And thou, dear Whelan, shalt ere long look down,
See here the freedom by thee dearly prized;
See full fruition all our labours crown,
And More's Utopia almost realized.

Shalt see thy services at length repaid
By generous care of thy bereaved ones here;
Thy every wish for them almost obeyed,
And all surround them that their hearts can cheer

In Heaven, thy soul with increased bliss shall glow
Thy dear ones happy lot on earth to see;
And greater still their happiness, to know
That, e'en though thou art gone, 'tis still derived through thee.

OBITUARY.

Died, at Souris, on the 29th ult., after a long and painful illness, in the 75th year of age, Jean, wife of Alexander Leslie, Esqr. Deceased was born at Nettley Camps, England and was the eldest daughter of Quartermaster John Stephens, of the 90th Regt., Perthshire Volunteer Light Infantry. She was with the expedition under Sir Ralph Abercombie, that sailed from Malta for Aboukir Bay, Egypt, and recollected of witnessing, from the vessels deck, the landing of the British forces, and the defeat of the French Army. Although then very young, she had a vivid recollection of the scene on board the ships during the battle. The wounded were brought off in boats, their groans and outeries and the lamentations of the women impressed her deeply. She followed the British Army during its subsequent operations against the enemy. She could relate several incidents she noticed during the campaign. She used to tell of a friendly meeting between some French troops and our soldiers, on passing up the Nile; of the picturesque and martial appearance of the Mamelukes; of the sorrow expressed by the soldiers for the loss of their brave commander, at the battle of Alexandria; of the march of the troops over the desert, where the women and children were carried on camals backs. She said the heat of the sands was insufferable to the naked feet. One morning she was rejoiced to see the white tops of the pyramids, which in the distance, she thought was the British tents, and felt much disappointed on arriving in the evening at the foot of these vast structures. Her mother died at the town of Rosetta, and her father entusted her and her sisters to the care of his faithful Turkish servant, whose two wives were very kind to them. The way in which the Turks used to take their meals was, at first, a source of wonder to her. They would squat down and take their victuals with their fingers, never using knife or fork. After the surrender of the French, she and her sisters were sent to Giberalter, and afterwards to England. Her father went with his regiment to the West Indies, where he died. She came to this Island with her husband and family in 1833. She was the mother of eleven children, and lived to see eight of her sons grow up to manhood; and carefully reared the only son of one of her daughters after his mothers death. She was an honest, industrious, virtuous women. "Even her failings leaned to virtues' side."—Com

Shipping Intelligence.

In the gale of Tuesday night, the barque Royal Alfred, which dropped down into Three Tides during the day, dragged her anchors, and struck, bow on, on the edge of the flats on the east side of the North Point. When the tide rose next day she swung clear without the slightest injury.

In working out the harbor on Wednesday, the schr. Model grounded on the edge of the channel, below Rose Bank. The Heather Belle tried to take her off on Thursday, but did not succeed. On Thursday night the drift ice drove her up on the flats, far her to the eastward.

The ship Helen Malcolm, belonging to J. Duncan & Co., and loaded with oats for England, by J. S. Carvell Esq., is ashore on the beach on the west side of Crapaud Harbour.

The barque Constance,—caught in the ice on the south side of the channel, opposite Pope's wharf,—and the ship Duncan, both belonging to J. Duncan & Co., were towed out the harbor yesterday. The Comrade, and three other schooners were taken out of port in a similar manner.

W. Sim Shirras, Esq., was passenger in the Duncan.

The Brigt. Annandale, belonging to Capt. T. Foley, of this city, is frozen in at Southport wharf, where she was loading with produce for Newfoundland. Should the frost and wind abate, she may yet be got out.

THE CELEBRATED COMMON SENSE
FAMILY SEWING MACHINES
Improved and Perfected!

Acknowledged to be the best cheap Family Sewing Machine in the United States.

MANUFACTURED BY A. F. JOHNSTON & Co., BOSTON, MASS.

For Elegance of Finish it has no Rival, high Price or low.

THE Celebrated Common Sense Family Machine is now before the public, with all the improvements that can well be combined in a Sewing Machine. Great labor and pains have been bestowed to bring this machine into the very highest circle in the scale of Sewing Machines. It is acknowledged by the best judges to stand entirely ABOVE AND BEYOND any cheap machine ever produced before. It will sew anything that can be sewed on any high priced Machine in the land, just as nicely and just as rapidly. It will sew from Swiss Muslin up to Beaver Cloth, at the rate of twelve hundred stitches per minute.

Our Machine has a new style of feeding apparatus, which makes the Machine Self-Guiding. The cloth, without the aid of either hand, will run nearly as true as when guided by Barnum's SELF SEWER. This is an advantage not possessed by any other Machine in the world, high price or low. This is one reason why this Machine is so easily managed by children. A girl with one hand can use it more successfully than she could ordinary Machines with two hands.

This Machine will Stitch, Hem, Fell, Tuck, Quilt, Cord, Bind, Braid, and Embroider in a most superior manner.

EVERY MACHINE WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS!

You can cut every second stitch of this sewing and then we will give you a Machine if you can pull the cloth apart without tearing it. It is useless to multiply words, our Machine needs only to be seen to be appreciated.

Flattering Testimonial from the New York Tribune:

The Common Sense Sewing Machine. This is the name of a new candidate for public favor. We have had Sewing Machines many. Some costing enormously, and some costing as little as the "Common Sense Machine," but they have most of them passed away because of faulty construction. But few of the higher priced machines retain the confidence of the public. It was the good fortune of the inventor of this machine to combine excellence of construction and excellence of performance with extraordinary cheapness (only twenty dollars), and just the result that might have been expected has been attained. These sewing machines sell rapidly. They give abundant satisfaction. They are acknowledged to stand entirely ahead of any cheap machine ever invented. The thread is laid evenly upon the fabric, and the work holds firmly.—TRIBUNE.

No household complete without our "Great Labor Saving Machine."
