United Nations as his topic. He told how the United Nations was formed after the League of Nations at the end of the Second World War. While the United Nations is criticized in the press and on the air for moving too slowly in the cause of world peace, the ideas and principles of the United Nations are coming into effect.
Dr. Shaw noted, how only a few years ago people in the same community couldn't get along with one another let alone one community with the other. It is impossible for countries to get along with one another if small communities and provinces or districts have not learned how. We must learn the art of living together and of doing our duty as we should.
