

Is the baby too thin? Does he increase too slowly in weight? Are you in constant fear he will be ill? Then give him more flesh. Give him more power to resist disease. He certainly needs a fat-forming food. Scott's Emulsion is just that food. It will make the baby plump; increase the weight; bring color to the cheeks, and prosperity to the whole body. Thin children take to it as naturally as they do to their milk.

The Transvaal War

An American Opinion.

Since the death of Mr. Chas. A. Dana, the brilliant editor of The Louisville Courier-Journal. Henry Watter-son, is the father and patriarch among American journalists. This is how he treats the war in South Africa: "Whether in the frigid zone or in the tropics, the English Government has adapted itself to the wants and even the foibles of the people, and made them feel the inestimable value of the British birthright. What it once was to be a Roman citizen it is to be a British subject in the nineteenth century. The feeling that the majesty and power of England are extended over every one of her hundreds of millions of subjects, and the assurance thus given them of all the rights and privileges of life, are things that Americans who have been in the habit of looking upon themselves as a little better than Britons have not thoroughly realized. It is fully understood elsewhere, as is shown by the enthusiasm with which the colonists are hastening to help their Titanic mother strike down the puny forces of the Boers. The lesson is an impressive one. It teaches not only that the Boers must inevitably be overcome, but that it will be infinitely better for them as well as for the remainder of South Africa. Civilization has a great deal of work to do in the Dark Continent, and the best workers should do it. The English stand head and shoulders as colonizers above Germans, French and Portuguese, who divide the territory with her. Under them not only the natives will receive the largest possible liberty, but the Dutch themselves will feel the quickening influence of a higher and better civilization. The Boers may be conquered, but they will still be permitted to rule themselves, though they will not be allowed to rule other people. Their unprogressive, wasteful, tyrannical and corrupt government will give way to an enlightenment that will lift them into a higher plane of life. They are fighting now against their better destiny, but it is not conceivable that they will fight long, and it is to be hoped they will not."

General Buller's Plans.

"You can trust General Buller," said one of his warmest friends, "to choose his own time and field of operations. He is not the man to allow the Boers to fight where they will have strong defensive positions in the mountain passes. He will not be drawn away from the open country, where the British troops will be free to operate in their own way with irresistible force." A similar view was expressed by a prominent department chief, who spoke of the necessity of overrunning both republics before the Dutch population could be impressed with the hopelessness of the struggle, and induced to surrender unconditionally. General Buller's march through Bloomfontein to Pretoria, he added, would be the strongest safeguard for the permanent peace of South Africa, and General Buller would be nothing if not thorough in the plan of campaign.

A despatch from Mafeking describes Gen. Cronje's great attack of Monday, the details of which have already been cabled from Col. Baden-Powell's own despatches. "The end came," says the correspondent, after five hours' fighting. The enemy retired, being heavily beaten for all time so far as Mafeking is concerned. It was the hottest day of the siege, and the firing was terrific, the Boers evidently recognizing that the way into Mafeking, if any, is by a kopje which was gallantly defended by Col. Walford's men. The garrison is jubilant, while the Boers have been hurled back in disorder on their laager, and will have to content themselves with a long range bombardment unless they are strongly reinforced. The enemy lost heavily. Four hours after their fighting line had been roled back two wagons went slowly along their position picking up the dead and wounded. The kopje resembled a shambles after the fight. All the men were killed by bullets or shells. The look-out tower was shot to pieces, while even the saddles of the horses were fearfully battered. The whole place was simply smashed up by the concentrated fire of seven guns and a thousand rifles. The Boers at first held on their advance pluckily, but they could not live when they came to short range, the men being shot down at 300 yards. The enemy is expected to draw off early in order to defend Pretoria. There is still no news from the south. As I send this message off, six hundred Boers have gone south with wagons, and have commenced shelling."

The Boers, even when in superior numbers, do not attack the British in the open "Not their style of fighting," their sympathisers say. Nobody grudges the Boers just praise for their splendid fighting in their own style. But British soldiers are good in any style.

Suffering caused by Piles

Quickly Ended when

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is applied

Besides the intense agony caused by the itching, burning sensations of piles, there are other symptoms which produce restlessness and at times excruciating pains known only to the victim of piles.

What would one give to be free of this terrible disease? And yet there is a cure—a positive cure—which does not cost much and is not painful or difficult to apply.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is so far as is known, the only absolute cure for blind, itching, bleeding and protruding piles. It gives relief at the first application and affords a perfect cure in the most aggravated cases.

Mr. Isaac Foster, Erieview, Ont., says: "I was troubled with itching piles for two years and could not sleep at night. I was half-crazed and tried everything. Finally seeing Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised I tried it and found it good. After a second application I found relief, and one large box cured me. Have never been bothered since, and I can recommend it to all suffering from the same trouble."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is for sale by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto

Startling Confessions

Show that 25 per cent. of men and women suffer the tortures of itching piles. Investigation proves that Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment has never yet failed to cure itching piles, and all of these men and women could end their sufferings at once by using it. Scores of thousands have been cured by this treatment. Everybody can be cured in the same way.
