

MacKinnon-Hogan Wedding

St. Martins Church, Cumberland, a picturesque stone church amid green fields, and overlooking the blue waters of Hillsborough Bay was the setting for the first wedding in more than forty years when on the morning of July 1st the Rev. A. McLellan C.S.S.R. united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mary Pauline, daughter of the late Frank Hogan and Mrs. Jas. Dowling to Paul Joseph MacKinnon of the R.C.A.F., Moncton, N.B.

Miss Mae Murphy supplied the wedding music as the bridal party assembled and during the ceremony beautiful sacred hymns were sung by sisters from St. Joseph's Convent. The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother Phillip (lately returned from Korea) was charmingly attired in a floor length gown of white Italian lace over satin, the bodice in neat fitting design with long sleeves pointed over the hands and the neck line encircled with rhinestones and pearls. Her finger tip veil of French illusion fell gracefully from a halo held in place with rhinestones and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Talsman roses. Her bridesmaid, her sister Marina, wore a gown of pink nylon with matching headress and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. She wore a string of pearls, a gift from her brother from Korea. The groom was supported by his cousin, Kenneth MacKinnon, Moncton.

The bride's mother chose a gown of blue and white printed crepe faille with matching accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses. The church was tastefully decorated with summer flowers while the guest pews were marked by rosettes of blue and white flowers and white streamers. The ushers were Messrs. Thos. Murphy and William Quilty.

After the ceremony a reception for eighty five guests was held at the home of the bride. Pink and white streamers decorated the dining room while the bridal table, very attractive, was centered by a beautiful three tier wedding cake, surmounted by a miniature bridal couple. Flanking the cake on either side were tall vases of pink and white peonies. The cake was cut in the traditional manner. The toast to the bride was proposed by the officiating clergyman Rev. A. McLellan and responded to in a few well chosen words by the groom. Complimentary and humorous remarks were made by Mr. Clowater, Moncton, Mr. Phillip Hogan and Mr. John MacKinnon brothers of the bride and groom. Later the newly weds left by car to visit places of interest in the Maritimes and Eastern United States.

The young couple are taking up residence in Moncton where the groom is attached to No. 5 Supply Depot R.C.A.F. The bride until recently was on the staff of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Moncton. The gifts were

A minor U.S. revolution occurred at Lapeer, Mich., when the sheriff was ordered to evict widowed Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, mother of nine children, from her home. Refusing to pay costs arising from a court judgment, she rallied dozens of friends from the neighborhood who resisted with clubs and fists first, efforts to evict her. Reinforced, the sheriff's forces returned and, as shown, carried Mrs. Stevens from the property. Later, her liens were paid by a philanthropic organization and she returned to her farm.

school in the tenth grade because of illness. Now I can't seem to find any friends. I am 20 years old and don't want people to feel sorry for me, but it does make me lonely to stay home all the time because of my hearing.

ANSWER: You are by no means in a hopeless predicament. Hearing aids are so efficient today, and so inconspicuous that they can be worn almost without detection. My strongest suggestion would be to get one, then make an attempt to further your education, though you write a beautiful letter for a girl who didn't finish high school.

If you would like to work on a worthwhile project, contact your local home or school for the deaf, where your experience as a hard-of-hearing person would equip you admirably to help others with even less hearing. It would also help you to make a place for yourself in the world. Poor hearing need no longer cut people off from society as it once did.

DEAR MISS DIX: I want to join the WAC but have no idea how to go about it. Can you give me the information? ROSE K.

ANSWER: The Army Recruiting Station in the city nearest you will give you complete information on joining the service and will be very glad to help you.
