Emergency Meeting Held Following Vault Break

Strong measures were taken by the City Council last evening to ensure that the day's receipts will not be reported missing again.

At a special meeting last night Mayor Johnstone ordered that a police constable be placed on guard over the vault in City Hall until such time as the combination of the safe is changed.

His Worship, still smarting over the disastrous fire which destroyed the market building, ordered that two watchmen be employed at the city barn until such time as the finance committee brings in a report regarding adequacy of insurance covering all city buildings.

Councillor Gormley told the City Council that there was approximately $100,000 worth of machinery in the city barn.

Referring to the theft of some $3,300 from the vault at city Hall, Mayor Johnstone told the Council that someone had succeeded in getting into the vault and getting into the vault "which was either unlocked or they knew the combination."

"We have to make some decision," the Mayor said.

Councillor Gaudet said that the investigation was proceeding and that there was not much anyone could say about it.

"We're going to have to insist that the public property committee give serious consideration to hiring a watchman for this building."

Councillor Foster said "It seems to me to be manifestly ridiculous that we are, talking about a watchman when we have police right in this building."

Councillor Gormley stated that the police were instructed last year to check this building every hour. The office doors should be locked and the outside doors locked and checked.

"Councillor Foster: 'one of the doors must have been open last night they certainly should be able to check these doors.'"

"Councillor O'Neill: 'It was a source of amazement to me that the old safe had not been placed in the new vault.'"

In reply to a question by Councillor O'Neill, assistant city clerk John Butler stated that the cash drawers had been locked and pried open.

Councillor Foster: "we should not discuss this too much now as the investigation is underway."

Mayor Johnstone: "five people had the combination to the vault. I think only one should have it."

Councillor Gaudet agreed that the combination should be changed and that more security measures should be effected.

Mayor Johnstone: "today's receipts are in the vault. There is nothing to stop the same person from talking them."

Councillor Foster: "I say two things, either too many persons have the combination of the safe or the office staff was negligent."

After further discussion it was decided that a police constable be put on guard over the vault until the combination is changed. This will likely be today, and two watchmen will take over the city barn at night until the finance committee reports back to the council regarding the adequacy of fire insurance coverage on civic buildings and property.

Co-op Super Market Reports Good Year Despite Big Fire

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Co-Op Super Market was held last evening at the Clover Club and was presided over by the president, Mr. Lorne C. Callbeck.

In his review of the Association's operations for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1958, Mr. Callbeck, showed that in spite of the disastrous fire that occurred on the 29th of April, 1958, the business had recovered itself in such a rapid manner that the record year of 1956 had almost been equalled.

It was rather remarkable, Mr. Callbeck said, "that we were able to reopen our entire establishment on the 1st of August, or only 94 days after the fire." The reconstructed portion of the store has been made in the same fire-proof manner as the Richmond Street wing, and, although it follows the same general pattern as before, some improvements were introduced. The second floor contains the well-appointed offices of the Household Finance Company and an apartment.

MORE SHAREHOLDERS

It was noted that the number of shareholders had increased from 692 to 772, and that the value of the shares to the members had been increased by raising the interest rate from 5 per cent to 6 per cent. The share capital had increased by over $7,000 during the past year, and now stands at over $89,000. Some $13,000 had been added to the

3-Day Institute On Nursing Opens In Charlottetown

The Association of Nurses of Prince Edward Island is sponsoring a three-day Institute on Nursing for all Island nurses. The attendance has been gratifying with nurses coming from as far west as Alberta and from the eastern sections of the Island as well.

The morning sessions were held at the Prince Edward Island Hospital and the evening sessions at the Charlottetown Hospital. The Institute began with a review of the technique in taking blood pressure by Miss Frances MacMillan, R.N., Instructor in Nursing at the Prince Edward Island Hospital School of Nursing. This was followed by a comprehensive lecture on "Newer Interpretation of Blood Pressure Reading" by L.H. Killorn, M.D., Charlottetown Hospital. In his talk, he emphasized the significance of blood pressure readings. Nurses were interested to learn that some people may have a relatively high reading with no other symptoms, whereas other people will show adverse symptoms with a mild elevation in blood pressure. Dr. Killorn pointed out the erroneous interpretation people may make of an elevation in blood pressure. Many persons do not realize that tension may be caused merely by a visit to the doctor's office. This tension alone may be the reason for a raise in blood pressure. In such a case blood pressure elevation has no clinical significance; the same person may have a normal blood pressure an hour later when he is at home.

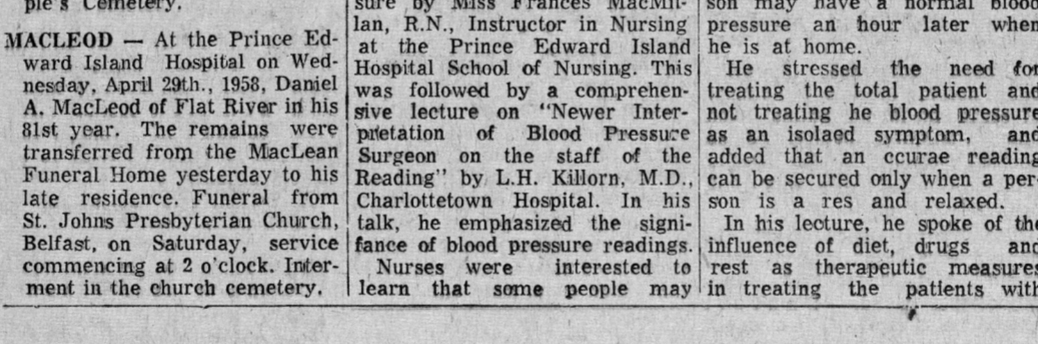

He stressed the need for treating the total patient and not treating the blood pressure as an isolated symptom, and added that an accurate reading can be secured only when a person is at rest and relaxed. In his lecture, he spoke of the influence of diet, drugs and rest as therapeutic measures in treating the patients with

Why the Department Is vigilant about fish

Everyone concerned with the fishing industry wants it to grow larger and become more profitable. This is only possible with top quality fish at all times, capable of competing successfully with other high quality foods.

Inspection by the Department of Fisheries—an insistence on good quality—aims the industry in giving consumers what they want, and so helps to sell more fish and fish products.

In addition, educational work, scientific research, inspection of packing and processing plants, and many other operations all combine to help the industry become more efficient.

Boxes of whitefish similar to this are opened by the Department of Fisheries' Inspection Service. If the fish meets the required standards the box will be stamped "Inspected."
