A FEW OF THE DISEASES TREATED.

THE HEART AND CIRCULATION, WITH COMPLICATIONS.
I. Functional Heart Disease. II. Organic Heart Disease. III. Dropsy.
IV. Varicose Veins.
CIRCULATION.—The circulatory organs include the heart, the arteries, the veins and the capillary vessels. Their diseases, though not numerous, are extremely serious in their nature.

HEART.—It is impossible to glance through even the smallest newspaper without seeing notice of a sudden death—of a man or woman, apparently in the full flush of health and strength, being snatched away to an untimely grave. As there is no organ more important than the heart, so there is none in which diseases may be so suddenly fatal, and the appalling frequency of deaths from this cause, and their terrible nature, force the subject upon our notice and demand our attention.

DISEASES OF THE STOMACH.—Indigestion, Flatulence, Sour Stomach, Weak Stomach and Chronic Constipation are the common heritage of the people of America. We cure them certainly and speedily.
THE LIVER.—The largest organ in the body, and one of the most important, is more often diseased (in this climate) than any of the vital organs. Few people are completely free from some form of Liver Complaint. The symptoms are too well known to everybody to demand special mention at our hands further than to call attention to the weary feeling, sleepy, dull feeling after meals, salivary, green skin, pain under the shoulder blades, and dull pains in the right side, with alternation of costiveness or looseness of the bowels. See our reports of cases cured.

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE NASAL PASSAGES AND RESPIRA-TORY ORGANS.
I. Catarrh. II. Hay Fever. III. Laryngitis. IV. Bronchitis. V. Asthma. VI. Consumption. VII. Emphysema. VIII. Pneumonia.

ONE IN FOUR.—When it is known that twenty-five per cent. of the human race perish from diseases of the respiratory organs, it will be evident to the most careless that such death may be the lot of any. The question of real importance to those suffering from any form of the above mentioned diseases is: "Can you cure me?" We answer: "Our record in the past is the best evidence we can offer."

CHRONIC DISEASES PECULIAR TO WOMEN.
I. Retarded Menses. II. Amenorrhoea. III. Dysmenorrhoea. IV. Menorrhagia. V. Change of Life. VI. Chlorosis. VII. Leucorrhoea. VIII. Displacement. IX. Prolapsus Uteri. X. Flexions and Versions. XI. Inversion. XII. Ulcerations. XIII. Cancer.
XIV. Inflammations (Uterus and Ovaries). XV. Tumors. XVI. Pruritus. XVII.
Vaginitis. XVIII. Barrenness.

Our success has been very marked in the treatment of the diseases peculiar to women and girls. Over two-thirds of our patients are ladies. Old, young, married and single, can consult us on matters peculiar to their sex, however delicate, in perfect confidence.

CHRONIC DISEASES PECULIAR TO MEN.
BROKEN DOWN.—It is a sad but unavoidable reflection that thousands of men, who should be the bone and sinew of the country, pillars of society, of the church and of the State, are broken down both physically and mentally before they have reached the zenith of their usefulness. Early indiscretions, the result of ignorance and folly; over-exertion of mind and body, induced by inordinate ambition; dissipation and exposure, are continually working the ruin of thousands, whose ability, energy and integrity the world needs to preserve the equilibrium of civilization.

More Russian Atrocities

A LAND AGAINST WHICH ALL CHRISTENDOM SHOULD JOIN HANDS

A correspondent of the London Times says the strike in Russia is in truth a revolt, and is so treated by the authorities. The reason given is that Russian workmen are such ignorant, unreasonable beings that they would become utterly unmanageable without the vigorous and summary action of the judiciary. About a month ago a case occurred that illustrates the childish absurdity of the men and the efficacious action of the authorities. A falling off in trade caused the proprietors of certain large mills to reduce the production and discharge a number of the hands whose services were no longer useful. As soon as this decision was known a raving crowd of semi-savage workmen surrounded the managers and insisted that work should be found for the usual number of hands, threatening personal violence if their demand was unheeded, while at the same time a quantity of valuable machinery was destroyed by the rioters. The police were called in and settled them very quickly. During the night fifty of the ringleaders were quietly spirited away, no one knew whither or how. The rest, left headless, whimpered like beaten children and prayed to their favorite saints. By and by it leaked out among the diplomats that the fifty poor fellows had been hurried off to the salt mines of Cracow, where they were scourged, starved and ill-used till they imitated the example of Mr. Sikida and sought death as a refuge from tyranny. All this horror was kept as quiet as possible, that the element of mystery might be added to the other atrocities. While the government got rid of fifty dangerous, because manly, enemies, their fellow-laborers were awed by the incomprehensible disappearance of their leaders. This is how they do things in Russia.

News Notes.

An English syndicate is reported to be trying to acquire control of all the hat factories in New Jersey.

Arrangements are being perfected for the proposed convention of retail merchants which will be held in Winnipeg.

The lumber shipments from the Miramichi in 1889 were 110 million superficial feet, against 73 millions in 1888, 68 millions in 1887, and 72 millions in 1886.

The long predicted fuel famine in the British Isles is again postponed by the discovery of coal deposits at the foot of Shakespeare's Cliff at Dover.

A Warsaw despatch says that the police have arrested the midwife, H. Skubinski, whose terrible crime in setting fire to her house and burning to death fifteen infants who she feared that the police were about to interfere with her trade of baby farming and starving, has just been made public.

There is a great deal of discontent and distress throughout the kingdom of Italy.
Households where the Pope's very name seems forgotten now cry out that they were always more prosperous under the temporal power of His Holiness, while the Radicals complain that the Government is ruining the country for the sake of maintaining a huge and useless army merely to propitiate Bismarck.

A special telegram to the St. Louis Post-Despatch says a terrible hurricane swept over part of northern Texas on the morning of the 25th. The Masonic hall at Gainsfield was torn to pieces, and the court house unroofed. The Sante Fe Railroad depot was wrecked, and some twenty buildings blown down. Nobody was killed, although several persons were more or less injured. The damage aggregates over $200,000.

A courier has just arrived from Lower Hassayampa, Arizona, reporting that a tremendous mountain of water came down the Hassayampa about two o'clock on Saturday morning, by which 34 men lost their lives at the lower dam, where they were at work, thirty-one whites and three Chinese.
The courier reports the town of Wickenburg all right. The loss of life in the valley between Wickenburg and the dam may not be known for some days, but is without doubt considerable. The number may possibly reach 30 or 40. The courier states that the upper dam has undoubtedly broken and carried the two dams below with it. The loss of property in dams alone will amount to about $800,000.

Odds and Ends.

An overdrawn account.—The sensational newspaper report.

"This is the unkindest cut of all," said a public man, with a groan, when he saw his portrait in the daily newspaper.

"I desire to insert this small advertisement in your paper to-morrow morning," she said.

"This," said the advertising clerk, looking it over, "will go among the 'wants.'"
"Have you no 'wish' column?"

"No, mum."

"Then, sir," said the young lady from Boston, haughtily, "you need not insert it I simply wish a situation as governess.
That is all. It is not a case of want. Is there any newspaper printed in English in this place?"

Scrawley—"I have called to offer you some of my choice humorous articles and paragraphs."

Editor—"Young man, this is a religious paper, and we accept no such frivolous matter."

Scrawley—"Oh, excuse me; I saw some squibs in your last issue, copied without credit, and—"

Editor—"As I said before, we are conducting a religious paper, and we—ahem—select such things from our esteemed contemporaries."

Two Thousand Drowned.

NINE HUNDRED FISHING BOATS, WITH ALL ON BOARD, GO DOWN IN A STORM OFF THE JAPANESE COAST.

A late San Francisco despatch says: The Pacific Mail steamer China arrived to-day from Hong Kong and Yokohama, Japan.
The people state that the storm which swept along the Boshu coast on January 24 was very disastrous. About one thousand fishing boats, with between twenty-five hundred and three thousand fishermen, drifted out to sea. Nine hundred of these boats, with all the men on board, were lost.
Most of the bodies drifted upon the beach and were taken care of by relatives. The scenes by the families and friends were heartrending. The same day eleven boats were wrecked in the sea off Toqishima during a storm and fifty fishermen were drowned. January 25th twenty-three fishermen were drowned on the coast of Maschawa.

News has also been received of the disastrous storm which swept over the coasts of Tonkomo and Chosie Kadsusa district on the night of January 26th. Over three hundred fishing boats that were out never returned. Funeral ceremonies for about six hundred fishermen supposed to have been drowned have been observed. Whole villages are in mourning. China advises the assassination of three Europeans—M. D.
Argene, wife and son. Their bodies were found in a house that they had been occupying. The same paper states that Messrs.
Bogno and Costa, whose abduction was previously announced, are still detained by bandits in the mountain fastness. The bandits demand heavy ransoms, and negotiations are in progress to that end.

The Secret of a Long Life.

You sometimes see a woman whose old age is as exquisite as the perfect bloom of her youth. She seems condensed sweetness and grace. You wonder how this has come about; you wonder how it is her life has been a long and happy one. Here are some of the reasons:

She knew how to forget disagreeable things.

She understood the art of enjoyment.

She kept her nerves well in hand, and inflicted them on no one.

She believed in the goodness of her own daughters and in that of her neighbors.

She cultivated a good digestion.

She mastered the art of saying pleasant words.

She did not expect too much from her friends.

She made whatever work came to her congenial.

She retained her illusions, and did not believe that all the world was wicked or unkind.

She relieved the miserable, and sym-pathized with the sorrowful.

She retained an even disposition, and made the best of everything.

She did whatever came to her cheerful and well.

She never forgot that kind words and a smile cost nothing, but are priceless treasures to the discouraged.

She did unto others as she would be done by, and now that old age has come to her and there is a halo of white hair about her head, she is loved and considered.

This is the secret of a long life and a

Things Best Left Undone.

Do not write on ruled paper, or on that decorated with printed sunflower or blossoms of any kind.

Do not introduce your girl friend to the gentleman visitor. Instead, say "Miss Brown will you allow me to present Mr.
Jones?"

Do not talk especially to one person when you have three or four visitors. Instead, make the conversation general.

Do not attempt to take care of a man's overcoat—he has a vote and ought to be able to look after his own clothes.

Do not ask people who they are in mourning for. If you don't know, wait until you find out, and in the meantime don't ask after the members of their family.

Do not giggle when a smile would answer, and don't talk in a jesting way about things that are holy to other people.

Do not laugh at anybody's form of worship—respect a toad praying to a mushroom.

Do not say the rules of etiquette are nonsense—they are made up for your comfort and mine, and arranged so that the feelings of every human being are considered.

Do not get into the habit of laughing at elderly people. It is not only un ladylike, but it is vulgar.

Do not think it clever to find out by pumping, the private affairs of your friend.
There is no reason why you should lay bare her heart for an inquisitive duty to peck at.

Do not get into debt, but if you have been guilty, deny yourself everything possible that you may be free once more.

Do not believe that all these don'ts are not spoken to you in the kindest manner as from girl to girl, but one has to suffer and make mistakes one's self to find out into just what pitfalls one is apt to tumble.
—March Ladies' Home Journal

How to Marry Well.

What girls should never forget is to be neat. Not primly so but daintily so. The girl well got up, with irreplaceable gloves and shoes that fit, though her gown be only cotton, yet if it be well turned out, may compete with the richest, while the slovenly dresser, who scorns or forgets to give attention to details, is passed over by the discontented eye, though her gown may be a masterpiece of Worth.

A girl should learn to put her gown on properly. No creature living takes more heed of externals than your orthodox man. He may not know the price, color or material of your clothes, but he will know to a nicety whether you are well or badly gowned.

One special point I would impress upon the girl who desires, (as all girls do) to range themselves well, to make a good marriage—is to be gentle. The craze for vivacity, for the free and easy style that borders so closely on the manners of the demi monde that distinguished the society of ten years ago has providently died a natural death.
Now-a-days men are sensible enough to look for comfort in their married lives. And surely the knowledge that one's future wife has a heart as tender as it is sympathetic should, and does, go far to arrange a man's decision of who shall be the partner of his daily life.—The Duchess in Ladies Home Journal
